Greek Military Ouster Urged by Constantine

Kidnap Victim Mrs. Frances Howe and her husband, banker E. Frank Howe, talk to newsmen after her release Tuesday in Glendale, Calif.

Butcher, Cabinet Maker Do Half-Baked Kidnaping Job

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Two amateurish kidnapers held a banker's wife hostage for $80,000 but then settled for $50,000. Then, police said, they got only 11 blocks with the payoff.

A butcher and a cabinet maker were taken into custody Tuesday with the ransom money and the unharmed hostage, Frances Howe, under a blanket on the floor of their car's back seat.

Car Halted

When a quickly mobilized police detail halted the car, the armed men surrendered without drawing their pistols, officers said.

Mrs. Howe, 60, told newsmen that one of the kidnapers earlier told her, "if everything goes well, no one will be hurt."

Booked on suspicion of kidnaping for ransom were Robert Sheader, 32, who said he is a cabinet maker, and Edson Lagrand Little, 26, who said he is a meatcutter. Police said both gave addresses in nearby North Hollywood.

As the two were being booked, Mrs. Howe and her husband, E. Frank Howe, related details of the two-hour ordeal:

Shortly after Mrs. Howe had gotten their 15-year-old son off to school, the doorbell rang at their $70,000 hilltop home in Glendale, a suburb northeast of Los Angeles.

"Two men with guns grabbed me and pushed me inside and told me they wanted money from my husband's bank," she said.

They commanded her to telephone the Union Bank's branch in nearby Van Nuys where her husband is vice president. On the phone, Howe was told to put $80,000 in a specified street trash can "if you want to see her alive."

When Howe said that much was ridiculous, the caller suggested $50,000. The banker said he didn't even have that much.

"Take it from the bank," he was told.

"That's also ridiculous," Howe said. "How can I take it from the bank? I'll have to tell someone."

'No Joke'

"Then tell somebody, in case you think I'm not serious, I'll put your wife on the phone."

Mrs. Howe told her husband shakily: "This is no joke. They mean it."

Howe called police, got the money from the bank, drove to the drop location and left the money in a paper bag. Some 50 police staked out the location.

Police caught the car about two miles from where they saw one of its occupants pull the ransom money from the trash can.

Successful Launch Aimed at Studying Radiation of Sun

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Beaming back strong signals to earth, a robot "interplanetary weatherman" named Pioneer 8 rocketed into orbit around the sun today to help weave a network that could warn astronauts of deadly solar radiation storms in space.

En route to the sun-circling path between that of Earth and Mars, Pioneer 8's fiery Delta booster rocket successfully kicked a radio-relay communications satellite into orbit around Earth to be used for testing America's man-to-the-moon tracking network.

"We now have the Pioneer 8 spacecraft in a solar orbit," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said 35 minutes after the double payload blasted off at 9:08 a.m., EST.

Radiation Storms

Scientists refer to the Pioneer family of spacecraft as "interplanetary weathermen" and said sensors aboard Pioneer 8 could provide the best information yet on how great a danger radiation storms emitted from the sun pose to astronauts.

Meanwhile, the eight-sided communications payload—called TTS for test and training satellite—was to act as an orbital relay station to exercise America's Apollo man-in-space global tracking network.

Member During World Wars

Woman, 87, Eyes Congress Seat

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The first woman ever elected to Congress is now 87 years old, but she says she may run again on the same issue that helped make her a national figure—peace.

Miss Jeannette Rankin of Montana said in a telephone interview she is seriously considering entering the Republican primary in Montana's western district.

If she entered the race, she said, it would be "to bring the issue of peace in Vietnam to the people."

She said some Montanans have asked her to consider entering the race for the seat now held by Democrat Arnold Olsen.

Miss Rankin said her decision will depend on the status of the war and whether she feels people in her district want her to run.

Miss Rankin first went to Congress in 1917. During that term she was one of a few members who voted against America's entry in World War I.

She left public office after one term, but returned in 1940—again as a Montana representative—and history repeated. This time she stood alone against the entire Congress and President Franklin D. Roosevelt when she voted against the United States' entry in World War II.

Both times she stood on the floor of the House and said "I cannot vote for war."

Army Split Raises Fear Of Civil War

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — King Constantine, evidently backed by part of the army, called on his people today to oust the military dictatorship and restore democracy in this land where it was born.

His appeal raised the specter

King Constantine

of civil war in the wake of withdrawal of part of Greek forces from Cyprus in the face of Turkish demands.

The king repudiated the military coup of last April.

Shortly before he spoke troops and tanks took up positions around key buildings in Athens, and the state-run radio said the government was ready to defend itself.

'Spirit of Revenge'

The 27-year-old monarch declared leaders of last April's coup were only a segment of the army.

"A spirit of revenge will not prevail," he said, "but I will not accept any disobedience from now on and it will be crushed mercilessly. There will be no compromise."

He referred to the Communist-led civil war of 20 years ago and asked the people to assist him, follow him and support him.

The king spoke by radio from Salonika, the major city of northern Greece.

There were reports that the 3rd Armored Corps in Salonika had rebelled against the military dictatorship. The leader of the corps is a Gen. Peridis, known as a strong supporter of the king and an opponent of the April coup.

The Greek Embassy in London said the Ministry of Information in Athens reported that a coup had been attempted by a group of army officers.

Airlift Boosts Level of Troops Past Korea's

SAIGON (AP) — The biggest airlift of the Vietnam war pushed U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam to about 475,000 today, more than the peak of 472,800 American fighting men in the Korean war at its height 14 years ago.

The U.S. Command took the security wraps off the transfer from the United States of two more brigades of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division, World War II's Screaming Eagles of Bastogne. About 7,000 of the paratroopers have been flown across the Pacific since Nov. 17, and another 3,000 are due by Dec. 29.

Wearing combat fatigues with a .45 revolver and dagger tucked in his belt, the 101st commander, Maj. Gen. Olinto M. Barsanti, snapped a salute on his arrival today at Bien Hoa Airbase and reported to Gen. William C. Westmoreland: "The 101st Airborne Division is present for combat in Vietnam."

Former Commander

Westmoreland, now commander of all U.S. troops in Vietnam, was the Screaming Eagles commander from 1958 to 1960. The division's 1st Brigade has been in Vietnam since July 1965.

When completed, the airlift will have involved 393 transpacific flights, which after discharging men and supplies generally took off within 1 5minutes on the 9,783-mile flight back to 101st Division Headquarters at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

U.S. spokesmen said the airlift is the longest and largest ever staged direct from the United States to Southeast Asia "and gave us an excellent opportunity to test our airlift capabilities."

The lift is delivering 10,356 troops, 5,118 tons of vehicles and cargo plus the division's full complement of 105mm cannon and 37 helicopters.

Barsanti and his command group arrived on a C141 Starlifter jet transport piloted by Gen. Howell M. Estes Jr. commander of the Air Force Military Airlift Command.

Could be Faster

"Hi, Westy," said Estes, beaming, as he stepped from the plane in gold nylon flight suit. He told newsmen the transfer of more than 10,000 men could probably have been accomplished within seven days in an emergency.

The airlift of the two brigades gave Westmoreland the additional manpower about six weeks ahead of schedule. President Johnson has promised 525,000 men by early next year.

The new paratroopers are not expected to go into combat immediately and will receive some training before heading into the field. Then they will join the 101st's 1st Brigade, which is now part of the American Division.

The U.S. Command also removed the security wraps today from a new American infantry operation 28 miles northeast of Saigon and said 52 Communist troops had been killed in six days. Total U.S. losses for the period were put at two dead and 25 wounded.

Deny Rice Harvest

The multi-battalion search and destroy operation by units of the 25th Infantry Division is aimed at supporting revolutionary development (pacification) programs in the area and denying the rice harvest to the Communists.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force B52 bombers hammered suspected North Vietnamese troop and supply areas Tuesday night 17 miles west-southwest of Dak To in the central highlands.

Over North Vietnam, bad weather continued to hamper strikes by American bombers Tuesday.

U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawk pilots attacked a transshipment point 25 miles east-southeast of Haiphong, but smoke and dust in the area prevented assessment of damage. Other Navy pilots reported damaging four trucks 20 miles east-northeast of Haiphong.

88 Missions

Despite cloudy ceilings of around 2,000 feet, U.S. pilots few 88 missions, generally against storage areas and supply lines.

MIG21s and MIG17s came up near Haiphong, and there was at least one dogfight, but neither pilot scored any hits. A spokesman said that an F105 Thunderchief and a Red MIG unloaded a flurry of missiles at one another, but all went wide.

An American spokesman also reported that 22 Communist soldiers defected Tuesday from a remote village in Quang Tin province below Da Nang.

According to preliminary reports, 20 of the men were Viet Cong and two were North Vietnamese regulars, including one officer.

Seek Power in Mideast

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some well-informed U.S. officials are convinced Soviet military pilots have been flying combat missions for Yemen's republican government against royalist forces attacking San'a, the capital city.

This reported involvement of Soviet fliers, using Soviet-made planes and supported by Soviet ground crews—is considered here to reflect Moscow's desire to establish power positions in the Middle East, once the exclusive domain of Western interests.

The possibility of Soviet fighter participation was raised a few days ago when a royalist information minister said the body of a Soviet pilot, carrying Russian-language papers, had been found. In official quarters in Washington, it is said there's no doubt the downed airman was a Soviet.

Strategic Importance

Yemen has considerable strategic importance because —along with the neighboring region until recently known as Aden—it dominates the 12-mile-wide southern gateway into the Red Sea.

It has a commanding position on the Suez Canal, linking the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean. The canal has been closed since the June war between Israel and the Arab states but is expected to be reopened eventually.

Washington authorities say privately they can't recall a conflict similar to that in Yemen in which Soviet pilots have played such an active role.

There have been reports of such involvement in the past in troubled lands, but in the present case responsible policy makers say they have no doubt the information is true. Whether this marks the beginning of a new phase in Soviet foreign operations is yet to be determined, they caution.

The war in Yemen is between the republican regime and Yemeni royalist forces which took to the hills in September 1962 when the monarchy was overthrown. The struggle has been going on, with periodic eruptions of violence, for five years.

But two recent developments changed the political framework in which it has been conducted.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt pulled out the last of his Soviet-armed troops, which once totaled around 70,000, as a result of a deal with King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. The deal was made necessary by Nasser's need for new financing following Egyptian defeats in the June war.

Nasser had backed the republican government and Faisal the royalist group. The result of Egyptian withdrawal was to create at least a partial power vacuum.

Also within the last month Britain removed its forces from Aden, giving way to a new native regime which proclaimed itself the "Peoples Republic of Yemen" on the ground Aden is really "South Yemen." Again the result has been to contribute to the area's political uncertainty.

These developments were long foreseen and both the Soviets and Chinese Communists have maneuvered to take advantage of them. Johnson administration officials regard the prospects for the future there with some anxiety.

Mrs. Phillips Dissents

'Nothing' Housing Bill Passed in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Common Council voted 13-6 Tuesday to adopt an open housing ordinance, which was denounced immediately by civil rights advocates, who termed it "too little too late."

Mrs. Vel Phillips, the only Negro member of the council, voted against the measure, after four attempts to strengthen it with amendments failed.

The ordinance parallels existing state open housing laws, which cover an estimated 25 per cent of the housing in Wisconsin.

"Thanks for nothing," Mrs. Phillips said to the aldermen after the proposal was passed. "You are very much too late with very much too little."

4 Bills Defeated

The council has defeated four stronger open housing bills sponsored by Mrs. Phillips. Each time she was the only one to vote in favor of the measure.

The newly adopted ordinance falls far short of demands by open housing groups, who promised to continue nightly demonstrations until a more satisfactory measure is passed.

They termed the bill passed Tuesday "a nothing ordinance" and held a march on the city's predominantly Negro near North Side, marking the 107th consecutive night of demonstrations. There were no incidents.

Grenade Kills Neenah Soldier In S. Vietnam

NEENAH — A 1966 graduate of Neenah High School, who wrote from a hospital where he was recuperating from war injuries that he wanted to "get back to the lines with the fellows and do my part," was killed Monday by an enemy hand grenade.

Army Spec. 4 John P. Paulson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Paulson, 223 E. Peckham St., died of multiple fragment wounds sustained during combat somewhere in the Bong Son Valley, his parents were notified Monday afternoon.

Paulson, who was on a night defense perimeter mission with the 1st Air Cavalry Division, had been in Vietnam seven months. He would have been eligible for home leave in the spring.

50 Rescue Missions

During his months in Vietnam, Paulson made more than 50 rescue missions.

Until two weeks ago he had spent one month in a base hospital near Saigon for minor injuries and during this time his letters home continually expressed an eagerness to "do my part," his family said.

The eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Paulson is survived by two brothers and four sisters.

He entered the Army Dec. 5, 1966 and was sent to the Vietnam battlefront May 11.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Westgor Funeral Home.

He is the fourth Twin City soldier killed in Vietnam in the past two years and the first from Neenah.

Paulson had written his parents that he was with Army Pfc. Charles Krueger of Menasha on the day the latter was killed May 31 while on 1st Air Cavalry duty. Krueger was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynus Krueger, 1379 Bonnie Dr.

Defense of Hershey Might be Required

Department Disagrees With Draft Policy but Supports It in Court

By STEPHEN M. AUG

WASHINGTON (AP) The Justice Department may eventually find itself defending in court an action by draft chief Lewis B Hershey with which it disagrees

he situation could result from several suits--the principal one filed by the National Student Association--challenging Lt Gen Hershey's recommendation that local draft boards strip deferments from persons who interfere with the inducting process He urged the boards to declare such persons draft delinquents, making them subject to priority induction into the service

It was this policy, announced by Hershey in an Oct 26 letter to draft boards, that brought him into conflict with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark

Contrary to Law

Justice Department officials have said Hershey's proposal is both unconstitutional and contrary to Selective Service law

The department is said to feel that if an individual is guilty of a crime such as destroying a draft card or interfering with the draft, he should be prosecuted in court rather than subjected to immediate induction

The National Student Association with campus units at 335 U S colleges, is seeking a federal district court injunction in Washington to prevent Hershey or local draft boards from enforcing his directive.

Seek Injunction

It also asks that all Selective Service regulations dealing with classification of registrants as delinquent be declared unconstitutional The association will seek a preliminary injunction Thursday at a district court hearing

The department has, basically, three courses open to it:

— It could question whether the NSA is entitled to bring the case to court because it is not an individual who has been reclassified and therefore has not been injured by the Hershey directive or the law

— The department may point out that a 1967 Selective Service Act provision requires that before reclassification may be challenged an individual must refuse to be inducted — Or the department could defend the Hershey memorandum.

$300,000 Worth of Drug Confiscated At Earlier Arrests

RACINE (AP)—A third man was arrested Tuesday as federal agents and police continued their three-month investigation of illegal marijuana traffic in the Racine-Kenosha area.

Two other men were arrested Monday night when 300 pounds of marijuana worth an estimated $300,000 was confiscated by police.

Arrested earlier Tuesday was Antonia Mendoza, 32, who gave his address, police said, as Laredo, Tex. He was arraigned before U.S. Court Commissioner Anthony De Mark, who set bail at $5,000.

Two Racine men, Santos Castro, 42, and Samuel Coca, 33, were arrested Monday night on a Kenosha County road. Police found six gunny sacks containing marijuana in their pick-up truck

Castro and Coca were released within hours of their arrest after they posted bonds of $5,000 and $7,500 respectively A preliminary hearing for all three men is scheduled Dec. 21.

Ex-Convict Freddie Brant, right, has revealed that he is relieved his impersonation of a physician in Groveton, Tex., was discovered. He was arrested Friday. With Brant is his attorney, Emmett Eolvin Jr. (AP Wirephoto)

Town Rallies 'Round Fake Doctor

DALLAS, Tex (AP) The man who was a Texas lumber town's only doctor for more than five months—until jailed as an ex-convict imposter last week—says he is astonished at the way townspeople have rallied around him.

"I'm amazed by these people, by their faith in me and their desire to help," said Freddie Brant, alias Dr. Reid L Brown.

He referred to the residents of Groveton, who have circulated a petition urging for lenience in prosecuting Brant on perjury and forgery charges. They also have talked of raising money to send him to medical school so he can become a legitimate physician

"I wouldn't be accepted by any medical school because of my prison record," the crew-cut Brant, 44, said at a news conference Tuesday in the office of his lawyer, Emmett Colvin He posted $10,000 bond at Kaufman, Tex., earlier in the day

"I'd rather they'd donate any money they collect to the hospital fund," he said.

During his stay at Groveton in eastern Texas, he helped organize a drive for a hospital in the town of 1,200. The nearest doctor was more than 30 miles distant before Brant moved into an abandoned clinic in July.

Brant said he'd like to return to Groveton when free of his legal entanglements—as an X-ray or laboratory technician, for which he is qualified, rather than as a make-believe physician.

"It will feel wonderful to work again without fear of something happening," he said, adding that it "was a great relief" to be found out.

The charges stem from his posing as Dr. Reid L.Brown from 1964 to last May at Terrell State Hospital in Terrell, Tex., where he worked as a physician taking psychiatric training. He co-signed more than 100 certificates of commitment for patients.

His unmasking began two weeks ago when a Shreveport, La., drug firm received Brant's order for cold pills and recalled another customer of the same name in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Company officials queried the real Dr. Brown, for whom Brant once had worked in Chattanooga for years as a lab technician. Brown alerted Texas medical authorities.

Johnson Reasserts Vietnam Policy at Labor Convention

By NEIL GILBRIDE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Johnson says he will not be deterred, influenced or inflamed by his Vietnam war critics "regardless of my polls and regardless of the elections."

Departing from his prepared text in a nationally televised and broadcast speech to the AFL-CIO convention here Tuesday, the President said: "I am going down the center of the road—doing my duty as I see it —for the best of my country."

The representatives of organized labor roared their approval when Johnson said he would always be ready to hear and act on any proposal for ending the Vietnam war. And their volume increased when he added

"But in the meantime I want you to know—and I want all Americans to know—that I am not going to be deterred I am not going to be influenced I am not going to be inflamed by a bunch of political, selfish men who want to advance their own interest."

Criticize Republicans

The President also had harsh words for congressional Republicans, terming them "wooden soldiers" warring on progress.

He asked the representatives of the 14-million-member "house of Labor" to help Democrats elect a "great Congress" in 1968.

About 2,000 convention delegates, officials and guests frequently interrupted Johnson's jibes at the Republicans with cheers, applause and laughter.

"The people know that the old Republican buggy can only go one way—backwards downhill," Johnson said. "That old Republican buggy has been colliding with us all year long," he said of GOP efforts in Congress to block or alter his proposals on education, antipoverty, medical care and Social Security.

Meany Backing

The President's pledge to stand firm on his Vietnam policies drew renewed backing from AFL-CIO President George Meany

"We support you, Mr President, and we urge you to carry on," said Meany

The only part of Johnson's speech met with silence was his plea for voluntary wage restraints, similar to his request last week for price restraint from business

Rising prices, Johnson said, are "simply murder to all labor and to people with low or moderate incomes."

he labor delegates earlier this week said they wouldn't be bound by any voluntary restraints, such as the former White House guideline that until last year attempted to hold wage hikes to 3 2 per cent a year

Tax Recovery Okayed for AMC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed legislation Tuesday which will provide a $20 million tax recovery for Wisconsin's largest private employer, the financially-ailing American Motor Corp.

The company, which has Wisconsin facilities at Kenosha and Milwaukee, has incurred heavy losses in recent years, although its sales now are reported increasing. AMC is the fourth largest U.S automobile producer.

The House members voted 273 to 104 on the bill which would allow a company in AMC's situation to carry back losses for tax purposes five years instead of three. The measure was a Senate rider to an unrelated House bill.

King Urges Ouster of Military

state-run national radio declared "The April 21 revolution is determined to fulfill its mission"

The radio did not elaborate, but it was clear that the junta colonels were determined to crush any move to oust them

Athens remained outwardly calm as the king staked the future of Greece and his crown on a move to oust the colonels.

He had been obviously reluctant to endorse last spring's coup that overthrew the constitutional government. Informed sources said at the time he was not informed in advance of the coup and was forced to approve the military takeover.

Military Might

Soldiers poured into the city and Greek air force jets took to the skies and swooped low over the capital

Athens was cut off by telephone from the rest of the country and some other countries could be reached by telephone and cable.

The first sign of trouble came when armored cars and tanks surrounded the Parliament building shortly after noon. Armored halftracks with troops in full battle dress then began arriving as reinforcements.

The building houses the offices of the junta strong man, Col George Papadopoulos, who led the April coup

Soldiers and police appeared outside the national telecommunications center

Foreign diplomatic officials had been predicting for days that this would be a critical month for the military junta, and that a countercoup could come any moment

Junta Weakened

The junta was weakened by two blows The Cyprus crisis forced it to begin pulling 12,000 Greek soldiers off Cyprus at the demand of Turkey Former Premier Constantine Caramanli spublicly denounced the regime from his self-imposed exile in Paris.

Greek officers returning from Cyprus were resentful because the military regime backed down in the face of Turkey's threats to invade the Mediterranean island to protect the Turkish minority there

It was widely predicted that the returning officers would be inclined to join forces with other military factions opposed to the junta

Caramanlis is a conservative and the junta had hoped to enlist his support The colonels said they organized the spring coup to prevent a Communist takeover

The military regime has been under attack from within and without because of its suppression of civil liberties, including a strict press censorship. Some editors have defied the junta by ceasing publication.

Greece is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but the United States showed its displeasure with the April coup by cutting off arms shipments

If it comes to a showdown between the king and his supporters and the junta, a civil war could wreck the country. The Greek economy is shaky

And should the king fail in any civil strife, it could mean the end of the Greek royal house

There was no immediate word on the whereabouts of 20-year-old Queen Anne-Marie, her young prince and princess, or the mother of the king, Queen Frederika

Living Lump Probably Causes After-Shock

SANTA BARBARA, Calif (AP) — Yes, Mrs Manuel Valencia, that lump in your living room couch probably did shift as you suspected

After a week, Mrs Valencia and her family grew accustomed to the lump and hardly noticed it at all

The lump was gone Tuesday Then, her husband discovered it coiled under the refrigerator, a 7-foot boa constrictor.

State Senate Approves U.S. Constitution Study

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin moved a step closer Tuesday to becoming the 33rd state to ask Congress to call the nation's first constitutional convention

The Senate voted 16-13 to petition the federal government for the session to consider an amendment to the Constitution allowing states a freer hand in the apportioning of state legislatures.

The measure now goes to the Assembly, where Republican leaders are expected to push for final action before adjournment Saturday.

If the lower house agrees to the resolution, only one more state would be needed in the drive for the convention.

The Constitution requires two-thirds of the states, 34, must file requests before Congress could be forced to act.

Violates Right

Supporters of the resolution Tuesday made it clear they thought the U S Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision in 1964 violated the right of citizens to run their own government

"The point is that for 175 years the states have enjoyed the right to determine what kind of government they wanted," said Sen Robert Knowles, R-New Richmond "But this right was taken away"

Knowles, a brother of Gov Warren P Knowles, is the chief author of the resolution

"This is a states' rights issue" he told the Senate "It is not a reapportionment issue and and never has been"

The court ruled that both houses of the legislature must be apportioned by population. The resolution urges an amendment to allow the states to apportion either house by some other yardstick

Healthy for Party

McCarthy Not Finding Backing of War Critics

BY CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics of Vietnam war policy are wishing Sen Eugene J McCarthy well in his challenge of President Johnson but most are shying away from publicly supporting the Minnesota senator's effort

Nearly two weeks after McCarthy announced he would run against Johnson in at least four presidential primaries next year only one member of Congress Rep Don Edwards, D-Calif, has announced he will work for the Minnesotan

In the Senate, several fellow war critics made it known they might run as "favorite son" presidential candidates to provide a focus for antiwar sentiment in their states

Own Re-election

But one of these, Sen George S McGovern, D-S D, quickly backed off and, with an eye to his own expected tough re-election fight announced he would stay out of the presidential picture

Another, Sen Stephen M Young D-Ohio, said he was seriously thinking of becoming a favorite son" but only for one convention ballot He said he expected his state's delegation to support Johnson after that

In general, the war critics have taken the public stance that while they regard McCarthy's candidacy as healthy for the Democratic Party, they plan to stay neutral

They give at least three reasons for this position

"Ultimately," says Rep Donald M Fraser, D-Minn, "the President has to be judged on his total record—not only Vietnam—and over-all I think the President has a tremendously impressive record"

A second factor in the thinking of the Vietnam "doves" is that Sen Robert F Kennedy, D-N Y, despite his protestations of noncandidacy, may eventually wind up in the Democratic race as the major anti-Johnson candidate

Well Ahead

Recent polls on the presidential preferences of Democrats show Kennedy well ahead of Johnson

One prominent House Vietnam critic, asking that he not be quoted by name, said recently that pressure on Kennedy to run is increasing sharply "If Kennedy gets in," he said, "it would obviously be a different ball game"

Kennedy has said he would campaign for Johnson next year But at about the same time, McCarthy entered the race and Kennedy loosed his sharpest attack yet on administration Vietnam policy

The third and perhaps most pressing reason for the neutrality of the "doves" is that all concede McCarthy faces a distinctly uphill fight with minimal prospects of success

"Most of us will wait and see if he gets off the ground" said Rep Brock Adams, D-Wash, adding he expected to be supporting the President next November

Congressmen and senators running in 1968 will have to calculate what effect opposition to the President would have on their own candidacies, both in spring primaries and the 1968 general election

For many, the McCarthy candidacy has come as unwelcome news much as they hope it will have some impact on administration war policy

Most had planned to run a dual campaign, supporting the administration's domestic program and criticizing it for the war McCarthy's candidacy would emphasize this dichotomy

Men Without County Get Double Tax Bill

ATHENS, Ga (AP) — For over a century citizens living on a 1,500 acre tract near Athens have been men without a county

The 15 families now residing in this unclaimed zone were not too upset by the curious state of affairs One year they might pay taxes to Clarke County, the next year to Jackson County

But then both counties decided to present tax bills, and the citizens complained Gov Lester Maddox appointed a surveyor to determine a boundary

Clarke County Chairman David Firor said the counties have agreed that the countyless citizens should pay the county they last paid until the border dispute is settled

Electric Security System Tested at Federal Prison

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif (AP) Electronic security equipment that will detect unauthorized persons entering or leaving restricted areas will be installed at a federal prison for the first time

A test system is being installed at the Federal Correction Institution at Lompoc, Calif

The system, put in by the Western Division of Sylvania Electronic Systems, is called a balanced transmission line It resembles a fence of horizontal metal pipes inserted through vertical wooden posts

Electrical currents within the pipes unite to create a balanced electromagnetic field several feet wide An approaching person disturbs the field, causing the system to set off an alarm Only the presence of bodies weighing more than 40 pounds that approach from either side are detected

Petition Hits Appleton Plan For Pipeline

Neenah Resident Asks DRD to Call For Public Hearings

OSHKOSH — Virgil Achterberg, a Neenah resident who has opposed Appleton's Lake Winnebago pipeline project, said Monday night he had secured almost 1,000 signatures calling for two public hearings on the water "diversion" planned by Appleton

Achterberg, who said he appeared at the pollution hearing on the Upper Fox River Basin conducted by the Division of Resource Development as a "citizen conservationist," attempted to submit his petitions during the hearing.

He was ruled out of order by Maurice Van Susteren, the DRD hearing examiner, who suggested Achterberg send his petitions through the mail.

Public Hearings

Achterberg said he would push for public hearing by the DRD at the Fox Valley University Center in Menasha and at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh in the near future

He stated he had received signatures from citizens of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and parts of Calumet County The petition calls for the hearings "to preserve and protect Lake Winnebago and all connecting water for all citizens."

Achterberg has complained that the pipeline project would siphon off water above the control points of dams in Neenah and Menasha and the incoming flow to the lake would not be increased, resulting in a lowering of the level of Lake Winnebago.

Road Loitering Costs Appleton Men $20 Fines

Two rural Appleton men were fined $20 and costs or 10 days in jail Tuesday after they pleaded guilty to amended charges of loitering on a highway

The fines were levied against Louis J. Richardson, 21, 3240 Wisconsin Road, and Richard J. Stoegbauer, 25, 2441 Hickory Lane.

County police arrested the men for disorderly conduct Sept. 19 after they refused to move from the scene of an accident investigation about 1 25 a.m on State 96, just east of Appleton. The men reportedly parked their motorcycles near the accident. They pleaded innocent to the disorderly counts.

The amended charge was asked Tuesday by Richard Hamilton, assistant district attorney.

Kaukauna School Board

Pay Increase Okayed For Custodial Workers

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday night authorized a 5 per cent pay increase for all custodial help effective Jan. 1 and authorized the bargaining committee to meet with maintenance men on other contract changes being considered

Approval was given to the addition of another man to the maintenance department with Thomas Nytes, business manager, to advertise for additional help.

Board members agreed to increase the pay of the man transporting handicapped children to Plamann Park School from $21 to $23 per day after it was learned, insurance and other costs had been increased on the man's vehicle.

Jehovah Witnesses were authorized to utilize the school auditorium or gym for a three-day period at a cost of $65 per day, the dates to be set after it is determined whether conflicts would arise with regular school functions

Board members reaffirmed their policy to enforce the two-mile radius rule for transporting students to school after Nytes reported that he was receiving many calls from parents who want their children to ride school buses to public and parochial schools even though they live within two miles of the school.

A letter was received from Town of Vandenbroek officials thanking the board for recent action to transport parochial school children effective Jan. 1 rather than Sept. 1 as originally planned. The business manager reported that added cost for transporting these children was to run higher than anticipated as initial cost estimates did not represent true enrollment figures in parochial schools.

A special school board meeting was called for 7 30 p m., Dec. 19 at which time the board will discuss hiring of a new football coach and purchase of property for a north side elementary school.

Approval was given to an in-service education meeting for school faculty on Jan. 3 at which time elementary teachers will study the language arts program, hear three speakers and hold group meetings on English, mathematics and science.

Scheduling Program

High school teachers will undertake an extensive study of the flexible modular scheduling program being employed in many schools. Experts in the field will be on hand to discuss the program and answer questions. Innovation films will be shown and educational television aired.

Plans were made for representation at the State School Boards Association meeting at Milwaukee and the national meeting at Detroit, the number of delegates to be determined after Julian Bichler, superintendent of schools, can ascertain the number of school board members who will be available to the conferences.

Gas Station Theft

Youth Sentenced to Term at Reformatory

"If you continue your way of life, you'll find yourself incarcerated most of the time," Outagamie County Judge Gustave J Keller told a youth with a long record as he sentenced him to the reformatory Tuesday afternoon.

Thomas Kruse, 18, 1726 E. Marquette St., was sent to the reformatory for an indeterminate term not to exceed three years after he earlier pleaded guilty of stealing $1,012 from the Clark Station, 2010 W. Wisconsin Ave., where he was employed The theft occurred Nov. 5.

Kruse had been in the county jail awaiting report of a presentence investigation.

List of Offenses

Judge Keller, in noting the long list of past offenses Kruse had been involved in, said, "If you had started out to make a mess of your life, you couldn't have succeeded better." Kruse, the court noted, had been at the state school for boys.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators implicated two 17-year-old youths in connection with circumstances surrounding the Nov. 5 theft. One youth remained in Juvenile Court and was placed on probation, while the other, Thomas Wege, 2710 E Wisconsin Ave., was waived to criminal court and was bound over to Circuit Court following a preliminary hearing last Friday. No date has been set for his Circuit Court arraignment. He is charged with receiving some of the money stolen from the Clark Station

The three youths were apprehended in Ohio a day after the theft.

Black Creek Man Fined for Part In Fatal Crash

Donald L. Sedo, 22, route 2, Black Creek, who last week pleaded innocent of a traffic charge brought in connection with a fatal accident the night of Nov. 10, was fined $25 and costs or 12 days in jail after he changed his plea to no contest and was found guilty Tuesday afternoon.

Sedo was found guilty by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller. County police had charged him with passing into on coming traffic. Sedo's car was involved in an accident that resulted in the death of Gary Lee Hooyman, 18, route 3, Seymour.

Sedo's car crashed head-on into the Hooyman vehicle about 8 p.m. Nov. 10 on State 54, a mile east of Black Creek. Hooyman died three hours after the accident.

Police said that Sedo's car was passing another westbound auto on State 54 when he struck the other car in the left rear and veered into the path of the oncoming Hooyman auto. Sedo was injured in the crash.

To Your Good Health

Psychiatrist Should Treat an Upset Child

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a problem that frightens me. It concerns my 2½-year-old son. He can't sleep. I don't mean insomnia He is very tired and falls asleep easily only to wake every few minutes with a shriek and loud crying.

I can't find out the problem by questioning him.

He is an only child and has been subjected to hospital stays, pain and surgery. (Five times to date for surgical procedures alone) Most of his life has been spent wearing large plaster casts on his legs as he was born with a compound clubfoot condition. He's in plaster now.

Dr. Molner

He is handsome, intelligent, large for his age and fine during the daytime, though he is high strung Can you recommend something for us? — Mrs. A G T

If he were my child, poor little fellow, I would consult a child psychiatrist. As I've so often tried to make clear in this column, psychiatry isn't only for patients with a severe mental illness. It is for patients with any sort of emotional problem with which they can't cope.

At 2½ the little chap wouldn't have the vocabulary to tell you what is bothering him, but with all the misery, all the hospitallzation, all the business of being away from home and not understanding why, it is not surprising that he has the jitters

I would guess, in fact would assume, that after so much happening to him in his 30 months on earth, he wakes up at night fearing whatever may be going to happen to him next

I am reluctant to try to suggest anything you can do for him by yourself (except comfort him and try to make him feel secure). Either your pediatrician, or, as I suggested above, a child psychiatrist should be guiding you.

You can't tell the little boy, in words, that eventually his casts and operations and trips to the hospital will be a thing of the past A child so young can't understand that You need some expert help in finding ways to imply this to him. And the sooner the better. Such a burden of fear can leave lasting problems for him unless he can be given a sense of security

Dear Dr. Molner: For the last year, since I began dyeing my hair, I have been getting sores on my scalp They either itch or are sore Is this serious in any way? Is there any way, other than to stop dyeing my hair, to get rid of the sores? — Mrs. F G.

The esesential danger is infection either from scratching or just the irritation of the scalp Depending on the type of infection, hair might be lost, too

You apparently are sensitive to the dye and should stop using it After the scalp clears, you may find some other dye which won't bother you. Before using any dye, a skin patch test should be done to determine whether you have a sensitivity to the chemicals

Dear Dr Molner· In your articles on herniated discs, I was surprised tha tyou didn't mention a laminectomy as a very effective cure for the trouble — F N H

I didn't see much to be gained by using that technical term which is merely one form of spinal surgery which helps some types of cases It involves removal of part of a vertebra when it is exerting undue pressure There are several techniques, and it is up to the surgeon to select the one which will be most helpful in the individual case.

Note to Mrs J H: Don't apologize and don't feel bad about anything Readers have a perfect right to write as bluntly as they choose

It Takes Operation To Stop Girl's Hiccups

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — An 18-year-old girl stopped hiccuping for the first time in 14 days Monday, but it took an operation

Jane Lasoski, 18, of Wilkes-Barre, underwent the operation at Wyoming Valley Hospital Her mother, Mrs Donald Lasoski, said the hiccups had been "constant and continuous" and all efforts by doctors to help her —short of the operation—had failed.

Board Okays Expanding Airport for K-C Planes

Resolution Authorizing Funds for Hangar, Runway Criticized Before Passage

Outagamie County Airport improvements, to meet the conditions of the Kimberly-Clark Corp. to move their air operations from Winnebago County Airport, were approved Tuesday by the Outagamie County Board, but not without some opposition.

By a 40-3 vote, with one abstention, supervisors empowered the board's Executive Committee to provide financing of approximately $730,000, when a contract agreement is reached with Kimberly-Clark, to construct a hangar for the firm, build the necessary aprons, parking lot and access road, and a 500-foot overrun on the northeast-southwest runway.

In addition, the firm asked that the county extend the northwest-southeast runway 800 feet by 1971 and apply to have a control tower built and an instrument landing system installed.

Four Planes

The Neenah-based paper firm operates four airplanes, a four-engine jet, a twin-engine jet, a twin-engine prop-jet and a conventional twin engine plane. All four planes are currently based at the Winnebago County Airport.

The airplanes would be moved to Outagamie County on Jan. 1, 1969. Under terms of its present lease with Winnebago County, Kimberly-Clark must give termination notice by Dec. 31 to cancel the lease at the end of 1968.

Tuesday was the first official mention of the name of the company involved when Board Chairman Sylvester Esler made directoreference to Kimberly-Clark by name.

All previous references had been to an "industrial client" although there was little doubt as to who was involved in the negotiations.

About $550,000 of the total will be for construction of the hangar. This amount would be paid back to the county in the form of rent by Kimberly-Clark. Executive Secretary Alvin Woehler said the rent would have to be $2,700 a month to cover the principal and interest of the financing, and include three cents per square foot rental for the land occupied by the firm

Officer Quits Appleton Post For State Job

Sgt. David Young Headed City's Juvenile Bureau

Sgt. David W. Young, head of the Appleton Police Department's juvenile bureau, has resigned to become assistant juvenile law enforcement consultant in the community services section of the division for children and youth, Wisconsin

Young

State Department of Health and Social Services.

Young said this morning that he starts his new job Jan. 15. His resignation from the Appleton Police Department becomes effective shortly before that Young notified Chief Earl O. Wolff of the resignation today.

Completes Training

Young, a Shiocton native, graduated from Shiocton High School in 1950 and spent four years in the U.S. Coast Guard. He later worked at Four Wheel Drive Co in Clintonville for a short time, and started with the Appleton Police Department Oct. 16, 1957. He later was promoted to squad car driver and was appointed detective in the juvenile branch Feb. 2, 1964.

ETV System Is Approved By Assembly

MADISON (AP)— An educational television network for Wisconsin has won preliminary approval by an overwhelming margin in the state Assembly.

The Lower House Tuesday endorsed a bill which calls for construction of educational television stations in the vicinities of Wausau, Colfax, La Crosse and Appleton.

Television translators would be erected in the areas of Platteville and Ashland to beam programs to those areas.

The measure was sent to the Joint Finance Committee after the Assembly rejected an amendment to eliminate reference to any of the areas in the running for the television facilities. The bill was ordered engrossed on an 84-10 vote.

McKay Objections

"I don't see why we should decide that we will have six separate television facilities." Majority Leader J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, said The idea behind the bill, he added, "should be to provide educational television coverage for the entire state."

Opposition to McKay's amendment was voiced by his own leader, Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, who said he wanted the areas specified because, "I've seen bureaucracy work."

Under the bill, a 21-member commission would be appointed by the governor to decide the precise locations of the facilities.

The bill was amended to prohibit use of the television stations for partisan political purposes or to influence the outcome of legislation.

Amendment Rejected

The Lower House rejected an amendment by Assemblyman Jack Steinhibler, R-Oshkosh, calling for one of the stations to be located at Oshkosh.

Steinhilber offered the amendment as a compromise between the cities of Appleton and Green Bay.

Under the bill, the University of Wisconsin's station in Madison, WHY, and several stations in Milwaukee would be connected for certain programs.

Appleton Asks Consideration For ETV Site

Aldermen Believe Local Signal Will Best Serve Valley

The Wisconsin Legislature was requested Tuesday night to consider Appleton as the site of an educational television (ETV) station.

Members of the city council's welfare-ordinance committee took the action at their regular meeting after being urged to do so by Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd).

The state is proposing the construction of four stations and a network in Wisconsin, including one to serve the Fox Valley.

Avoid 'Squabble'

In the past — Green Bay, Eau Claire, Wausau and Plattville have been mentioned as potential sites. However, last week when a legislative committee met it dropped the name of any proposed city and merely stated "the Fox Valley area".

The committee said it did not

Like Milwaukee Ordinance

Appleton Aldermen Seek B - Girl Law

The first step was taken by Appleton city officials Tuesday night to adopt a strict B-girl law modeled after a Milwaukee ordinance, aimed at thwarting organized crime and prostitution.

Members of the city council's welfare-ordinance committee directed City Atty. David Geenen to draw up a proposed ordinance for initial consideration by the city's 20 aldermen next week.

The committee moved swiftly in view of recent action by the council in voting to discontinue the ban against women bartenders in Appleton.

Originally, the committee majority opposed opening the gates to women bartenders in Appleton but the council overrode its recommendation.

Harmony was apparently restored among committee members Tuesday night, however, as the B-girl ordinance received unanimous support.

Huisman Supports

Ald. Richard Huisman (1st), committee chairman and leader of the successful drive to allow women to tend bar here, agreed to support the proposed new ordinance which will prevent women employes from soliciting drinks or sitting with male patrons while on duty.

As a result, the amendment lowering the barmaid ban will be held in committee for another week so it can come up for passage and approval at the same time the B-girl ordinance is before the council.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) introduced a resolution following last week's council meeting, calling for some regulations over female entertainers and other women employes in taverns.

When the committee heard of the Milwaukee ordinance, members felt it was applicable to Appleton, noting that other cities in the state had somewhat similar laws where female bartenders are licensed.

Owner Penalties

The B-girl proposal would prohibit any female entertainer, waitress or bartender in an establishment with a class B malt or liquor license to stand at the bar or sit at a table or in a booth with male patrons.

Conviction calls for a fine of $1 to $100 the first time, and $10 to $200 the second.

However, because the owner

Anti-Littering Law Sought For Avenue

Ayers Also Wants Action Taken on Mid-Block Crossings

A stronger anti-littering law, and mid-block crossings on College Avenue, were advocated Tuesday by the president of the Appleton Common Council.

Ald. John Ayers (12th) introduced resolutions which were considered by the welfare-ordinance committee. Ayers contended:

—There is too much littering in the reconstructed and landscaped central business district and suggested the meter maids might hand out printed reminders to "Help Keep Appleton Clean!"

Need More Teeth

—A mid-block crossing is required in at least the long block from Superior to Division Street. It was prescribed in the Harland Bartholomew comprehensive plan for the business district.

"We need stronger teeth in a

Outagamie Board Names Trustees

Reappointment of trustees for the county hospital, county sanatorium and county teachers college were approved by the Outagamie County Board Tuesday.

Erich Wussow, 1532 W. Franklin, Appleton, was reappointed to a three-year term as a county hospital trustee; Dr. George Boyd, 605 W. Wisconsin, Kaukauna, to a three-year term as a sanatorium trustee, and Victor Hean, Kaukauna, to a three-year term as a county teachers college trustee.

Supervisors Delay Mosquito Hill Plan

Committee to Continue Seeking Land Options for Park Site

Mosquito Hill park project was laid to rest for another month by the Outagamie County Board Tuesday, but its park and recreation committee indicated it would continue efforts to acquire the property.

By a 29-15 vote, on a motion by Appleton Supv. Patrick Mares, the board postponed until January a resolution to appropriate funds for the land purchase. The motion was seconded by Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke, Kaukauna, a member of the parks committee and an opponent of the project.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, and chairman of the parks committee, reported the county now has 343 acres of the 465-acre hill site under option at a total price of $46,750. Two major parcels remain to be optioned.

DeBruin added the committee will not seek to obtain about 40 acres of land owned by Raymond Kamps. "There is no reason we have to have this part of the hill. The county does not want a $50,000 home." However, it was indicated the committee may seek an agreement with Kamps to obtain a small parcel of his land on the north side of the hill.

The original resolution for Mosquito Hill called for an appropriation of $75,000. De Bruin moved to have this re-

Charges Brought July 25

Judge Rules Outagamie County Has No Authority in Arson Case

Waupaca County Judge Wendall McHenry has ruled that Outagamie County has no authority to proceed with court action against two Appleton men charged with solicitation to commit arson.

McHenry was named acting Circuit judge to preside in the case against Albert B. Smith, 42, 1212 N. Leminwah St., and W. Jay Culver, 36, route 2, who pleaded innocent and have filed affidavits of prejudice against Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell of Appleton. The Supreme Court administrator then assigned the cases to McHenry.

The men are charged in connection with an alleged plot to burn a house Culver owns in Menominee, Mich. Both men are free on bond. The charges were brought July 25, following investigation by Outagamie County authorities. All past court proceedings, including arraignment, preliminary hearing, and Circuit Court appearances, have been in Outagamie County.

Smith's attorney had filed a motion challenging the jurisdiction of Outagamie courts on grounds that the alleged crime of solicitation occurred in Winnebago County. Culver's attorney joined in the motion.

Sought Dismissal

Attorneys for the pair had sought dismissal of the charges, but their motions were denied in Outagamie County courts.

Robert Velie Jr., Appleton, testifying at a preliminary hearing last August 16, said he was approached with a proposal to set fire to the house in Michigan. He said that one of the contacts with the men, regarding the proposal, was under the overpass on U.S. 41, at State 150, near Neenah in Winnebago County. That contact was made July 19, according to Velie's testimony.

McHenry, in a written decision to Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, stated, "The court is satisfied that there was no solicitation by the defendants (Smith and Culver) before arriving at the junction of 150 and 41." McHenry contended that if there was a solicitation carried out, it was done there and not prior to that in Outagamie County.

Schaefer told The Post-Crescent this morning that he would consult with Thomas Fink, Winnebago County district attorney, about further proceedings in the Smith-Culver case.

Woman Gets Probation On Bad Check Charge

Mrs. Elsie Jones, 30, 104½ W. Kimberly Ave., Kimberly, was placed on one year probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services Tuesday after being found guilty of issuing a worthless $70 check in Appleton May 1.

Mrs. Jones had been charged with forgery, but the complaint was amended Tuesday at the request of Richard Hamilton, assistant district attorney. She pleaded no contest and was found guilty of the reduced charge. As a condition of probation, she is to make restitution.

An Old Barn on W. Lindbergh Street was burned down Tuesday by Appleton firemen testing new equipment. The owner agreed after the city received complaints about the old structure. Opinion Comes From LaFollette

Legality of VTE-12 Policy Questioned

An attorney general's opinion today cast doubt over the legality of the announced policy of the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 to use annual tax dollars for creating a fund for future building.

The opinion from Bronson LaFollette was received by Outagamie County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath.

It had been requested by Mayor George Buckley of Appleton who questioned the legality of the building fund being created by the Area Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District Board No. 12.

The opinion, which quoted previous State Supreme Court decisions, held that any funds left over at the end of a budget year are to be applied to reducing the approaching year's tax levy.

Continues Action

Buckley said this morning he was "very pleased with the opinion" and would proceed with his taxpayer's suit to restrain the VTE-12 Board from collecting an estimated $600,000 it included in its 1968 budget for future land acquisition and construction.

The board reportedly intends to build a multi-million dollar district vocational school, collecting funds through property tax assessments in coming years so as to reduce the amount of bonding when it comes time to build.

Municipal officials throughout the four-county district have protested the board's action, claiming long-range capital improvement projects — such as school buildings — should be bonded and paid off over several years.

Buckley and other officials have been concerned over the action of the VTE-12 Board, which is precedent-setting, and fear it could have wide implications and result in uncontrolled spending.

LaFollette said he believed the VTE-12 action would be governed by Section 69 of the Wisconsin Statutes. It reads:

Applied to Budget

"Each county other than counties having a population of 300,000 or more, each city excepting cities of the first class, village, town school district and all other public bodies that have the power to levy or certify a general property tax or budget shall annually, prior to the determination of the sum to be financed in whole or in part by a general property tax, funds on hand or estimated revenues from any source, formulate a budget and hold public hearings thereon."

LaFollette said from the statuatory language it appeared that

Peace Possible if Big Powers Keep Out, Dayan Claims

Israeli Defense Minister Asserts Talks With Arabs Not Unrealistic

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Tuesday night that if the big powers keep out of the Middle East, Israel could make peace with the Arabs.

"If Israel was confronted with only 80 million Arabs, without interference or confrontation with the big powers," said Dayan, "we would be able to settle our differences."

Dayan, addressing a convention of his Rafi party, disputed U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's statement that Israel's demand for face-to-face talks with the Arabs was "unrealistic."

"The return to Zion always meant the implementation of unrealistic aims," Dayan said. "It is the main objective of the prolonged struggle ahead of us to turn this 'unrealistic' aim of direct peace talks into reality."

Long Fight

He warned that Israel faces a long struggle to achieve secure borders, full recognition from the Arabs and the solution of the Arab refugee problem.

The Arabs, Dayan said, "are intent on gaining time in the political struggle to rebuild their armies. There is no basic change yet in their nonacceptance of Israel."

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said the Arab countries will all tell special U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring the same things.

The Arabs have "reservations" about the Security Council resolution directing the special envoy to make the rounds of disputants in the June war to seek a settlement.

The Arabs expect Jarring to uphold U.N. resolutions calling for a settlement of the refugee problem and condemning acquisition of territory by force, which the Arabs interpret as calling for unconditional Israeli troop withdrawal from the occupied territories.

Jarring held his first talks Tuesday with Lebanese Foreign Minister Georges Hakim and was to arrive in Israel today. His schedule calls for him to see Jordanian officials Friday and then end his first round by spending next Monday and Tuesday in Cairo, according to Al Ahram.

No details of Jarring's talks with Hakim were disclosed. Reliable sources in Damascus said Syria would refuse to receive Jarring because the Syrian government has rejected the U.N. resolution.

Further Developments

In other developments Tuesday:

The new British ambassador to Cairo, Sir Harold Beeley, took up his post and said his first task would be to discuss reopening of the Suez Canal.

The Arab League announced that airlines whose planes land at Israeli-held Jerusalem Airport or fly over Arab territory held by Israel may be refused landing rights on Arab fields.

Israeli border troops fought a gun battle with Arab cattle rustlers in central Israel. One rustler was wounded and captured but two others escaped. In another clash one Israeli soldier was killed and four were wounded in a fight with Arab saboteurs near Tel Aviv. One saboteur was killed and one wounded.

Press reports in Tel Aviv said 20 Israeli Arabs were wounded in a street battle in the Arab village of Sakhnin, in Northern Israel Monday. The reports said more than 200 Arabs fought with rifles and fists after a youth of one clan insulted the leader of another.

Agents Charged in Drug Sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Three New York City detectives, a federal narcotics agent and two investigators for the Nassau County district attorney have been arrested on charges of selling narcotics.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said Tuesday the six were named in three indictments returned by a grand jury during a continuing investigation of narcotics traffic.

All were assigned to combat trafficking in narcotics and they had accumulated outstanding records as undercover agents, Morgenthau said the suspects' activities hit at the very foundation of the antinarcotics program.

They were charged with having dealt in narcotics in the vicinity of the Supreme Court in Mineola, N.Y., on the streets of the Bronx and Harlem and in a Long Island motel.

The three city detectives, all of the narcotics bureau of the Police Department, were identified as Charles W. Kelly, 37, of Commack, Raymond R. Imp, 32, of Staten Island, and Marvin M. Moskowitz, 31, of Brooklyn.

Among them the three had 25 citations for their work.

They were charged with "concealing, selling and facilitating transportation" of cocaine about May 19 of this year.

The federal agent, Cleophus A. Robinson II, 36, of Staten Island, was charged with having sold marijuana three times this year—twice in October and once last week.

Long Island Investigators

The Long Island investigators, both former Federal Bureau of Narcotics agents, were identified as Frank Dolce, 42, of Hicksville, and Jack Gohde, 37, of Massapequa Park.

They were charged with having sold narcotics in "the vicinity of the Supreme Court of Mineola, L.I." and with having connection with narcotics allegedly destined for sale in Harlem.

Federal authorities said conviction on conspiracy and other charges involving narcotics traffic could bring a mandatory minimum of five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The six were arraigned before U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack who set bail at $5,000 each.

Morganthau said the investigation was led by agents of the Internal Revenue Service at the request of the commissioner of the Federal Narcotics Bureau.

GIs Get Early Trips Back Home

SAIGON (AP) — Four thousand GIs have been returned to the United States this month several days before their normal rotation dates to get them to their families before Christmas, the U.S. Command said today.

"And there will be more leaving by Dec. 20," a spokesman said.

The early returnees include servicemen scheduled to leave as late as Jan. 3.

'Latent Heterosexual' To Premier in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Theater Center announced today that it would present the premiere of Paddy Chayefsky's new play, "The Latent Heteorsexual," on March 12.

A spokesman said stage and screen actor Burgess Meredith would be guest director.

Meredith directed a play at the center during its first season in 1960. He was in Dallas over the weekend conferring with Paul Baker, managing director of the center.

Pay Raises, Spending Cuts Approved by Both Houses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, clearing its decks of most major money measures and aiming for weekend adjournment, has agreed to spend billions of dollars for government pay raises and to fight poverty while endorsing a $4.1 billion over-all spending cut.

Congressional action Tuesday included these developments:

—Both Senate and House passed and sent to President Johnson legislation for a $5.4 billion, three-step pay raise affecting 5.5 million federal workers and servicemen. The legislation also includes a hike in postal rates, raising to 6 cents the cost of mailing a letter.

—The House passed and sent to the Senate a $1.61 billion appropriation bill for the Office of Economic Opportunity, $370 million less than Congress already has authorized for the antipoverty program.

$4.1 Billion Cut

—The Senate passed and sent to the President a bill requiring most federal agencies to cut most spending by 10 per cent—a move designed to save $4.1 billion.

Today the House is to take up a Social Security bill that would boost all benefits by at least 13 per cent as well as hike Social Security taxes. The bill provides for minimum monthly benefit payments of $55 compared with the current $44.

President Johnson is expected to sign the pay-raise bill for government employes and servicemen in time for them to get by Christmas retroactive increases from last Oct. 1. Total cost of the raises by 1969, when all stages are in effect, is estimated at $5.4 billion. It would give postal workers a 6 per cent raise, other government workers a 4.5 per cent hike and servicemen a 5.6 per cent boost.

Postal Rates

The pay-raise bill included provisions for hiking postal rates designed to bring in an additional $900 million annually.

Next Jan. 7 regular mail stamps will go from 5 to 6 cents, airmail from 8 to 10 cents, post cards from 4 to 5 cents and airmail cards from 6 to 8 cents.

Third class mail will go from 2.875 cents to 3.5 cents and to 4 cents in July 1969. But the rate for the first 250,000 pieces mailed in any year will be 3.8 cents.

Second-class rates, covering newspapers and magazines, will go from 1 cents to 1.1 cents next year under the minimum rate, then to 1.2 cents in 1969 and 1.3 cents in 1970.

This legislation also includes a provision to ban any more hiring of relatives by congressmen, federal judges, postmasters and other federal officeholders.

Tax Increase

The $4.1 billion spending-cut proposal approved by the Senate is an outgrowth of the hassle earlier in the session between the White House and House Ways and Means Committee. The committee said the administration would have to come up with spending cuts before it would consider the President's proposal for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

The administration came through with the economy plan last month but by that time the tax bill was dead for this session.

The spending-cut bill exempts Congress, the federal judiciary, defense programs, veterans' benefits, Social Security benefits, farm price support programs and health insurance payments.

The Senate rejected 44 to 29 an amendment by Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., to include Congress in the economy drive.

California Picks Dove Candidate

Paul N. McCloskey Wins After Defeating Shirley Temple Black

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Republican Paul N. McCloskey, elected to Congress Tuesday on a Vietnam peace platform, says he will go to Vietnam as soon as possible.

Unknown before his upset primary victory over former child movie star Shirley Temple Black Nov. 14, McCloskey defeated Democrat Roy A. Archibald, 66,314 votes to 44,370 with all 567 precincts reporting in the affluent 11th Congressional District.

Winner of the Navy Cross and Silver Star while serving as a rifle platoon leader with the Marines during the Korean war, McCloskey ran as a Vietnam "dove," advocating negotiations for peace and a reunification of North and South Vietnam under the Geneva accords.

The Portola Valley attorney told a news conference Tuesday night that he will go to Washington immediately to take care of applications for the service academies that piled up following the death of Congressman J. Arthur Younger last June.

As soon as he takes care of paper work, he wants to go to Vietnam, either as a congressman or in his present rank as a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Marine Reserve, he said.

"But if neither wants to send me, I'll pay my own way," he declared.

Dead GI Not Son, Father Insists

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The Army said the body awaiting burial was that of Cpl. Donald L. Hettich. But Fred H. Hettich said the body was not his soldier son.

The Army shipped the body to Florida from Vietnam after informing Hettich his 19-year-old son was killed in a helicopter crash.

"As soon as I walked in and saw it, I knew there was a big mistake somewhere," said Hettich, choking back tears.

The soldier tentatively was scheduled to be buried today at 2 p.m.

"I'd hate to bury someone else's son," the father said, "not that I wouldn't, of course."

Army officials, who first backtracked on the body's identity and agreed that it was not the younger Hettich, now contend that it is.

An officer was dispatched from Washington to deliver to the Hettich family a report of a fingerprint examination and supporting data.

Staff Sgt. John Caldwell of Ft. Stewart, Ga., who escorted the body to Sarasota, said Hettich did not want to accept the death of his son.

That was not the case, said Hettich, father of four girls and four other boys. He said an intuitive feeling left "no doubt" that his son is dead—but that the man in the casket was not Donald.

"There are no features or no part that indicate it is my son," he said, noting that the face of the body was not damaged.

There is no evidence of a scar on the hand, although Donald wrote that he had sustained a hand wound on Aug. 7, Hettich said.

"None of us feel it is him," Hettich, a brick mason said during an interview in his home. His wife and children said nothing.

"To me it is still not him. It is not my son," said the father.

Plane in Fatal Crash Under Examination

MADISON (AP)— The crumpled wreckage of a plane that carried singer Otis Redding and six others to their deaths was being examined today as skin divers pressed their search for two more bodies in Lake Monona.

Rescuers also hoped to recover a wing and an engine of the plane that crashed into the fog-shrouded lake while in flight from Cleveland to Madison Sunday.

Still missing were the bodies of Phalen Jones and Ronald Caldwell, both 19, of Memphis, members of a musical group called the Bar-Kays.

Skin divers Tuesday recovered the body of Carl Cunningham, 18, of Memphis, and the fuselage of the green and white twin-engine aircraft.

Officials of the federal aviation agency were studying the wreckage in an effort to determine what caused the crash.

The body of Redding, internationally known rhythm and blues singer from Macon, Ga., was recovered Monday.

Only one of the eight persons aboard the plane, Ben Cauley, 20, of Memphis, survived. He was rescued from the icy waters by police shortly after the crash.

Redding and the Bar-Kays were flying in for a performance at a local teen club when the crash occurred.

Twin City Court Sought For Additional Judge

OSHKOSH — If Winnebago County obtains another judge, he should be permanently located in the Neenah-Menasha area, the county's judiciary committee generally agreed Tuesday night.

The decision was reached after the committee toured the Dane and the Rock County courthouses.

In Rock County, the county seat is located in Janesville, but the county has another facility in Beloit that handles juvenile and criminal cases.

Rock County is similar to Winnebago County, committee member Eugene Williams, Oshkosh, pointed out, with Oshkosh at one end and the Twin Cities Jynudge James V. Sifter, Branch 3, and juvenile court Judge James Sarres each spend a day a week in Neenah.

But a considerable amount of work pertaining to the Neenah-Menasha area is now handled in Oshkosh, Herbert Ilk, committee members, said

"Their setup in Janesville and Beloit is tremendous," Ilk said.

New Judge?

"If we get another county judge, we should make arrangements for the judge to be in Neenah permanently," he added

Ilk said this morning that the possibility of a new county judge is only an informal projection, but one will probably be needed within the next few years.

The workload of the county's three judges is heavy and something will have to be done, he said

The tour of the courthouses was an effort by the committee to view the arrangements of courts, since Winnebago County also may have another circuit court judge within two years.

UW Center Unit to Air Expansion

MENASHA — The University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center Board of Trustees will have two major items for possible discussion Thursday afternoon

The trustees will meet with two university officials on future building plans and also might dip into talk concerning Outagamie County's proposal to relocate the center.

Don Percy, assistant vice president of the University of Wisconsin, and L. H. Adolfson, University of Wisconsin center system chancellor, will meet with Winnebago County trustees Orrin King, Oshkosh, and Oliver Thomsen, Neenah.

Center Dean Harry Hutson said that in the past expansion of the center has been talked about in general terms, but no specific plans have been set.

He said the trustees want to see what the university has in mind for expansion

Outagamie County trustees for the center, Russell DeLa Hunt, Kaukauna, and Allen G Buboiz, Appleton, will also be at the meeting, which means Outagamie Board Chairman Sylvester Esler's proposal for the center and institute may come up, Hutson said.

Esler had suggested that the Fox Valley Center be moved to Outagamie County and located on the county farm with the center being used as a central technical institute for the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12

Winnebago trustees and Chairman Joseph Drexler met with Outagamie officials in November, but did not commit themselves on the suggestion.

Since then, no meetings have been held to discuss the switch.

The meeting will begin at 3 p.m. Thursday in the center's conference room.

Menasha Library Ground Breaking Starts Revival

MENASHA — The spade biting into the earth of Racine Street Park was breaking ground for a new library.

But, in a sense, it also was turning the first clump of earth to put the city's downtown revival plans into action,

The new public library will be the first building on the park site, which has been recommended by the city's master planner eventually to be the location of all municipal buildings.

City officials, architect Raymond N. LeVee and others involved in the library project were on hand Tuesday afternoon for the turning of the first shovelsful of dirt

Equipment to Arrive

Heavy equipment and construction workers were due almost immediately afterward to begin the task of putting up the new library, which is estimated to cost $592,500 when finished and furnished

The city offices on Main Street were remodeled within the past few months. The work was approved by the city's master planner, Victor Gruen Associates. But in the firm's long-range plan for the city's development, the Racine Street Park site would also include a city hall — in one to two decades, when the present facility is outgrown

Commission Okays Bay UW Land

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Building Commission Monday approved the purchase of a four and one half acre tract on Green Bay's shore for an addition to the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

The tract, which contains a frame building with 3,000 square feet of usable floor space, will be purchased from St Mary Hospital in the city for $28,175.

The building will be used to supply temporary office space to the administration of the campus which is scheduled to open in September, 1969, and will replace previously planned temporary quarters in the Riviera Club, a former nightspot on the campus site.

Also approved was a plan presented by the State Department of Health and Social Services for construction of a $772,000 addition to the school for boys at Wales.

Other actions in the $2.4 million list of approved items include:

— Refusal to start for one month condemnation proceedings for a single property needed for Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh expansion At the urgings of Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, the agency staff will attempt to purchase the property from its owner The land is needed for railroad track and turnout relocation.

— The return of $93,311 to the commission. The funds had been previously allocated for the purchase of a combination restaurant-laundry in Oshkosh, but Martin pointed out that the land is not needed by the state university at this time, and that the purchase should not be made.

Police Say Youths Admit Arson Guilt

KAUKAUNA — Two 15-year-old boys, students at Kaukauna High School, admitted to police Tuesday that they had attempted to start two fires in the school within the past three days.

One of the youths, police said, purchased matches and constructed a homemade bomb A carton of wooden matches was lit and thrown against the door of the truant officer's office between basketball games Saturday night The door was charred and some wall tiles will have to be replaced.

On Monday a homemade bomb, which Earl Schwabe, state fire marshal who assisted in the investigation, said was the equivalent of three pounds or six sticks of dynamite was placed in a storage area and an attempt was made to ignite it.

A wooden box from a small microscope, had been loaded with two boxes of wooden match heads, a pint of gasoline sulphur powder and tissue papers A fuse was placed through holes in the top of the box, but it burned itself out without igniting the contents

Police said the fuse, which had been timed, was to take two minutes to ignite The youths will be turned over to juvenile authorities

One of the Largest Employe Groups in Appleton, the public schools system, now has reported 123 per cent of its quota in the United Givers campaign for 19 Red Feather agencies. Two elementary schools achieved 100 per cent giving participation. From left are James Cowan, school campaign director and director of the child service center; William Schein, principal of 100 per cent Columbus School and Mrs. Teresa Novokolski, principal of 100 per cent Foster School. The campaign officially closes Friday.

Neenah Man Killed

'The War Comes Home At a Time Like This'

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Silence filled the white two story house at 223 E. Peckham Tuesday.

Inside, the family of Mr and Mrs. John Paulson were numbed by the news late Monday night that their son and brother, Army Spec. 4 John Paulson Jr., had lost his life in fighting near Bong Son in Vietnam

The brisk percolating coffee pot was the only sound in the darkened dining room where John Sr sat gathering strength for his family of six

"He wasn't a trained helicopter pilot but he made more than 50 missions during his seven months at the front," his father said.

His mother with soft, careful phrases added, "He had only been out of the hospital two weeks and his letters were filled with anxiety, wanting to get back with the fellows in his unit.

"In not one of his letters is there a hint of complaint, it was a job to be done and he was always reassuring us that he was going to be all right."

Packages Mailed

Incompleted Christmas plans were evident in the home The packages had already been mailed via the San Francisco APO.

Steve, 8, the youngest brother, sat quietly on the stairway His playmates talked softly, too

"You see it on TV all of the time, read it in the news and talk about it at work, but the war doesn't come home until a time like this," said the father. Mrs. Paulson nodded in agreement.

One sister Susan reported for classes at Neenah High School Tuesday morning with a comment to the principal's office, "I'm here because John would have wanted me to be I'll try to stay" She asked to be excused at the end of fifth hour.

Disbelief

Michael, 19, walked into the kitchen quietly after work, without comment picked the telegram from the center of the table and read its contents Disbelief shadowed his youthful face

"All he ever wanted to be was a printer and work for Banta's," his father said

Searching their individual memories of their big brother were 13-year-old Mary Beth, 14-year-old Debra and Kathryn, 18.

Their brother, in one sense, was very near. His Christmas card arrived Tuesday morning from half way around the world

Draheim to Back Open Housing Bill

OSHKSOH — State Sen. William Draheim, Neenah, informed the Oshkosh Human Rights Council Tuesday night that he would support a liberal open housing bill now before the legislature if it is not watered down

The bill, 770, is co-sponsored by Assemblyman David Martin, Neenah and is now before the assembly Its provisions cover nearly all housing, both public and private The state's present open housing law does not cover a number of categories of private housing

Says Reformatory Warden

Prison Exodus Follows Gault Rule

BY PETER GENIESSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — The exodus of juveniles from state correctional institutions continues "at a rate of five or six each day" because of the famed Gault Decision and probably won't level off for another year, according to a warden at the Wisconsin State Reformatory at Green Bay.

Donald Clusen, associate warden in charge of security at the Green Bay penal institution, told members of the Menasha Lions Club Tuesday that 70 youths already had been released from the reformatory.

Among the teen-agers who were returned to their local authorities due to the Supreme Court Decision were two Twin City youths.

Basically, the Gault Decision, which stems from an Arizona test case, states a juvenile must be informed of his constitutional rights the same ruling the courts held for adults in the Miranda and Escopedo decisions two years ago

However, the adult decision carried no retroactive clauses while the Gault Decision opens the prison gates for juveniles convicted years ago

Clusen said the Green Bay institution was unique in the state for handling both juvenile and adult offenders but noted the one-third, two-third ratio of teenagers to adult prisoners had been reduced considerably by the Gault Decision

He stated the reformatory's present population of 700 includes less than 200 juveniles

Under 30

The prisoners in the Green Bay institution are generally under 30 years of age, Clusen added Older criminals are sent to Waupun or other penal institutions The average stay at the reformatory is about three years, although there are a few prisoners serving life sentences for murder, the warden added

A juvenile usually reaches the reformatory after violating parole or becoming unruly at a boy's school.

The two Twin City boys, one 16 and the other 17 years of age, were sent to the reformatory because of parole violations.

Clusen said the Green Bay complex contained two 14-year-old boys He admitted the youths didn't "fit into the reformatory" but noted the reformatory has "the facilities to handle them"

The youngsters are treated like the adults, except for schooling Clusen said the boys attend high school classes and the reformatory sends reports to the youths' high schools Between 30 and 40 youths receive high school diplomas every year.

Clusen explained the reformatory's program by means of a film taken inside the walls, showing both vocational training and recreation facilities.

The 17-year-old Menasha youth, released from the Green Bay institution in November, will appear before Judge Herbert Mueller, the presiding judge at his juvenile trial three years ago, on Dec 18 on the original count of stealing a minibike.

Then on Dec 27, the youth will face a new charge of robbery. He allegedly robbed an elderly Menasha man of $1,000 on May 2

The 16-year-old Neenah boy is being held in the Winnebago County jail awaiting trial for burglary on Jan 3 in front of Judge James Sarres

LOWEST LEGAL GROCERY PRICES

It's selling groceries in our big center section at the lowest price the law allows. That's all groceries, thousands of famous national brand items.

No one else does it. No one. Some food stores go part way (one store in Appleton, who used to buy from us, sells many grocery items in its center section at the lowest legal price. That's pretty good, but not good enough. We sell ALL — everything in our big center section at THE LOWEST LEGAL PRICE).

There's no trick to it. We've done it before, in Oshkosh, Manitowoc, La Crosse and Madison. It just takes time, until more and more people — through the experience of shopping with us — accept the truth of our statement. Once the people here in the Fox Cities do accept this truth, we'll have plenty of business just as we have in other cities where we've used this pricing formula.

We developed the Copps Idea because we're convinced it's the right way to sell groceries — at the lowest legal price. Eventually maybe every other grocery store will follow suit. But they aren't now. Until they do, you owe it to yourself and to your family to save money with the Copps Idea, by shopping at our warmly beautiful food department at Shopko.

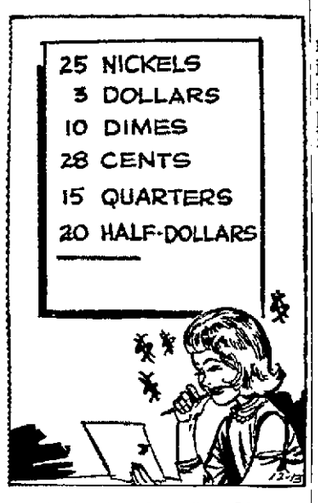
Add Up the Amounts and Try for a Set of Books

BY CAPPY DICK

Jane, the girl in the contest picture, has saved a lot of money and she's adding it up. What does it total?

If you answer that question correctly and send in a contest entry that is neat and original in appearance you may win a novelty pencil sharpener as a local qualifying prize and this would assure you of a chance to win one of five national grand prizes in today's contest. The pencil sharpener is in the form of a cowboy's 10-gallon hat.



What's the Total?

The big, national awards are the 12-volume set of the Encyclopedia Britannica "True-to-Life Books" containing illustrated stories about boys and girls, nature and animals around the world.

The 5 sets that will be awarded will go to the boys and girls whose contest entries are the 5 neatest and most original, correct ones received from any of the cities where this column is published.

To find out how much money Jane has saved, you must multiply and add. For example, you must multiply to find out the amount of money 25 nickles represent. When you have multiplied wherever necessary, the next step is to add the amounts together to find the grand total. That will be your answer to the puzzle. Print it in the picture.

Next, clip out the picture and paste it on a sheet of paper. Print your name, age, address and Zip number beneath it. Decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts.

Address the entry to Cappy Dick's "True-to-Life Books" Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

When the contest judges have selected the prize winners (and the judges decisions will be final) their names will be published here and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Tomorrow: Directions for playing "change-a-letter" game!

County to Finance Airport Expansion

and the insurance the county would have to provide.

Paid Over 30 Years

The money would be paid over a 30-year period, while the county's financing would be over 20 years. This would result in a tax levy of about $6,000 a year to support the financing. However, this also would be paid back before the end of the 30 years.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, attacked the method in which the negotiating had been handled, although he voted for the resolution.

"We are expected to rubber stamp this because it is good for private industry," Kloes charged. He said supervisors should have the lease contract with the firm in front of them so they know what the terms will be.

"We've criticized the way the federal and state governments handle our tax money We handle money worse on the local level than anyone else," he added. "We are told to either rubber stamp or we are against industry."

Look to Future

He claimed the board was failing to look to the future. "Who is to say that in the future we will not have a tri-county government. It will look kind of foolish having two multi-million dollar airports in the same county," he said.

Kloes charged that industry was playing the two counties against each other. He then demanded to know how the approach was made and how the negotiations were handled.

An angry Esler countered that Kloes had been wasting the county board's time. "You have never brought in anything constructive," Esler charged. The county board chairman said he had tried to explain the background to Kloes' committee but that Kloes would not let him.

Esler said the firm had approached him on the possible move and he and board vice chairman Marvin Babbitt, zseymour, later met with Kimberly-Clark's president and chairman of the board He said he reported the meeting to the Airport Committee and "they took over."

Object to Financing

Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke, Kaukauna, objected to the county's financing the project. "Why pay for an industry in another county," he said. "Just lease them the land and let them build their hangar. Basler is doing this at Winnebago County." (Warren Basler is the fixed base operator at the Winnebago County Airport and is building a $100,000 hangar on airport land.)

Supv. Stanley Gillespie, Town of Grand Chute, a member of the Airport Committee—who directed his remarks to Kloes, said, "you can't make a mistake doing nothing If you do enough of nothing you dry up and die."

He was supported by Supvs Kurt Koletzke, Appleton, and Sylvester Lenz, Kimberly. "You cannot progress without a good airport," Koletzke said. "We must either go ahead or backward. We can't stand still." Lenz also urged passage of the resolution. "They need us and we need them," he said.

Motion Withdrawn

Kloes again objected to the county's building the hangar for Kimberly-Clark. "Who will we build for next?" he asked. He said the county's airport consultants, Ralph Burke Associates, have recommended that building on the airport be done by private industry. "How much can we expect of the taxpayers?" Kloes asked.

Woehler, in breaking down the costs of each item, said they hoped the actual costs would be considerably less than the estimates. He said because of the short time available, the estimates had been based on Chicago market prices

Van Dyke sought to have the resolution sent back to committee for another month but withdrew his motion when he was assured by Esler that the Executive Committee would come back before the board before any financing is undertaken. "We won't borrow the money if we don't get a signed contract," Esler promised.

Report Minor Injuries In Two-Car Collision

Sharon L. Piette, 19, 802 Ridge Lane, Appleton, suffered minor injuries when her car and one driven by Lorraine E. Gorges, route 1, New London, collided about 7:20 p m Tuesday at State 125 and Bluemound Drive, a mile west of Appleton.

Outagamie County police said that the Piette car was northbound on Bluemound and the Gorges auto was westbound on 125.

Appleton Committee Wants Strict B-Girl Law Adopted of the establishment is also responsible for the acts of his employes — the severest penalty could be levied against him.

The law says the council has the authority to suspend or take away the license of an operator after the second arrest and conviction of an employe violating the B-girl or so-called anti-soliciting ordinance.

"I give you my word that I will not back off on this ordinance when it comes up for a vote," Huisman assurred his collegues.

At the same time he obtained an understanding they would support the amendment dropping the female bartender ban when it comes up for two more roll votes.

Ald. William Errington (15th), who opposed female bartenders from the outset, said he did not think the council "realized the seriousness of its action at the last meeting". Errington said if Appleton is to have women bartenders and Go-Go girls serving customers, the B-girl law was needed.

Echoing his sentiments were Alds. William Wachtendonk (3rd) and Orville Strutz (17th). All insisted that eliminating the women bartender ban and imposing B-girl ordinance represented one package.

The committee said it has heard reports there are some entertainers in Appleton night spots serving drinks as well as sitting at the bar with customers.

It was explained that a B-girl ordinance, prohibiting the soliciting of drinks by women from male customers, would be a preventative against "outside interests" bringing women into Appleton to tend bar.

The committee held this could lead to trouble for the police and possibly a mark on the community.

littering ordinance," Ayers declared. "Other cities have been cracking down on littrbugs and I think we should see if we can do something about the College Avenue problem."

The committee said it would study Ayers' proposal and take action at a future meeting.

And it referred the matter of Avenue mid-block crossings to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff and City Planner-Traffic Engineer Walter Rasmussen for their recommendations.

Other Actions

The committee also:

—Received a recommendation not to accept the low bid for purchase of 11 new squad cars and will consider two other model cars, described as being "heavy duty vehicles".

—Recommended the fire department repair the old rescue squad which was in an accident recently, along with purchasing a new carry-all vehicle as previously okayed by the council.

—Heard a report from Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl that two captains would be made bureau chiefs and receive $20 a month wage increases, while another man would be assigned to be in charge of fulltime maintenance at the various fire stations want to "ruffle any feathers and get into another site squabble with Green Bay", alluding to the long-running university site dispute.

However, after Kalata explained that more viewers could be reached with a station in the Appleton area — rather than further to the north — the committee recommended state officials be contacted.

"In addition to providing a strong signal for the Fox Cities and northern end of the Valley, an ETV station in this area would better serve Oshkosh and Fond du Lac," Kalata said.

Kalata told the committee that an ETV station here would be of "prestige value".

In other action, the committee:

—Recommended granting a class A fermented malt beverage license to Fox Cities Beverage, Inc , 115 S State St., as requested by the corporation's secretary, Atty. Gordon Myse —Withheld approval of three license requests for the Red Vest, Inc , 1216 E. Wisconsin Ave , represented by Patrick L. Nolan, secretary The establishment was formerly the Ivanhoe.

Tax Use May Not be Legal

"funds on hand" are to be applied to the budget for the following year He said this essentially was the finding of the Supreme Court in a 1948 decision.

The high court held there is no statute authorizing the creation of a sinking fund, unless one is set up specifically for paying off a particular bond issue.

It also said there is no lawful authority to levy taxes for the purpose of accumulating substantial amounts of money for the future or contingencies, or for "the purpose of enriching the public treasury."

Court Decisions

LaFollette said the court's decision had been relied on in previous opinions prepared by his office relating to the creation of surplus funds by municipal corporations.

He also called attention to a 1952 Wisconsin Supreme Court decision in which an appropriation of surplus funds had been made for a specific purpose.

Board Delays Action on Mosquito Hill

duced to $50,000 to cover the land under option. Supv. Clarence Miller, Appleton, sought to have it further reduced to $35,000 — the maximum amount the county can obtain in Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funds. Neither amendment reached a vote.

DeBruin said they needed the $50,000 to pay for the parcels and they would then be reimbursed from LAWCON funds. "The main thing we've got to do now is have the land and nail down the project," DeBruin stressed.

Plot Needed

Supv. Walter Fredricks, New London, in whose district the hill is located, said he favored the park site but added, "we can't have skiing and other winter sports on the hill without the acquisition of plot one. We need this to make the project complete " Plot one is the 20 acre parcel not yet under option. It is to the west of the Kamps property.

"What we have now," Mares said, "is a lot of high-priced swamp," referring to the largest parcel of land which is in lowlands along the south side of the hill.

DeBruin defended acquisition of this land saying, "we were thinking of acquiring wild, natural land, which is what this site possesses "

Other Support

Other support for the acquisition of the park came from Supvs. Patrick Heenan and George Greisch, both of Appleton, and Stanley Gillespie, Town of Grand Chute.

Gillespie said he had never encountered a project that had generated more favorable enthusiasm throughout the county. "You can count on my vote," he added. Heenan felt that by acquiring the site now the county could develop it on a "pay-as-you-go" plan. Greisch added that "recreation is for the generations to come and this should be considered."

and was promoted to sergeant in November 1965.

When Young started with the 10-year-old juvenile bureau, it was a one-man operation. A second detective was assigned to juvenile duty in November 1966. Young, in his nearly four years in the bureau, has completed a number of juvenile law enforcement training sessions and college level courses related to his work.

In his new state job, Young will work with law enforcement agencies throughout the state as a consultant on juvenile affairs. Among his duties will be to provide consultative services, set up training sessions, help develop procedural guidelines in juvenile law enforcement, and help establish special studies, projects and other services. Young said he plans to move to Madison.

The Appleton detective replaces Alvin T. Nygaard, who recently was transferred to the division of corrections of the State Department of Health and Social Services. Young, 35, was selected for the state job on the basis of extensive testing and interviewing.

He and his wife, Caro, have three children.

Housewives Get Bonuses As 'Water Rules' Broken

At colder than usual temperatures the world becomes topsy-turvy. Surgery becomes painless, molecular motion grinds to a halt, foods don't spoil, clothes become clean.

This cold approach to the world is called cryogenics, the science of extremely low temperatures, and it's responsible for much that is revolutionary in modern everyday activities. It includes refrigeration to keep our foods from spoiling, freezers to make them last indefinitely, cold water laundering for safer clothes care, even freeze-dried foods for truer flavors. While we may consider refrigerators and freezers as commonplace as the common cold, some other scientific facts about cold are mighty odd!

For instance, a real rule-breaker is water. If you think it takes forever to make an ice cube, remember water can be cooled below its freezing point of 32 degrees F without freezing If kept absolutely still, water will remain a liquid within a few degrees of zero — but once disturbed it reverts to the rule and freezes instantly!

Illusions of Heat

Another broken rule about water is the commonly accepted one that hot water laundering kills germs. Research has shown water requires a temperature of 160 degrees F or more to affect germs, but the hot water temperature in the average home is 140 degrees F or less So the modern cold water detergent adds a bacteriostat that makes it more powerful in cold water than the average hot water temperature in preventing the spread of germs.

Aside from turning a cold shoulder to germs, the development of cold water laundering appears to be one answer to problems of shrinkage, stain-setting, running and fading of colors. In addition, cold water laundering saves money on heating costs, whether by oil, gas, or electricity.

Another way the power of cold saves on electricity is by the "freezing" of metal Fifty years ago a Dutch scientist studying the behavior of matter at extremely low temperatures discovered that some metals lose all electrical resistance just above absolute zero and become "super-conductors." When they're charged, the electrical process can go on indefinitely!

Snug Computer

This super-conductivity is the basis of a project sponsored jointly by the government and IBM to develop a source of real "cold power" for space exploration. They plan a cryogenic computer that can be encased in a frigid cabinet no larger than a basketball. This would be the answer to a rocket designer's dream of a computer that will fit snugly into a space satellite

And what about the talk of freezing you for the future? Government scientists have perfected a cryogenic process for freezing whole blood indefinitely instead of just for three weeks at a time. However, plans to freeze people shortly after death in the hope of preserving cells for possible cures in the future are purely speculative.

Power of freezing, however, may provide the answer to a different problem of preservation. Many of the natural resources of the earth are used up or lost in great quantities every day. They cannot be replaced Therefore the storage of resources, as gases in frozen liquid form, has become a vital part of our national conservation program.

The freezing process has been used as an anesthetic in surgery for some time, but recently a new technique was perfected which allows surgeons to freeze even the human eye for delicate surgery.

The next time you see a television commercial for cold water laundering, remember that the science of cryogenics is the cold wave of the future

Decorate Christmas Tree According to Size, Shape

Trim your Christmas tree the way a woman dresses

Tall women use a drape effect and horizontal lines Short women use vertical motif. Thus, if you have a tall tree, trim crosswise If your tree is on the short side, trim up and down.

The authority for how to trim trees is a real authority He is a Chicagoan named Albert V. Sadacca, and with 50 years of experience behind him he is acknowledged to be the dean of the decorative Christmas tree light industry He and his brothers produced the first electric tree light set back in 1917. These first lights were painted bulbs with the wires attached to a home made battery, because electricity for the home was a luxury at that time.

"Trimming a Christmas tree is a real science," he says, "but it's a simple science and anyone can master it if they follow a few simple and basic instructions."

According to Sadacca, trimming should start from the top of the tree and proceed downwards First of all, though, attach the Christmas lights to the tree and test them.

Next, drape tinsel garlands, strung popcorn and strands of beads, or similar festoons Following this, attach glass ornaments, snow balls, icicles, candy canes, figures or other decorations

Complete the trimming job with silver tinsel or foil to accentuate brilliance and color of lights.

"The size of the tree should determine the number of miniature lights needed," he indicates. Continually he emphasizes the new mini-lights, as the larger bulbs are decreasing in popularity "If you are using a 4-foot tree, you will need 100 mini-lights for maximum illumination. On a 5-foot tree, use 150 lights A 6-foot tree uses 250 lights A 7-foot tree needs 300 lights, and an 8-footer requires 400 lights.

Check the Lights

Sadacca also advises the trimmer to check the lights to determine if they are permanent wired push-in or screw-base types.

"This is important. It can make the difference between permanently damaging the socket or maintaining it for replacement bulbs. Push in type lamps should be replaced by pulling the defective bulb straight out Do not twist it The new bulb should merely be pushed in. Another important point to remember is that in the event you do not plan to replace the burned-out bulb immediately, don't remove the bulb. A burned-out bulb must remain in the socked to complete the circuit The only exception is for a broken lamp Broken lamps do not make contact These should be replaced immediately.

"Equally as important is to replace the hulbs if several are burned out If this isn't done, burned-out bulbs left in place may cause the intact bulbs to heat up and melt the reflectors"

Overextension of Credit Step Towards Bankruptcy

NEW YORK — Each year, more than 175,000 American families file for bankruptcy A far larger number are classified by experts as financially "vulnerable" — they are not in trouble now, but they could easily be if they suffered any reverses.

The time to take stock is long before you reach this point — but do you know what the warning signals are? Consumer finance company personnel and other economic experts have compiled the following list of things that may spell trouble for you and your family.

A prime financial danger signal, say authorities in the field, is a combination of two financial conditions. If your savings for a rainy day are less than $200, and you have installment debt that would take more than a year to repay at current rates, you are "vulnerable" to any kind of economic reversal

If your installment debt totals more than 20 per cent of your annual income, that's another red flag of danger If you or your family are in both categories, watch out you are in a precarious situation

Financial experts consider these an overextension of credit and warn against assuming additional credit commitments. However, this does not include mortgage or noninstallment debt

Even the extra income provided by a working wife can sometimes spell danger, according to researchers for the consumer finance industry, because the additional money often tempts couples to buy luxury items not needed for overall family well-being. Financial experts warn against including a wife's salary in financial plans for more than six months ahead.

If your salary has remained the same in the past year, yet your bills have gone up, this could be another sign that it's time to cut back

How Much Credit

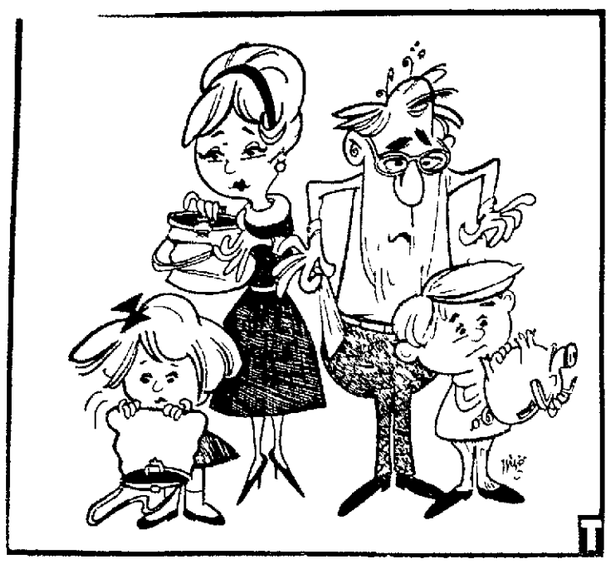
One way to find out how much credit you can safely carry is to discuss the matter with the manager of a state-regulated consumer finance office. Most of these small loan companies are members of the National Consumer Finance Association, which suggests this formula to help you pull back in time from unwise buying commitments:

Subtract such essential costs as shelter, food, clothing, heat, light, etc from your net income (take home pay), as well as expenses already committed . . . for insurance and savings programs, and perhaps payments on previous credit used. The portion of the take home pay remaining may be used for discretionary spending. It is the amount over which the consumer has some freedom of choice. NCFA experts advise spending no more than half of the uncommitted sum on new obligations

Consolidation Loan

If you do go deeply in debt, don't hide from your creditors. Instead look into the possibility of a consolidation loan — taking a single loan to pay off all the bills at once It's important to remember, however, that consolidating debts doesn't clear you of financial responsibility. But it does spread payments over a longer period of time, and reduces monthly payments to a sum that can fit within your budget

Whether or not you're financially "vulnerable", being on the alert for financial signals may keep you from going broke!



This Family Gone Broke joins more than 175,000 American families who file for bankruptcy each year Financial experts indicate that if your installment debt totals more than 20 per cent of your annual income, you are vulnerable to economic reversal

The Kansas City Philharmonic has found the answer to the mini-skirt — the culotte. The 28 feminine members of the orchestra introduced the flowing black crepe gowns Tuesday evening. Modleing are Mrs. Bettina Ganz, violinist, and Miss Christine Wineland, harpist. (AP Wirephoto)

Women Musicians Skirt the Problem

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Imagine going to a concert in culottes?

That's what 28 women plan to wear tonight for the Kansas City Philharmonic concert.

However, these 28 women are members of the orchestra and in these days of short short skirts it has become difficult to try to bow a cello or pluck a harp gracefully and comfortably.

The culottes appear as flowing black crepe gowns, accented by ice blue ruffles atth eneck and on the cufs. When seated, a front panel opens to a soft full pant or culotte.

Correct Safety Play Familiar

An experienced bridge player should recognize certain combinations of cards and know how to play them properly without having to work out the play at the table. For example, the correct play of the spades in today's hand should be familiar to every student of the game.

South needs four spade tricks for the slam. He can surely win these as long as neither opponent has all five of the missing spades.

The actual declarer began the spades by taking the ace. Now East had two spade tricks, and the slam was down one.

The correct play is to lead the king of spades first. Then South gets to his hand with the king of diamonds to lead a low spade toward dummy. This limits the spade loss to one trick even if he finds Q-10-x-x of spades on either side.

Steps Up

If West started with four spades, he can step up with the queen on the second round of the suit. This enables declarer to capture the rest of the spades with dummy's jack and his own ace.

In the actual hand, East would capture dummy's jack of spades with the queen. Later, declarer gets to dummy with a club to lead the four of spades through East, finessing through the 10-8 with the A-9 in the South hand.

The play of the spades would be identical if dummy started with J-4-2 and South had A-K-9-5-3. South would take the king of spades first and would then lead low toward dummy's jack-four. Memorize this as well as the hand actually shown to make sure that you can produce the right play without any trouble when you hold such a combination in actual play.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player doubles. You hold: S- Q 10 8 7, H- 6 4 2, D- 8 7 5 2, C- J 9. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. This raise, over a take-out double, promises good trump support but a very weak hand.

Mexican Homemakers Meet Handy, Instant Bean Products

BY ROBERT BERRELLEZ

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Meet the instant fried bean. Or its supermarket cousins, the plastic-bagged tortilla and chilled tamale.

These time-saving specialties are helping take the manana out of Mexican cooking.

Not too long ago cooking beans was almost a half-day job that began after an overnight soaking. Tortillas, the thin, round patties made of cornmeal dough, meant hours of stoveside labor. Turning out a batch of tamales was an even more heroic production.

Today, Mexican supermarkets offer canned beans in all varieties, including fried and refried. They also come in a powdered mixture, like instant whipped potatoes — add water and cook. Ready-made tamales are available at cheese counters and the once lowly tortilla, staple food of the poor, sits proudly among the breads, wrapped in clear plastic inked with the date of manufacture.

Mexicans have taken to supermarketing as naturally as if it had been an ancient Indian culture all along.

Some of the markets are larger and better stocked than their American counterparts. Could you buy a live alligator, a pelican or a pair of spider monkeys in your supermarket pet shop?

The merchandise is very nearly all Mexican-grown or produced but the packaging and promotion are American hard sell, designed to ease the last loose peso out of the customer.

The stores are surrounded with all the usual complementary conveniences, huge parking lots, auto repair shops and carnival-type entertainment — ferris wheels and carousels — for the kiddies.

Prices are out of reach of the poorer classes who make up the majority of Mexico City's four million-plus population. Thus, the labor-saving enterprise is making it easy mostly for the upper class maids, the foreign colony and lower middle-income families who cannot afford hired domestic help, even at $30 a month.

Traditionalists, maids among them, look disapprovingly on the pre-cooked specialties.

The poorer folk, the bargain-hunting affluent and the gourmets usually shop in huge fresh fruit and vegetable markets of such abundance as to make hunger seem a stranger to Mexicans. Some of them, housed in blocks-long structures, are like assembly line plants for gastronomes, almost self-contained communities, alive with the color and fragrance of fruits and spices.

"Outside of Paris and possibly the Bronx in New York," says Ernst Mueller, buyer for a U.S. hotel chain, "I cannot recall markets with such a wide-ranging variety of fresh produce."

Even here, where the canned bean is an intruder, labor saving is a consideration. The earthen cooking "olla" or jar has been replaced by the steel pot and pressure cooker. Some basic ingredients in cooking are sold readymade, for except among the very poor in remote villages certain traditional foods are not being made in the old manner.

Take tortillas. To make the dough, corn kernels must be cooked in lime for hours until the skins come off. Then, after a thorough washing, to the grinder to make the meal and dough. Readymade dough is now available in most stores. Rolled or hand-patted into thin, round cakes and cooked on a hot flat surface, it becomes a tortilla.

Tamales are most complicated: lard, broth, salt and a solution based on coarse saltpeter and the membranes of green tomatoes are added to corn meal dough.

There are many varieties of filling. One of the most popular is chicken with mole sauce. The chicken is a cinch, but the mole — rhymes with the bullring ole — is a bird of another feather.

Three different kinds of chili are toasted, cleaned, soaked in hot water and ground finely. Bits of tortilla and small quantities of peanuts, almonds and shelled pumpkin seeds are fried in lard. The seeds of sesame, anise and chili are toasted in a separate pan. Fried ingredients and toasted seeds are then combined and ground with onion and garlic. The mixture is sauted in lard, then ground chilis, cooked and shredded chicken, some broth, salt and pepper are added. After simmering and thickening, the filling is ready.

The stuffed dough is wrapped in soft cornhusks and arranged on a rack inside a pot. An hour or so of steaming and the tamales are done.

Around the Christmas holidays, some families like to do the traditional dishes the old way. Most of the time it's the quickie variety in the supermarket.

"They may not taste as good," says one housewife, "but I'm no longer married to the stove."

Child's 'Work' Requires Good Tools

Playing is the child's work, and don't expect him — or her — to be delicate about it.

Through play the child builds his concepts of himself, his family, playmates and the world about him. Play should, of course, be fun, but it's also an important educational process.

Toys and other play materials are the working tools of children's play. Like any other tools, they should be sturdy enough to withstand good hard work — playing.

Few children handle toys delicately. They drop them, throw them and pound them. Not only toys but play areas get rough treatment, and surfacing playrooms with a practical, durable material will reduce parental wear-and-tear.

Expensive Toys

Advance thought will help you avoid buying an expensive toy that won't interest your child at all. Electric trains, for example, are much beyond the interest span and motor skills of a four-year-old boy. Musical instruments should be purchased only after a child has shown genuine interest in music.

The quality of toys should be thoroughly checked before they are purchased. The mechanism of toys with moving parts should be hardy and usable; gears should mesh and other parts fit properly together. Sewing machines should really sew; plastic toy factories really make plastic toys and toy typewriters really type.

Remember, good work requires good tools — even if it is child's play.

'Mod' Santa Picks Bright Colors

Would you believe in Santa Claus? You would if your stocking were hung by the chimney with care and you woke to find the jolly old gentleman had put colorfast goodies in there Like pair after pair of fishnet hose in shades of lemon, lime, navy or rose. How mod of him! Plus a shimmering scarf and a color-mad cap . . . Believe it or not, these ideas come from big industry. The modern dye industry has created more than 4,000 colors to liven your dress and surroundings — and your Christmas stockings!

Same Traditions Kept

Bellaire Court Tells Plans For 40th Christmas Eve Ritual

In a coincidence of numbers, 40 Bellaire Court families will continue a 40-year tradition as they celebrate Christmas Eve with an outdoor ceremony and a visit from Santa Claus.

About 6 p.m. young boy bell ringers will announce the parade of torches, carried by the men of the court, and families will follow the bells and flames to a gathering around the 30-foot high tree in front of the Roy Wittwer home.

The Wittwers, new in the court this year, are continuing the tradition of the former residents, the Robert Watsons, in making their tree the focal point for the ceremony The tree was decorated and lighted Dec. 10.

Songs, Story

Christmas songs will be sung by a junior choir directed by Kim Grummer and Kay Nabbefeld. Ralph Landis, master of ceremonies, will add a new chapter to his annual original Christmas story.

Frequent interrupters of the story are Santa's callers, Mark and Greg Grummer, who periodically will shout from their invisible vantage point, to announce the latest progress of Santa's sleigh which carries a candy and gift-filled stocking for each court child or grandchild who is visiting for the holidays.

Three of the families who began the celebration still live in the court. They are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brunke, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Spencer and Oswald Vetter. Dr. Landis has led the celebration for 31 years, except for one interruption by a patient's emergency appendectomy.

Plan Early

Preparation began this year with a Tree Bee tea Dec. 7 at the home of Mrs. Orvie Buhl where new committees and chairmen were selected and a junior choir date practice set for Dec. 23 at the Arnold Grummer residence.

Families who still have them will decorate their yards with the 4-foot candy canes cut out and painted two years ago by Mrs. William Cherkasky, Mrs. Alex Sauter and Mrs. Grummer.

The torches, kept each year by Mr. Spencer, are the same ones carried 40 years ago.

Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Charles Sauter and Mrs. Bill Kiss.

Will Light Lamps

Adult lamplighters, who will carry the torches, are Carl Matson, Mr. Wittwer, Michael Hittle, Mr. Gochnauer, Dr. Landis, Mr. Vetter, Orv Koepke, Martin Gilbertson, Dr. Konz, Harold Haller, Sloan Culver, Harold Griffith, Mr. Kiss and Rudy Risse.

Others are Mr. Brunke, John Stephan, Wesley Smith, Ken Galow, Mr. Green, Mr. Buhl, Robert Barlament Milton Schreiner, Robert Taylor, Joseph Gamsky, Edward Mueller, James Kuebler, Charles Sauter, Mr. Grummer, Jerold Winzenz and Dr. Thomas Hempel.

Junior choir members are Kim and Mark Koepke; Terry and Ken Kiss; Kay, Sandra, Ben and Joey Nabbefeld; John and Jim Stephan; Judy Smith; Linda and David Galow; Jane, Kathy and Patty Buhl; Bill, Nancy and Jim Barlament; Alex Hittle; Connie and Joey Gamsky; Jay Winzenz and Kris, Tara and Camie Wittwer.

Handling finances are Paula Stephan, Mrs. Matson and Mrs. Joseph Gamsky.

Mrs. Caroline Nabbefeld and Mrs. Stephan have charge of purchasing.

Properties are being assembled by Mrs. Hittle, Mrs. Galow, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Wittwer, Mrs. Keubler, Mrs. Koepke, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Connelly and Miss Mabel Sibley. Mr. Koepke has charge of programs.

Tree decorators were Mr. Wittwer, Dr. Thomas Hempel, Mr. Winzenz, Mr. Kiss and Mr. Sauter.

Reader Asks Whether 'Zoo' Cause of Youngster's Allergy

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me what is wrong with a woman who has an asthmatic child and yet insists on keeping two chipmunks, a dog, a cat, a rabbit, a flying squirrel and three ducks. All this livestock walks around loose in the living room.

The child is forever wheezing and is now broken out all over with a terrible-looking rash.

I've told her if she would get rid of the zoo her boy might get well. She says I am crazy.

Please give me your opinion on whether or not this boy could be allergic to the animals. She might listen to you. — A Friend

Dear Friend: It is more than likely that the boy's allergy is related to the zoo, but only a doctor can say for certain. If the woman has not taken the boy to a physician, I certainly hope she will do so at once.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to comment on the letters you get from mothers who do not approve of their daughters' boyfriends. When my daughters are old enough to have boyfriends, I'll remember my own bitter past.

I was 18 and a high school graduate when I fell for a 30-year-old man who was separated from his wife. My mother kept telling me, "He's too old for you. He's no good. He'll never marry you."

I was determined to prove to my mother that I could get him to marry me. I nagged him into getting a divorce (which I know now he didn't want) and I even paid for it to knock down his excuse that he didn't have the money for a divorce.

That was eight years ago and now we have three children. The man is no good and I am miserable. I've left him twice, but with three kids it's too hard to go it alone, so now I am back with him. My mother keeps saying, "You made your bed. Now lie in it. If you had listened to me, you wouldn't be in this mess."

The truth is, if she had kept quiet, I would not be in this mess. Say so, please. — Determined

Dear D: The most difficult thing for a mother to learn is when to lay off. Mothers — and fathers, too — have an obligation to speak out and warn their children when they see them heading in the wrong direction. But having spoken out, they should keep quiet. Repeated nagging will serve only to drive their children to some rebellious act which, as you know so well, can be disastrous.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I came to work in this office two months ago. Everyone has been terribly kind to me, especially a woman who is about 10 years my senior. This woman would be quite attractive if she didn't have a mustache. It's the first thing I noticed about her when we met. Others have mentioned it also, so it's not my imagination.

She's so alert about so many things it's hard for me to understand why she is unaware of this. I know of a good cream that removes unwanted hair. I use it myself. Shall I mention it? — Celeste

Dear Cel: Yes, it would be a real act of friendship. Some people who seem alert about many things don't know what's going on right under their noses.

Do you feel ill at east . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Catholics Urge Break with Past In Education

Council Is Told Teamwork Is Answer To School Problems

"The only way Catholic education will find a solution to many problems is to have educators and qualified professional laymen work together," more than 150 Catholic grade and high school counselors and teachers were told recently

Speaking at the annual Green Bay Diocese Guidance Council meeting at Xavier High School was the Rev George H Moreau, OMI, consultant for guidance services for the National Catholic Guidance Council, Washington, D C.

"The time has come to tap the resources of innovation and imagination," he said, adding that one way to do this would be to set up educational advisory boards, composed of the laymen and educators.

Break Tradition

"Break out of traditional ways of doing things," he urged Change is not easy, he remarked, and warned againt the danger of keeping to traditional ideas, which he termed "hardening of attitudes."

For the high schools, Father Moreau saw a brighter picture, although he said that if Catholic education is to survive, it must survive by being different and unique, especially in offering a spiritual tone to education.

Of the six suggested pupil personnel services, the most important in Catholic Education, he felt, was the spiritual.

"This is what makes Catholic schools different from public schools," he stated.

Lists Ideas

The other five pupil personnel services, which he felt differed from the traditional guidance services, included attendance, guidance, health, psychological, and social.

The Catholic official also listed some other ideas which the schools could use to improve their programs.

Among them were team learning of teachers, parents and students, and a parent interview record, which would be included in the student's cumulative record for further analyses.

In charge of the program, titled "A Blueprint for the Future," was Sister M. Sebastian, OFS, guidance director at Xavier and president of the Green Bay Diocesan Guidance Council.

Appleton Man Charged For Disorderly Conduct

Darryl Hitt, 21, 408 W. Wisconsin Ave., pleaded innocent Tuesday afternoon to a disorderly conduct charge brought following investigation by Appleton detectives.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Dec 18 and set bond at $100. Police allege that Hitt became abusive with a 14-year-old girl who was babysitting at his home Dec. 1

Lawrence Student Fined $50, Costs

A disturbance at an apartment occupied by two girls Nov 15 cost a Lawrence University student $50 and costs or 24 days in jail Tuesday afternoon

John Oppenheim, 20, Warren, Mich., pleaded no contest and was found guilty of disorderly conduct. Peter Seipple, 23, Beaver Dam, another Lawrence student and an alleged companion in the Nov 15 disturbance, pleaded innocent and had trial set for Thursday afternoon He was released on $100 bond

An Appleton detective told the court Tuesday that his department investigated a complaint Nov 16 by two girls who said they were asleep in their apartment about 2 55 a.m Nov 15 when three young men entered through an unlocked door

The detective said the men reportedly attempted to pull the covers from the girls' beds and caused about $15 damage to the bed and to dishes in the apartment. The identity of the third person who entered the apartment was not learned.

The men reportedly told police they had been invited to the apartment in the past They made restitution for the damage.

Migrant Leader Charges Bias In Survey

Salas Urges State Use Hourly Scale, Not Piece Rate Plan

WAUTOMA (AP)— Jesus Salas, director of a Wisconsin migrant workers union, told a state commission Tuesday night that a survey conducted last summer among cucumber pickers in central Wisconsin was "biased" and "nonrepresentative."

Salas, organizer and director of United Workers, testified at a hearing before the three-man Commission of Industry, Labor aand Human Relations

The commission, headed by Joseph C. Fagan, held the hearing to test public sentiment of a commission plan to use piece rates rather than statutory minmum hourly wages among migrant workers.

The commission will probably announce its decision on Dec. 22, Fagan said

Attacks Survey

Salas attacked a survey conducted last summer in Waushara and Portage counties among cucumber pickers He said the survey was inaccurate and represented a minute percentage of the total industry in central Wisconsin.

The commission's proposal is based on a size distribution system, under which various sized cucumbers would provided proportionately increased or decreased returns to the workers. According to the plan, $2.32 per hundredweight would be returned to the worker.

Salas and the majority of the others testifying urged that the commission drop the proposed piece rate plan in favor of an hourly minimum

Only two persons, a cucumber grower and a pickle plant manager, testified in favor of the piece rate proposal

New Concept

K-C to Show Miniature Papermaking Machine

Employes of Kimberly-Clark Corporation are getting a preview look at a miniature model of the company's newest paper-making machine now under construction in Appleton.

The 11-foot scale model of the multi-million-dollar machine will be exhibited at Kimberly-Clark's main office in Neenah Thursday, and will move to Neenah Paper Co. Friday, prior to going on a 10-month road tour.

The $10,000 aluminum and brass reproduction is housed in a specially outfitted van, which will travel 40,000 miles in the United States and Canada for representatives to paper wholesalers. The tour begins in January.

Duplicate Machine

The miniature is a duplicate of a machine being installed at the Moraine business papers mill near Dayton, Ohio. Business papers also are produced at the company's Neenah Paper and Munsing, Mich., plants.

The model was built to scale from engineering drawings. Construction took four months, representing 1,750 man-hours.

Each of the model's 1,050 pieces was cut, polished and fitted separately. Materials are one-quarter inch aluminum sheets and 15-1000 inch brass shim stock. The components are secured by brass machine screws, some as short as a blunted pencil tip and as thin as a sharp pencil point.

The actual machine, being built by Allis Chalmers-Appleton plant, is part of a major expansion program at the Ohio plant It will have an annual capacity of 48,750 tons, bringing maximum yearly mill output to 136,000 tons of sulphite papers for general office use and uncoated papers for commercial printers.

The Moraine mill produces 3,500 different kinds and sizes of business papers. The concept, unique in the paper industry, provides 30-minute order processing for any quantity and size of paper.

Happy Healthy Youngsters Don't Need to Bully Others

BY DR. EVE. JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: When my son was about 18 months old, he him. The teacher convinced us started pushing and hitting that we had to teach him to be everyone. My husband thought it civilized, not to hurt people was cute, so we did nothing when he was angry or unhappy, about it. We did just that, and now my

When my son was 3 years old, son is an outgoing, friendly boy he went to nursery school And with plenty of friends. When he he was so aggressive and loud gets angry, he tells us about it and bothersome that none of the other children would go near and we try to help him understand what's happening. We don't strike him and he knows he may not hit others, even if they hit him. He must tell us or the teacher or the adult in charge.

That's fine. Except lately one boy in school has decided he likes to hit our son for no apparent reason. Yesterday this boy beat ours with a stick.

My husband says we should teach our son how to box so he can fight back when someone starts a fight. My husband says otherwise our boy will be a sissy.

I've just burst into tears about this, because I don't see why children have to fight at all. I know our son is happier today than when he was hitting everyone he disagreed with And I know he isn't a sissy. But my husband says I'm wrong not to teach our boy to fight. What should I do? MRS. S. A.

Stand up for what you know is right. It sounds as if your husband still thinks it's cute for people to bully one another. Tell him you find this repulsive and you won't permit him to involve your son in such foolish ideals. Even if his goal was simply to teach your son a "sport," not how to bully other kids, your husband's plan to teach a boy this age to box is unwise. That's too much to expect a 6-year-old child to learn without provoking emotional problems.

Don't expect your son to suffer without relief, however. Go to the teacher and insist that she keep control over the boy who's bullying your son. If she refuses or can't, speak to the principal, the boy's parents, and — if necessary, the peace bond officer at your local police station. You're right. Happy and healthy children don't need to fight.

DEAR DR. JONES: I have gone to a lot of trouble to fix up a lovely play room for my children in the basement. They have their own TV set down there, all their toys, and plenty of room. But they persist in bringing their things up into the living room or turning on the TV set in the living room while my husband and I are trying to hold a quiet conversation. They say they don't like the basement because it's dark — and that's foolish, because it has several right fluorescent light fixtures What makes them like this? MRS. G. T.

They're just trying to tell you that they want to be near you two to reassure themselves they're really part of a family, not a separate group of people. And they're also probably jealous of the tie between you and their father. Have a heart and let them play nearby, instead of being banished to the dungeon. There's plenty of time to talk with your husband once the kids are in bed if you've set sensible bedtime for them.

DEAR DR. JONES: I have three children, 5, 3½, and 2 years old If I turn my back on them for a minute, they tear the entire house to pieces. The only solution I've found is to keep everything locked up. This way, when they're ready to put the toy they're playing with back in the toy chest, they come to me and I unlock the padlock and let them select another toy. And I unlock their dressers to let them pick out their clothes.

I think this is a good solution, but my neighbor says it's wrong If it is wrong, what else can I do? MRS. D. A.

Generally speaking, you should be eliminating the pressures that make them so hostile and destructive. Healthy children who are treated with care and consideration don't need to live in a prison.

But it's doubtful whether you can solve your problems on your own, even with the help this book provides. So how about getting the personal counseling help that will let you enjoy being a parent, not a warden? Along with your husband, ask for personal counseling help at the agency whose name is being sent to you.

For a copy of her pamphlet, "To Spank or Not To Spank," send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Eve Jones, in care of The Post-Crescent.

Dinner for 200 Ready in an Hour

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — How long does it take to prepare dinner for 200 persons? The U.S. Army can do it in an hour.

A new field kitchen, developed at the Army's food laboratories at Natick, Mass., does it by using microwave ovens and huge blenders all mounted on a normal size truck. A blender, for example, can toss salad for 100 men in two seconds.

The new kitchen was displayed recently during the annual conference on exploring food systems of the future held at Cornell University.

Their Pride Goeth Before Destruction

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Two juveniles arrested for the burglary of an electronics shop provided police with ready-made confessions.

The loot included two tape recorders. After they were stolen, the thieves wanted to make sure they worked. So they tested them

Instead of the usual "1-2-3-4 testing," they said, "Our names are so-and-so and we just stole two tape recorder."

The youths' protestations of innocence quickly vanished when officers played back the tape to them.

Puerto Rico Booms But There Are Fears

New Investments Increase, Employment Up But So Is Unemployment; Some Complain

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

SAN JUAN, P.R (AP) — The words "tropical paradise" have a special meaning for investors in Puerto Rico. They get liberal tax concessions, cheaper labor, low investment costs and the promise of profits averaging over 20 per cent a year. In return, the island gets jobs.

The need to create work on this crowded island has been an overriding concern since World War II Unemployment is officially listed at 11 per cent of the labor force, with 20 per cent more listed as underemployed, even though the government has turned Puerto Rico into an industrial satellite of the United States

Government Agencies

The Puerto Rico Industrial Development Corp. and an agency called Fomento, both created by the government, seek to attract industry

Among Fomento-promoted manufacturers, net income rose by 15.2 per cent during 1966-67 to $461 1 million. This represented 68 per cent of total manufacturing income Among non-Fomento industry, income increased 2.8 per cent.

Total new investments on the island have increased by 13.5 per cent annually during the current decade.

Tourism assumes a role nearly as important as U S. investments. Last year, a record 809,753 tourists spent $161 8 million, an increase of 16 per cent over the previous year.

One often hears the quip that Fidel Castro is Puerto Rico's national hero because the tourists who used to go to Cuba come to Puerto Rico now

Per capita income passed the $1,000 mark for the first time in the 1966-67 fiscal year, reaching $1,047. Taking inflation into account, real income rose by 4.6 per cent. This is below the total for any U S. state, but is second only to the Virgin Islands in the Caribbean area.

"We have few resources and too many people," says Miguel Echenique, director of an office of economic and social analysis. "The only way to create jobs is to bring industry here."

Tax Holidays

He adds the obvious, that industry will come only when it is profitable. Since Puerto Rico is a relatively poor island with only a limited market, it needs incentive. This has taken the form of tax holidays that range from 10 to 17 years, depending on where on the island an industry locates.

The development corporation will build and lease industrial plants, train workers and make low-interest loans available.

Given all these factors, mainland industries have had a good return on their investment In 1964-65, the last year for which figures are available, total profit for Fomento-promoted industry was 20 1 per cent on total investment As a percentage of total sales, profits average 18 per cent There are no taxes on profits until the money returns to the United States.

Fomento has passed the 1,500 mark on the number of new industries it has attracted to the island. Some 111 came during the last year and employment in Fomento-backed industry rose by 6,000 to a total of 91,000. The average hourly wage was $1.41 in August, up 12 cents from the previous year. The minimum wage here is $1 25 an hour, against $1.40 on the mainland.

Light Industry

Most mainland industry locating in Puerto Rico is light industry—textiles, leather goods, electronics, glassware, optical products and paints.

Phillips Petroleum is building a multimillion-dollar petrochemical complex on Puerto Rico's south coast. Refined oil products will go to the United States

One out of every eight cigars Americans smoke comes from Puerto Rico. About 60 per cent of the brassieres worn in the United States are manufactured on the island, according to Fomento figures. The United States imposes no tariffs on goods from Puerto Rico.

Of total exports in 1965-66, 70 per cent were manufactured goods, while traditional Caribbean exports⅞coffee, sugar, tobacco—were 26 per cent.

Sixteen years ago, the situation was reversed—agricultural products made up 86 per cent of the total.

A bothersome aspect is that unemployment continues only slightly improved from what it was 20 years ago.

In 1965-66, the employment level increased by 28,000 to 716,000 employed. But unemployed increased from 84,065 to 90,579.

Lack New Jobs

Echenique says the employment problem has been complicated by a lack of new job opportunities in traditional agricultural endeavors which either stood still or declined as employers.

"The government needs to create between 23,000 and 28,000 jobs a year just to keep up with the natural growth of the population," he estimates.

Some people from agricultural areas do not easily adapt to other employment. Further complicating the picture is an influx of job-seeking Cubans and Dominicans.

Not everybody agrees that the island government's economic policies are wise.

Elements that favor independence contend that Puerto Rico is being economically exploited, that the island is giving too much and receiving too little.

Advocates of making Puerto Rico a state argue that although progress has been made, there is no guarantee it will continue since the Puerto Rican economy is at Washington's mercy. If Congress decided to set quotas, or declare tariffs and alter taxing policies, they say, Puerto Rico's economic bubble would burst.

Individual senators and congressmen are not always happy when industry locates in Puerto Rico because of special conditions when they might otherwise locate in one of the 50 states.

To the present government, there's no other way.

"We need industry, it has to come from the United States, and it will come only if it is profitable to do so," says Echenique.

Human Derelicts Get Chance

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) -- There are only 400 left, but some of them have been rattling around in Europe's displaced persons camps since World War II mentally disturbed refugees rejected by every country in which they have sought haven.

Some are alcoholics, others drug addicts, seeking solace from the dreary existence of the rootless, a mere number on a roster.

A few have committed crimes, usually petty infractions, but serious enough to label them "unacceptable for normal migration."

"It is shocking," says Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, U.N. high commissioner for refugees, "and a reflection on the whole system of international refugee work.

"The governments are largely to blame," adds the 34-year-old son of the late Aga Khan III, "for the fact that in 1967, we should still be seeking solutions for European refugees who came within our mandate as far back as the immediate postwar period.

Immigration System

"It is all part of the problem created by the rigidity of immigration."

Europe has nearly solved its refugee problem by resettling thousands of homeless persons in Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the United States.

Even those with physical disabilities, such as amputees and epileptics, were accepted en masse in the late 1950s in a heartening break-through.

But the plight of these chronic losers, the mental casualties, remained a gnawing problem for the refugee commission.

"It wasn't until we were able to provide psychiatric treatment that we began to get encouraging results," Prince Sadruddin told The Associated Press. "We found, for instance, that supposedly habitual criminals went straight when they received mental help.

Remedy Needed

"But as long as such people remain handicapped, the more difficult they become to care for. It is a situation that requires urgent remedy."

The fortunes of these mental casualties brightened several years ago when Dr. F.A.S. Jensen, chief medical officer for the Australian Immigration Department in Rome, became interested. With the blessings of his government and the refugee commission, Jensen launched an investigation in 1961 of 394 so-called hopeless cases in Italy. Within a year, after crash treatment, 209 of them had been accepted for migration.

Until Jensen drew up his dossiers, delving into the reasons behind the troubles of these hapless persons, there had been a tendency to deal in labels rather than personalities. The label "alcoholic" or "penal record" was enough to bar immigration without further discussion.

Nerves Shattered

Such a case was Piotr D., whose nerves had been shattered in a concentration camp. He turned up in Italy at the end of the war and became known as a belligerent drunk. In 1948, he became embroiled in a free-for-all in which a man lost his life. He spent three years in jail.

Convinced that his life was ruined, Piotr was in the process of drinking himself into oblivion in 1962, when he came under Jensen's scrutiny. The doctor analyzed his plight as "a typical case of the vicious circle of frustration—drinking, further frustration, further drinking."

In 1963, Belgium agreed to accept Piotr, and for 18 months he worked in a coal mine, until it closed. There was a return to the frustration cycle and several brushes with the law. But two Belgians, a social worker and a psychiatrist, espoused Piotr's cause, and attempts are now being made to find him work that will not provoke his "frustration tolerance," eroded by years spent in refugee camps.

Numbers Dwindling

In 1962, the refugee commission had all of its perennial rejects, about 800 persons, given thorough medical examinations including psychiatric evaluation. Over the ensuing five years, the commission managed to place 400 of these persons and their families in countries willing to give them shelter and employment.

"Last spring, we tackled the job of making sure that the final 400 persons in this group should be helped in one way or another," says Prince Sadruddin.

"Migration is not psosible for the entire group. We expect that about half will have to be cared for permanently, either in protected communities or similar institutions in the countries where they are now living."

But it is a far cry from the future these persons faced a few years ago.

Correctional Institution Group Dumps 'Prison'

BOSTON (AP) -- The United Prison Association of Massachusetts, keeping in step with the time, has changed its name to the Masachusetts Correctional Association.

Albert Morris, president of the 78-year-old citizens' organization, recently that institutions formerly called prisons in Massachusett now are officially "correctional institutions."

"The change is in line with rapidly evolving concepts," he said.

Tiny College Borrows Band for Ceremonies

DOMINGUEZ, Calif. (AP) — California State College at Dominguez Hills is still so small that officials had to borrow a school band to play for ground-breaking ceremonies

The 40-member El Camino college band played as Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch turned over the traditional spadeful of earth.

Nearly 150 students—a third of the student body—turned out for the ceremony recently. The college is being constructed to serve 20,000 students.

No Captured Fliers Have Turned Against U. S., Major Asserts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — North Vietnam is believed to be holding 300 American fliers captive but not a single one is known to be a turncoat, says an Air Force Academy official

Maj. Keith D. Young, who trains cadets in survival, evasion, recovery and escape, said in a speech recently that 758 Air Force and Navy aircraft have been lost over North Vietnam.

He estimated at least half the fliers must be in North Vietnamese custody. Hanoi has not released the exact figure.

"I know of none" who have broken in captivity and renounced the U.S. role, Young asserted.

Game Saturday:
Wisconsin Rapids at Neenah (Non-conference)

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

High-flying, unbeaten Kimberly meets rapidly-improving Kaukauna on the Ghosts' court Friday night in an important early-season showdown between Mid-Eastern Conference title hopefuls.

The Papermaker-Ghost tilt is one of four M-E clashes slated for the same evening. Elsewhere, Neenah travels to Shawano, Two Rivers visits Menasha, and New London is at Clintonville. Wisconsin Rapids invades Neenah Saturday night for a non-conference battle.

Kimberly, tied with defending champion Neenah for the loop lead with a 2-0 mark, will be getting perhaps its must severe test of the season. Coach Jack Wippich's club has whipped five foes in all, while Ken Vander Velden's crew owns 1-1 in the league and 3-3, overall.

Outlook Changes

However, the Kaukauna outlook has changed considerably since the Ghosts dropped three of their first four games. Kaukauna got a big boost mentally last Friday, when New London was made an easy 88-64 victim. An even bigger lift came the following night, as the Ghosts exploded to beat Wisconsin Rapids, 93-81, in overtime.

Keys to the Kaukauna resurgence have been seniors Denny Spice and Ron Vock. Spice, now now the M-E's top scorer with 50 points, started off the season slowly but has steadily regained his shooting eye. The 6-3 forward threw in 26 against the Bulldogs and 25 more against Rapids.

Vock, a 6-2 guard, has tallied 30 points in the two league outings, but 28 of them came at New London. He connected for 21 more against the Red Raiders.

Steady center Dick Carstens ranks fourth in league scoring with 34 points to give Kaukauna three boys in the top 10. The trio, if hot Friday night, could combine to upend the Papermakers.

Success at Kimberly has resulted from balance and bench strength. With a flock of juniors on the squad, Wippich has been able to juggle his charges without giving away too much talent. Nifty guard Don Hagany tops the team in conference scoring with 28 points (ninth), and Jeff VandenHeuvel and Wayne Swokowski both have 25.

Bill Lamers led the Papermakers to their latest win, a 77-

Spirit Unbroken, UW's Walker Shifts Ambition To Social Work Career

By LEW FERGUSON

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) —Mel Walker stood up on his right leg for the first time Tuesday, admitted his amputated left leg hurt "like the devil," but refused to let the experience affect his good spirits

The incident was typical of Walker's attitude throughout the ordeal of losing his left leg just below the knee—the result of a football injury which cost the University of Wisconsin sophomore a promising future in the game.

"It never has bothered me getting the leg off," Walker said in his first conversation with anyone from the news media since his leg was amputated last Wednesday.

"I just want to get another one on there and be like everybody else."

Nurses said the 20-year-old native of Institute,W. Va, has never lost his spirit.

A Collision

Walker, injured when he defended against a pass in the Minnesota-Wisconsin game here Nov 25, spoke frankly about his ordeal and optimistically about the future.

"I don't know what happened," he said of the play on which his left knee was torn badly, "except that I was playing free safety and this receiver was running a post pattern I came up from deep in the end zone to cut him off and there was a collision. I don't know how my leg was hit: I just know I fell down and it hurt.

"I never did pass out; I have not passed out yet."

There was no hint of rancor on Walker's part. "Everything was done that could be done," he said "The leg had to come off: there was no other way"

The future?

"I don't think I want tg coach," Walker said "I want to be a social worker—pust a plain social worker.

"I've got to study harder now and get my grades up. I'd say I'm an average student, but I want to be above average."

He wanted to play pro football. "I think my best position

The future?

"I don't think I want to coach," Walker said "I want to be a social worker—just a plain social worker.

"I've got to study harder now and get my grades up. I'd say I'm an average student, but I want to be above average."

He wanted to play pro football "I think my best position would have been defensive back," he said. "But I was going to try for quarterback again next season (at Wisconsin)"

Walker said he has "gotten mail from all over—mostly from people I never heard of."

His parents, Mr and Mrs Prince A. Walker have been with him here the past 10 days but are returning home Saturday.

Perks Up Spirits

"I think he's kept everybody's spirits up," Mrs Walker said "A minister was here. He said he came to cheer Melvin up, but he got cheered up himself. Melvin can't pity himself. If you sit around looking for pity, that doesn't accomplish anything."

"Everybody has been wonderful to us," the senior Walker said "So many people have asked to help."

Melvin sat up for the first time Monday and stood up for the first time Tuesday. He's already in therapy.

He has an outside chance of being able to leave the hospital by Christmas.

Then, he's going home to West Virginia for a month. But he plans to be back in Madison, Wis., by early February for the start of the second semester.

"I won't have to worry about football now," he said. "I can just study."

Bradley Scores 23, but Knicks Lose to Hawks

17,524 Watch Double-Overtime NBA Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bradley's streak still is alive. For the second time since he became a $500,000 member of the New York Knickerbockers he brought the crowd at Madison Square Garden to the edge of hysteria.

Unfortunately, the team, which Bradley is to lead out of the National Basketball Association wilderness, also has its streak alive—four straight losses.

The latest defeat came Tuesday night, 145-142 to St. Louis in two overtimes, the brightest spot for the Knicks—or at least Knicks' fans being Bradley's performance.

The former two-time Princeton All-America, who finds himself in the role of premier of basketball in a city that loves the sport, is an unassuming young man who would rather play basketball than talk about how, what or why he plays it so well.

Bradley made 10 of 16 shots from the floor, finished with 23 points, handed out seven assists and grabbed five rebounds before fouling out in the second overtime after 47 minutes of action.

Before the hopes of the 17,524 fans soared with Bradley and crashed with the final result, Hal Greer put on a little show of his own by scoring 38 points in leading the Philadelphia 76ers past the Seattle SuperSonics 118-107.

In the only other NBA action, Baltimore smashed Detroit 140-117 and San Diego topped Chicago 118-104.

Bradley missed the only shot in the first quarter but then hit on eight straight as the Knicks ran up a 108-86 lead with 6:55 left in the fourth quarter.

But psyche is exactly what the Hawks did to the Knicks, and they did it with a full-court press. With their defense forcing New York errors and Lenny Wilkens, Bill Bridges and Caldwell getting hot hands, the Hawks fought back to tie the game at 124-124 on Wilkens' hook shot with 10 seconds left and send it into overtime.

A Downcast Sam Huff, veteran linebacker in the National Football League for 12 years, is shown during a news conference Tuesday as he announced he would retire after next Sunday's last regular-season game. Foxes Suffer $3,362.89 Loss For Club Operations in 1967

The weatherman appears to have been the culprit as the Appleton Foxes lost money in 1967 despite winning their second straight Midwest Baseball League championship.

The club's stockholders learned Tuesday night, at the annual meeting, that the Foxes lost a net of $3,362.89 for their 1967 operations. This compares to a profit of $2,435.04 for 1966 — the first pennant year under the club's affiliation with the Chicago White Sox.

Because of weather problems, the Foxes had only 50 home dates in 1967, and in seven of these featured doubleheaders to make rain-outs. However, five dates were washed out completely. The total attendance of 48,186 (an average of 964 a date) was 10,007 below the 1966 figure.

Total receipts for 1967 were $56,898.41, while the expenses amounted to $60,261.30. The largest items in the receipts column were $19,895.79 from concessions, $16,658.80 from the gate and $13,683 from advertising. The income total was helped by $1,470, a new bonus provided this year for all minor league teams who finished the season; and $600 from the ML for winning the title.

The biggest items of expense were $8,980.17 for concessions purchases; $7,792.20 for hotel bills and meals on the road; $6,326.50 for business manager's salary; and $5,256.62 for special events promotion and advertising.

Six Re-elected

Six directors were re-elected, and Jim Choudoir replaced Bob Kamps (who declined to run for re-election) on the board. Those named to new terms were Frank Briske, A. G. Patterson, Art Benson, Bob Kamps, George Kloes, Judge A. W. Parnell and S. M. Timmers.

All officers were re-elected by the directors, and Dr. Larry Keller was added as assistant treasurer. Those re-named are Bob Rahn, president; Joe Schouten, vice president; Timmers, secretary; C. O. Baetz, treasurer; and Briske, recording secretary.

Baetz, superintendent of the remodeling project at Goodland Field, announced that excellent progress has been made but asked for volunteer help to finish the project. He said the 30 by 96 foot addition was all enclosed. The concession booth is set up, and the home club shower room has been tiled. The public washrooms have been enlarged and renovated, and a new gas-fired hot water boiler is being installed, Baetz reported.

Rahn, is his annual report, paid tribute to Baetz, for his work on the project; to Benson and John Wissman, for their stock sales (a total of $1,600 has been sold in the new drive); to George Kloes, for his work on the Red Smith banquet (which neted the Foxes $1,000 last year) and to Ed Holtz for being named "executive of the year" in the league.

Holtz reported that Dubuque will definitely be in the league in '68 despite the Dodgers pulling out. The team will likely be managed by Max Lanier and will be stocked by the Tigers (with four players) and by 16 other clubs (one player each).

The club has opened a new construction account at the Appleton State Bank. Keith Damrow and Don Hawkins were named associated directors.

'Grabo' May Play

Missed Assignment Costly, Says Vince

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Packers have earned an awesome reputation for capitalizing on enemy errors en route to winning four National Football League titles in the last six seasons.

This approach, in fact, is a fundamental precept of Vince Lombardi's spectacularly successful coaching credo — "The team that makes the fewest mistakes is going to win," game in and game out.

The Packer headmaster thus was displeased to discover, in Monday's film review of that last minute, 24-24 misfortune in Los Angeles, that a missed assignment cost the world champions victory.

Discounting the theory that it would have been impossible to hold off the 8-man rush of punter Donny Anderson by the Rams, Lombardi declared today, "one man, and only one man, had a chance to block it."

"If he (Ram Tony Guillory) had been touched," Lombardi added, "he couldn't have gotten to Anderson."

Lombardi, in keeping with his long established policy, declined to identify the erring Packer.

"Anderson was kicking perfectly on rhythm and there's no reason he shouldn't have gotten the punt off. But he had no chance at all. One guy in front missed the block, and one guy only."

Distance, Lombardi explained, was not a factor on the ill-fated maneuver. "He (Anderson) was standing 15 yards back. If he had been back any farther, we would have trouble getting the ball to him."

Lombardi declined to evaluate the Rams, who have been installed as 2-point favorites over the Colts in their showdown for the Coastal Division title Sunday.

And Ram quarterback Roman Gabriel "he had a fine day," Lombardi replied.

In reporting on the injury situation, a continuing problem to the Central Division champions as they prepare for Sunday's regular season finale against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Lambeau field, he said did not know at this point about the status of Ben Wilson.

Wilson suffered what have been described as "badly bruised ribs in the third quarter at Los Angeles and did not return to action. Chuck Mercein, who subsequently scored the touchdown that sent the Pack into a 24-20 lead late in the final period, went the rest of the way at fullback.

There also is no definite word on the availability of Jim Grabowski, who has been sidelined since the Bear rematch in Chicago Nov. 26 with a recurrence of a knee injury, he said.

"We'll have to play it by ear," Lombardi said. "We hope to have him available for the playoff game, but he could use a little work next Sunday. I don't know if we'll risk him against Pittsburgh, though."

6 Packers Chosen On All-NFL Team; Unitas Named QB

Davis, Robinson, Jeter, Wood, Kramer and Gregg Sited by AP

NEW YORK (AP) — John Unitas, shut out without a vote last year, was named quarterback of the National Football League All-Star team selected for The Associated Press today by a panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Unitas' skill in guiding the Colts through 13 games without defeat was recognized by a landslide vote of the committee, three from each league city.

Despite the Colts' fine record, the old reliable Green Bay Packers still had the most men on the team with a total of six, two on offense and four on defense Dallas placed four and Baltimore three. Nine of the teams had players on the first team New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New Orleans, Minnesota, Detroit and San Francisco were blanked.

Looking ahead to Sunday's meeting of the Colts and Los Angeles Rams for the right to play the Packers in the Western Conference final, Baltimore has Unitas tight end John Mackey and flanker Willie Richardson on the first offensive team The Rams put two of their Fearsome Foursome on the defensive line—end Dave "Deacon" Jones and tackle Merlin Olsen

Unitas' running backs on the first team were the incomparable Gale Sayers of Chicago and Leroy Kelly of Cleveland His receivers were Mackey, Richardson and split end Charley Taylor of Washington.

DeMarco at Center

Bob DeMarco of St. Louis was the center, flanked by Jerry Kramer of Green Bay and Gene Hickerson of Cleveland at the guards and Ralph Neely of Dallas and Forrest Gregg of Green Bay at the tackles.

The five repeaters from 1966 on offense were Mackey, Gregg, Kramer, Kelly and Sayers Taylor replaced Dallas' Bob Hayes, Neely took Philadelphia Bob Brown's job at tackle and Hickerson supplanted John Thomas of San Francisco. Both Brown and Thomas were injured much of the season and Hayes wound up with a pulled hamstring

DeMarco succeeded Mick Tingelhoff of Minnesota and Richardson took the flanker job that Detroit's Pat Studstill had a year ago.

Unitas, of course, was filling the spot Bart Starr of Green Bay held in 1966.

There were only three changes in the defensive unit, two linebackers and one cornerback. The same front four were back That meant Willie Davis of Green Bay at one end and Jones at the other withh Bob Lilly of Dallas and Olsen at the tackles

Tommy Nobis of Atlanta pushed his way into the middle linebacker job, held by Green Bay's Ray Nitschke last year. Dave Robinson of the Packers, replacing teammate Lee Roy Caffey, and repeater Chuck Howley of Dallas, were the other linebackers

Bob Jeter of the Packers ousted his veteran teammate, Herb Adderley, from one starting corner back job. Cornell Green of Dallas was a repeater at the other corner and both Larry Wilson of St. Louis and Willie

Bakken Has 13-Point Lead in NFL Scoring

Travis Williams Leads in Kickoff Returns

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Bakken of the St. Louis Cardinals appears to have the scoring title just about locked up in the National Football League with 115 points on 27 field goals of 38 attempts and a perfect score in extra points with 34 in a row. Bruce Gossett, Los Angeles placekicker, won a year ago with 113 points.

Leroy Kelly, Cleveland's fine running back, has the rushing crown in hand with 1,143 yards and one game to go. Gale Sayers of Chicago, the 1966 champ, is seventh with 760 yards. The battle for the passs receiving title still is wide open. Charley Taylor and Jerry Smith, both of Washington, each has caught 62 passes although Taylor has 899 yards to Smith's 813. Willie Richardson, Baltimore flanker, has 58, to break the Redskins' 1-2-3 monopoly, but then comes Bobby Mitchhell of Washington with 57 catches. Top yardage receiver is Ben Hawkins of Philadelphia with 1,167 yards.

Sonny Jurgensen of Washington still has the passing edge over runnerup John Unitas of Baltimore in the standings bases on percentage of completions, interceptions, touchdowns and average gain.

In other individual categories the leaders are Billy Lothridge of Atlanta in punting with a 43.9-yard average; Dave Whitsell of New Orleans with 10 interceptions; Ben Davis of Cleveland with a 11.9-yard average on punt returns; and Travis Williams of Green Bay with a 44.6-yard average on kickoff returns. Willliams has run back four for touchdowns, a league record.

Vandy's 'Short Six' Beats Davidson; NC Rally Spills Kentucky

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two years ago it was Rupp's Runts. Now it's Skinner's Short Six.

Skinner's Short Six refers to Vanderbilt's college basketball team coached by Roy Skinner. Rupp's Runts refers to the Kentucky team coached by Adolph Rupp which was beaten by Texas Western, now Texas, El Paso, in the final of the NCAA championship tourney for the 1966 national title.

Tom Hagan, a 6-foot-3 junior and one of the Short Six, canned a 20-foot jump shot with two seconds left, to give third-ranked Vanderbilt an 81-79 overtime victory over eighth-ranked Davidson at Nashville Tuesday night.

Seventh-ranked North Carolina whipped fourth-ranked Kentucky 84-77 at Greensboro, N.C., in the other major game involving teams in The Associated Press Top Ten.

Average 6-3½

Skinner's Short Six, Hagan, Bo Wyenandt, Bob Warren, Kenny Campbell, Perry Wallace and Gene Lockyear, average only 6-3½, but they came from 12 points back to knock Davidson from the unbeaten ranks

The Commodores rallied to tie the regulation game at 75-75 before winning in the extra period for their fourth straight. Hagan was high for Vandy with 21, including two field goals in the overtime. Rod Knowles topped Davidson with 22.

Behind at 54-53, North Carolina exploded to take an 11-point lead in the last eight minutes and hand Kentucky its first defeat. Larry Miller's tip-in put the Tar Heels ahead for good at 65-64 and Rusty Clark followed with several baskets to make it 71-64.

Best Game

Clark's 23 points topped the Tar Heels, who played their best game of the season according to Coach Dean Smith.

In other games, Michigan State beat Western Michigan 78-67, Baylor overcame New Orleans Loyola 88-75, Texas Tech defeated Oklahoma 74-67, Iowa State downed Northern Illinois 77-69 and Syracuse humbled the Georgetown Hoyas 95-78 in a game delayed for 39 minutes while police searched McDonough Gym in Washington for a bomb. None was found.

Defensive Honors Split 3 Ways in NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time this season the National Football League's Defensive Player of the Week honors are shared by three men—Tony Guillory and Claude Crabb of Los Angeles and Jim Houston of Cleveland.

All received glowing recommendations from Associated Press staffers in reports announced Tuesday.

Guillory blocked the Green Bay punt in the last minute of play and Crabb ran the ball 20 yards to Green Bay's five to set up the winning touchdown for the Rams in that 27-24 thriller at Los Angeles last Saturday.

Houston, a Cleveland linebacker, intercepted a Jim Hart pass at St. Louis and ran 18 yards for the clinching touchdown in the Browns' 20-16 victory over the Cardinals that wrapped up the Century Division title.

The dramatics at Los Angeles came after the Packers apparently had stopped the last Ram effort. Kicking from his own 27 with less than a minute to go, Donny Anderson was met by practically the entire Ram team. Guillory got in front of the ball and Crabb carried it to the five. On the second play, Roman Gabriel hit Bernie Casey with the touchdown pass that won the game.

Timmy Brown Out With Jaw Injury

A spokesman said the injury-plagued Brown will not play in the Eagle's final game here Sunday against Cleveland

Blocked-Punt Play Was One Rams Had Rehearsed

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There is an old axiom in football that good teams make their own breaks It is worth remembering as the Los Angeles Rams and the Baltimore Colts, both obviously good teams, prepare for their Coastal Division championship of the National Football League Sunday.

Reflecting on the Rams' 27-24 triumph over the defending NFL champion Green Bay Packers, the break in the game came with 54 seconds remaining when reserve linebacker Tony Guillory blocked a Packer punt

This was a break, admittedly but not a bit of luck, as some have since implied.

Punts are seldom blocked in pro football but this was a planned defensive play, one that the Rams have practiced since last summer.

There was no surprise. Every one of the 76,000 souls in Memorial Coliseum, including the Rams and the Packers, knew it was coming, knew the ball had to be blocked—or else

After it was blocked Claude Crabbe, another reserve, retrieved the ball and trundled it 20 yards to the Green Bay five The winning touchdown followed two plays later on a pass, Roman Gabriel to Bernie Casey

In reference to luck, it may be noted that the two teams played on near equal terms the first half, with Green Bay leading, 10-7.

But the second half was dominated by the Rams They ran off 43 plays from scrimmage to 26 for Green Bay. The Packers were outdowned, 11-3 In total offense, it was Los Angeles, 163 yards to 55, and on rushing 40-20

The Packer offense did not penetrate the Rams' side of the field on its own momentum in the second half They got there once on a fumble, which set up a touchdown, and Travis Williams' spectacular kickoff return of 104 yards for the other touchdown

These statistics may prove interesting to Baltimore's followers.

If the Rams defeat the Colts they'll collide again with Green Bay in Milwaukee for the Western Conference title Dec. 23

BY LEE REMMEL

Last Saturday should have been a red letter day for Chuck Mercein, the Packers' scholarly new fullback.

With only 2:19 remaining in the Pack's nationally televised struggle with the Los Angeles Rams, the impressively built Yale alumnus crashed over the right side of the Angelenos' line and into the end zone, sending the Bays into an apparently permanent 23-20 lead.

It was the first touchdown as a Packer for Mercein, who in the process had come a long way since early November, when he was signed off the Washington Redskin taxi squad after the world champions' Elijah Pitts and Jim Grabowski were sidelined by injuries in the first quarter of their 13-10 loss at Baltimore Nov. 5.

Turned to Ashes

Just 92 seconds later, as every Packerphile is only too painfully aware, the thrill of a lifetime abruptly turned to ashes as the Rams blocked a Donny Anderson punt and quickly converted it into the winning touchdown.

"It was a very momentary kick the way things turned out." Mercein, pressed into service in the third quarter when a rib injury forced Ben Wilson to the bench, somewhat sadly observed. "There's no reason to be happy about it now."

Defeat, he conceded, is particularly unpalatable under such circumstances. "It's a complete shock," the former Shorewood resident declared. "It's a pretty miserable feeling."

"You go 59 minutes — everyone does — thinking you apparently have a victory wrapped up and it slips through. There's nothing in the game previous to that which means as much as the final score."

'Some Improving To Do'

Although he has been with the Packers only a month, Mercein says he has found adjusting to the Bays' attack a relatively simple matter. "Mechanically, it hasn't been too difficult," he explained, "because the Giants (he was with the New Yorkers for nearly three seasons before being released in late October) have a very similar offense."

"As far as adjusting while playing in a game, though, I still have some improving to do," Chuck added. "I'm a little rusty. I know I didn't play as well as I would have liked to against the Rams, especially on some assignments other than catching and running with the ball. My blocking could have been better."

"Jones (the Rams' Davey) particularly surprised me with his quickness for his size."

'Could Use the Work'

Taking note of the possibility he will start in the Pack's season finale against Pittsburgh Sunday if Wilson is unable to play, Mercein said, "I hope I can play as much as I can just because I could use the work. I sure could do a heck of a lot better job than I did the other day. The only way to improve is to play against live opposition, so I hope I get to play a lot so that I can be ready for the big games ahead if needed."

"On the other hand, I certainly hope Ben is able to play, in fact, that everybody who is incapacitated can play, because we need everybody we've got."

Chuck, the 6-3, 230-pound son of former Milwaukee radio announcer Tom Mercein, is a man of distinction. He is one of only two Yale alumni in professional football.

"Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears is the other," Mercein informed. "He also happens to be a good friend of mine. We lived a block and a half from each other in Winnetka, Ill., and I followed him through New Trier High School there, and then to Yale. In fact, Mike had a great deal to do with influencing me to go to Yale."

Held Shot Put Record

Chuck, who once held the Illinois state high school shot put record, also reported with a smile, "Mike held the state shot record when I got into high school and it was his record I broke."

"I was throwing about 62 feet then, but that's since been eclipsed."

Currently in the investment business in the of season, he informed, "I was in securities one year and I was in the money market last year. I think I'll stay in some form of finance."

Although last Saturday's stunner admittedly is not easily forgotten, Chuck is confident the Packers will rebound with a superior performance against Pittsburgh.

"I think we'll play a good game," he said after due consideration. "I think we played a heck of a game against the Rams, so it's not a matter of retribution for a bad game . . . But we have to stay sharp, and be sharp, for the big games ahead."

50 waxing of Clintonville. Lamers tossed in 16 points and VandenHeuvel contributed 15.

Neenah had to struggle to topple Menasha, 48-44, on the road last week, and Doug Martin's Rockets could be in for a battle royal at Shawano. The Indians, a disappointment with two losses in league action so far, must win in order to retain any hopes of getting back in the conference race.

The Rockets, sporting the best defensive average of any team (47.0), will throw their 1-2 offensive punch in Dan Jankowski and Dale Magedanz, who have tallied 37 and 24 points, respectively, in conference play. Neenah will be looking for its 19th M-E win in a row.

Two Rivers, a surprise 63-59 victor over Shawano in its last outing, should discover at Menasha if Coach Jerry Bonino's rebuilding job of the club has been a true success. The scrappy Purple Raiders, who broke a 16-game losing string over a 2-year period, are led by strong Mike Turman, who hit 16 points against Shawano.

Stopping Menasha's Tim Gressler, the league's 10th top point-maker, and Brad Schliem will be Two Rivers' toughest assignments. Gressler had 14 and Schliem 15 versus Neenah.

Clintonville will be hoping to take advantage of New London's porous defense to hand the Bulldogs a third straight setback. NL has given up 87 and 88 points in its first two starts, an average of 30 points less than its own offensive mark.

The Conference's top scorers for two games are: Spice, Kaukauna, 50; Penass, Shawano, 37; Jankowski, Neenah, 36; Carstens, Kaukauna, 34; Wing, New London, 32; Gipp, Shawano, 32; Paape, Clintonville, 31; Vock, Kaukauna, 30; Hagany, Kimberly, 28; VandenHeuvel, Kimberly, 25; Swokowski, Kimberly, 25; Magedanz, Neenah, 24; Turman, Two Rivers, 24.

Shoots Goals at 56 Per Cent Clip Against Ozaukee

STOCKBRIDGE — Led by Tom Head and Daryl Bunnell, the Stockbridge Indians shot a torrid 56 per cent from the floor to defeat the Warriors of Ozaukee, 96-75 Tuesday night.

Head collected 28 points on 13 field goals and two free throws. Bunnell tallied 22 markers, on nine field goals and four charity tosses.

The Indians jumped off to a quick, 21-9 lead after the first period. The Warriors picked up a little ground in the second stanza outscoring Stockbridge, 27-24, but were behind 45-36 at the half. The Indians broke loose in the second half and were never threatened.

Ron Voleske led the losers with 32 points.

AP Chooses Gabriel for Weekly Honor

NEW ORK (AP) — Roman Gabriel, the quarterback who led the Los Angeles Rams to victory over Green Bay and set up Sunday's big game with Baltimore, has been named by The Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Gabriel was brilliant Saturday at Memorial Coliseum, throwing also threw two scoring passes to three touchdown passes in a split end Jack Snow, the former must game to keep alive the Notre Dame star.

Rams' title hopes in the Coastal Division.

At the end of the wild afternoon, Gabriel had completed 20 of 36 passes for 222 yards and had been smeared only once by the Packers' pass rush.

It took a great defensive play by linebacker Tony Guillory who blocked Donny Anderson's punt, plus a 20-yard run by Claude Crabb to the Packers' five after he recovered the ball, to make it possible for Gabriel to win it all with a third TD pass to Bernie Casey. Gabriel

13 Fans Injured As Bleacher Section Collapses

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP) — A section of bleachers holding about 900 fans collapsed Tuesday night in the Kenyon College fieldhouse before the start of the Kenyon-Wooster college basketball game.

Kenyon officials said 13 persons were taken to hospitals, but only one, identified as Michael Dunn, a student, was expected to be held overnight.

The game was postponed. The collapse occurred as the players were warming up. No players were hurt.

The press box, attached to the stands and jammed with newsmen, also collapsed. The newsmen jumped to safety. Fans on the top row fell about 30 feet. About 1,500 fans were present.

'Yaz' Joins Bond, Batman, Superman

By HAL BOCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be surprised if one of these days, Carl Yastrzemski steps into a phone booth and emerges wearing a cape with a great big Y on his chest.

Yaz, the Triple Crown winner who led Boston to the American League pennant last season, has signed on with the Licensing Corporation of America, an endorsement merchandizer which represents Superman, Batman and James Bond, among others

"It's a great honor to join them," grinned Yastrzemski when the fictional heroes were mentioned "I just hope I can do as well as they do."

LCA plans to use Yaz to endorse everything from shampoos to stationery to sweaters. "We represent all the great heroes" said Allen Stone, president of LCA, "Yastrzemski fits right in with Superman, Batman and the rest"

Products bearing Yastrzemski's name should reach the market by next summer and to get an idea of the potential the endorsement and merchandizing field offers, Jay Emmett, chairman of LCA, pointed out that Batman's name had grossed $4 million in royalties over an eight month period And he can't even hit home runs.

Yastrzemski, of course, can He smashed 44 last year, drove in 121 runs and batted .326

Asset in Lake Michigan

Cites Value of Alewife

MADISON (AP)—The 29th annual Midwest Fish and Wildlife conference was told Monday that alewives, which generally are regarded as a problem on the Great Lakes, are actually a "tremendous asset"

Charles W Huver, associated professor of zoology and curator of fish at the University of Minnesota, told state and federal wildlife managers they should "recognize the alewife as a tremendous asset on which to build a number of sports fisheries"

Huver said suggested crash programs to eliminate the alewife should be disregarded

Great quantities of the little fish die off each summer and wash onto Lake Michigan beaches, hampering water sports and hurting the tourist trade

Huver said a recent study in Michigan indicated that sports fishing has 10 times the economic value of a commercial fishery, based on the same numbers of fish.

He said that striped bass would be well suited for planting in southern Lake Michigan, and alewives are the preferred food of striped bass along the Atlantic coast, where both species live together

Rather than working to eliminate the alewives Huver said, an effort should be made to stock the lake with striped bass, let the predator fish eat the alewives and then build a sport fishing industry on the bass

Striped bass grow to more than 40 pounds in the sea, Huber said They have been proved adaptable to fresh water and they may live 20 years

Marx, Andy, Drama Head TV Lineup

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 Channel 5 — The Kraft Music Hall is titled "A Taste of Funny" but it should be more simply labeled "Groucho." The inimitable Groucho Marx stars and is pretty difficult to follow. He recreates some of his most famous characters from his old films including Dr. Quackenbush and Capt. Jeffrey Spaulding, the African explorer. In one particularly enjoyable segment, Groucho interviews Pedro Gonzales-Gonzales, who found instant fame as a participant on "You Bet Your Life" back in 1953. A film clip of that show is a part of the feature. Added stars are Soupy Sales in a Houdini-type skit; the comedy team of Burns and Schreiber in one of the cabbie bits and Dick Cavett reminiscing on his childhood. (C)

8-10 Channel 11-9 — The television adaptation of the tense dramatic play "The Desperate Hours" on Movie Night Special might have been a major achievement of the television year had the commercial insertions not been allowed to constantly dilute the escalating excitement. George Segal stars as the leader of three escaping convicts who invade a quiet suburban home, making the family their captives while they await the arrival of a girl and a large amount of cash. (C)

9-10 Channel 5—If there were an award category for Wholesomest Show of the Year, The Andy Williams Christmas Show would be in top contention. It features the singer and his wife, Claudine Longet and their two children Noelle, 4 and Christian, 3, plus Andy's Mom and Dad and his brothers Don, Bob and Dick and their families. The show also features the Osmond Brothers who join the Williams' quartet for a holiday medley. (C)

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Agnes Moorehead and James Whitmore make this Custer episode perhaps the best of the season. The Bewitched star is again cast in a pseudo supernatural role, as a buckskin clad Indian seeress who sees the dangers of her warmongering Sioux tribesmen and goes to Custer to seek peace. (C)

6:30-8 Channel 5 — Like a pinch too much of salt in the stew, a wee excess of imagination can do more to damage than enhance a TV story as The Virginian demonstrates tonight. The plot is not unusual, with the drovers returning home after delivering cattle and stopping in a small, nearly deserted town where the main inhabitant takes an immediate dislike to Trampas and decides to do him in. (C)

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — There's some good melancholy comedy on He And She as Dick and Paula prepare to pull up stakes, quit their apartment and move out to Los Angeles with Oscar and the Jetman crew. (C)

9-10 Channels 2-7 — Sean Garrison is the star of tonight's Dundee and The Culhane with John Mills getting something of a breather. The two meet a banker who is incensed at a young man who wooed his daughter and left her flat. (C)

Richard Benjamin and His Wife, Paula Prentiss, are the stars of the television series "He and She." Although the show is bright, it may be in trouble since it is up against ABC's Wednesday night movies, a tough spot in the rating race. The decision probably will be made next mid-April when cancellations start in the television world. (AP Wirephoto)

Water-Filled Bumper Softens Crash Effect

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Two Portland taxi companies are trying out a water-filled bumper that is said to take much of the shock out of crashes. Kermit Stewart, the manager of one of the firms, tested the bumper by having a man drive him into the side of the taxicab office.

"It only moved me just a little bit," Stewart said.

Meet Your Friends at the Rogers — Take Hwy. 151 City Route

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Yes, provided they become too serious. A little worry may be a good thing to keep you on your toes. But too much can floor you. For example, one executive became ill because he feared that he had inherited a heart disease that had killed his father. A foreman was sick from worry about his wife who had threatened to kill their two children. Some worries can, indeed, make you physically sick.

Does disagreement usually mean conflict?

Yes— No—

No. Some things are important to us and to others; some are not. We can differ widely about matters of indifference, such as the best way to use garlic in cooking, and argue long and incessantly about it without any danger of serious conflict. Disagreements mean conflict only when something important is at stake.

Young married couples are plagued by money problems!

True— False—

True, partly because they want so much so soon, and partly because they have not been prepared to handle finances wisely. Too many have been shielded from harsh money problems by well-meaning parents. Except for the very rich and very poor, most American youngsters have no idea how much their parents earn or how much it costs to raise a family. Should the family budget be shared with the children?

Should children help at home? How much allowance should youngsters receive? How are your children's manners? Should teen-agers be allowed access to the family car? These are a few of the questions answered by experts in the booklet, "What Should Parents Expect From Children?" A copy's yours for 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code) sent to "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of The Post-Crescent.

Cubans Swim Bay to Freedom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban barber says he and his 14-year-old son and a 34-year-old companion swam three miles across Guantanamo Bay to the U.S. Naval Base there.

"We set out in the black of night, and dodged several Castro patrol boats," 30-year-old Rogelio Estrada said.

A U.S. naval plane brought them here, Estrada said.

He added: "I had first escaped from a concentration camp where I served a five-year sentence for being a guide to Cubans wanting to go into exile. I picked up my son and my friend, waited for my chance, and plunged into the water."

Unwanted Overcredit Returned Anonymously

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — An Athens bank received an unsigned letter Tuesday, with $50 in cash enclosed, which read: "A few years back, I allowed an error on the part of one of your tellers to go uncorrected, which gave my account a credit of $50. I am now returning this to you."

Three Injured in Head-on Crash

Two Youths, Woman Hospitalized After Clintonville Mishap

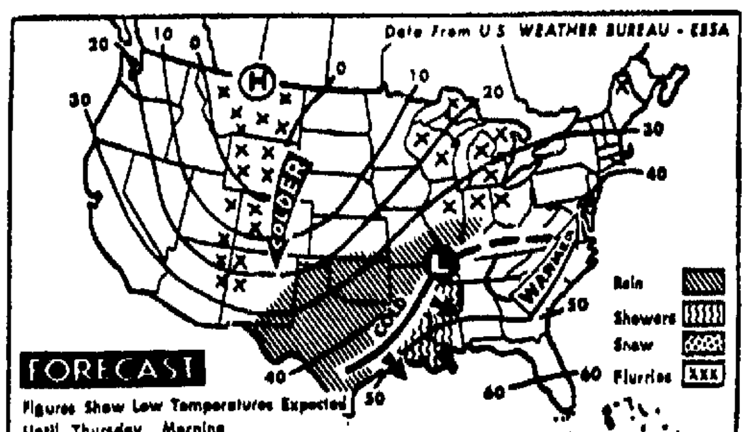
CLINTONVILLE — Three persons were taken to Community Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in a car accident about 4 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of U S 45 and Buckbee Road, four miles north of here.

Injured were Mrs. Albert Malueg, 20, Eighth St, Clintonville, who was alone in her car; Douglas A. Yaeger, 16, route 2, Marion, driver of the other car and Marlin J Sprenger, 15, 7½ Fifth St, Clintonville, a passenger in the Yaeger car.

All were reported to have cuts and bruises Sprenger apparently the most seriously injured. His head went through the windshield, according to Waupaca County police. Heuer and Sievers ambulance, Clintonville, took Sprenger and Yaeger to the hospital, and Mrs. Malueg's parents took her to the hospital.

Mrs Malueg was traveling south on U S. 45 and Yaeger was approaching from the opposite direction According to Mrs. Malueg, Yaeger made a left turn directly in front of her and the crash resulted.

Damage was estimated at $900 to Mrs Malueg's 1966 model car, and the 1963 model car driven by Yaeger was demolished.



A Large Band of Precipitation in the south-central states is forecast for tonight. Snow flurries are expected all along the Rockies and the Great Lakes region. Warmer weather is predicted along the East Coast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

A&P we care

what's in a name?

Our full name is
"The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company."
But, to most, we're "A&P" for short.

And some friends like to call us "The Tea Company."

Why? Well, in 1859, when A&P began, our first product was tea.
We bought full shiploads from the Orient and sold it at great savings to the public.

You learn a lot about tea in more than 100 years.

Today, you can savor the results of all that experience
by tasting one of A&P's fine tea products:
Our Own Tea Bags, for example.

Each bag contains up to 15 of the world's finest teas, from as many as 5 different countries.
It can take that many to develop our distinct blend.

So now you know why, by some, we're called
"The Tea Company."

If you'd like to know why we're called "Great,"

Massachusetts Lending Law Stops Loan Sharks

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The "Truth in Lending" bill is again being pushed off to "next year." This time, though, it's almost a sure thing that in 1968 a federal law finally will go on the books.

It is time, therefore, for an objective appraisal of what might be the impact of a federal law which requires lenders to inform borrowers of the approximate annual finance charges on most credit transactions, both in annual percentages and in dollars and cents.

For provocative clues, I submit the experience Massachusetts has had with its own state Truth in Lending law after a full year of operation. The details come from the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston and the Massachusetts Consumers' Council.

—Since the beginning of 1967, retail sales have risen 3 per cent in Massachusetts, a large proportion involving credit, of course, versus a rise of only 1 per cent in all of New England. This rise has occurred despite a slower growth of personal income in Massachusetts as compared to all of New England.

Massachusetts Figures

—Since December, 1966, immediately after the law went into effect in Massachusetts, there has been a 5 per cent rise in consumer credit at commercial banks and a whopping 43 per cent rise in consumer credit at savings banks. In contrast, consumer credit at finance companies and consumer loan companies has remained the same this year as in 1966, or dropped slightly. The explanation, in the words of Dermot P. Shea, executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Consumers' Council, is that "commercial and savings banks are aggressively competing for consumer credit and advertising their rates in annual interest rates as well as dollar amounts. The finance companies and consumer loan companies have stopped this type of advertising because they cannot compete against the lower rates of the savings banks and commercial banks."

Porter

—According to testimony of one major Massachusetts retailer who does half of his business on credit, "we encountered no problems of any consequence, either with our record-keeping or our customers as a result of this law. The law is informative for the consumer, and fair, workable and helpful to the businessman. It prevents 'tricky' selling of credit programs which . . . tend to cover up the true interest cost and deceive consumers."

No One Hurt

—Also, according to the National Automobile Dealers Association, the law did not "hurt us in any way, shape or manner" and, in fact, it might "clean up the atmosphere in this area — particularly where loan sharking has hurt the ethical automobile dealer."

In brief, the evidence is that Massachusetts consumers now are comparison-shopping to get the most advantageous deal in credit. Misleading credit advertising has been virtually eliminated. Most of the viciously "easy" money lenders have been driven out of the state.

But it's possible that the most significant effect of the Massachusetts law will never be measured. This is the vital protection being offered to the impoverished, uneducated consumer who for years has been victimized by the usurious neighborhood loan shark. In the words of Malcolm C. Webber, chairman of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination:

"I do not believe it is by accident that nationally and locally, during the recent riots, there was much burning and looting of loan companies and stores with reputations for unscrupulous business practices."

Maine Town Receives Doctor for Christmas

JACKMAN, Maine (AP) — The 2,000 residents of this northern Maine community and its hospital got an early Christmas present recently—a doctor.

It is the first time in 18 months the town has had a doctor-in-residence. The arrival of Dr. Peter V. Morrison, formerly of Bismark, N.D., also means that the recently dedicated Marie Joseph Hospital can begin admitting patients.

Until Morrison arrived, residents used a hospital 50 miles away. They posted signs warning motorists to drive slowly because there was no doctor to treat them in case of accident.

Morrison, 36, is a native of England.

Shiocton Man Fined $85

Conservation Law Case Had Been Pending for Year

Fines totaling $85 were levied against one Shiocton man and the other had his charge dismissed Tuesday in a conservation law violation case that had been pending for more than a year.

Ronald Van Straten, 29, Shiocton, changed his plea to guilty on a charge of having guns in a moving vehicle while shining deer, and of resisting arrest. Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller fined him $35 or 18 days in jail on the gun charge and $50 or 24 days on the other count.

Paul Van Straten, 25, route 1, Shiocton, charged with having firearms in a moving vehicle while shining deer, had his charge dismissed on a motion by Richard Hamilton, assistant district attorney. Jury trial for both men had been scheduled for today.

Town of iberty

A state conservation warden arrested the men after stopping their car about 8 p.m. Oct. 21, 1966, near County Trunk M. and Old State 54, in the Town of Liberty. He investigated after observing shining into a field where a deer was running. The warden said he found a .22 caliber automatic rifle in the back seat. Ronald Van Straten reportedly resisted the warden who investigated.

The men had contended that their rights were violated by the warden's search of their auto the night of Oct. 21. However, the court ruled last June that the search was legal in that the Supreme Court allows for the search of a "mobile vehicle" when there is probable cause to believe a crime has been committed.

Tinkering With the Kellett Act

Among the new propositions in Madison are two bills that would alter substantially the decisions made by legislators earlier in the year when they enacted into law the widely celebrated Kellett reorganization act including the creation of a centralized state law enforcement agency under a state department of justice. Under the Kellett blueprint, that department is headed by the elected attorney general, a constitutional officer, who now happens to be Bronson C. LaFollette, the only surviving Democrat among statehouse constitutional officials.

As we observed the proceedings at the time, the consolidation of enforcement functions under the attorney general encountered few objections, although there was some curiosity about the fact that the unification of such services was not complete. Excluded, for example, were a host of consumer protection services traditionally vested in the state department of agriculture. We cannot guess why they were excluded, except that another Kellett commission on governmental efficiency, some months earlier, had singled out Mr. McDowell and his agricultural department as among the most efficient officers and services in the administrative establishment. Against that record, we may surmise, it would have been awkward to remove those functions and to assign them elsewhere.

But now comes a proposal in the state senate, bearing the name of Sen. Leonard, the majority leader there, to dismantle Mr. LaFollette's department of justice and to establish such an agency independently, under a secretary chosen by the governor.

Concurrently, a group of leading Republicans in the assembly has offered another bill that would detach the consumer services from the agricultural agency and repose them in the new administrative department that Sen. Leonard has suggested. We are informed, moreover, that the assembly bill will be pushed only if the Leonard bill is passed, so that it is a contingent proposition.

The whole affair inspires so many questions that there will be skepticism about timing and motives. Would there be this anxiety on the part of Sen. Leonard to remove these new powers from the attorney general if a Republican happened to occupy that office? While it may be conceded that consumer regulation and protection services have no very obvious relation to the primary interests and functions of the agricultural agency in serving the problems of farm producers and processors, why was this consideration dismissed during the long and studious deliberations of the Kellett reorganization task force? Finally, why these second thoughts about the department of justice in an abbreviated session when thorough deliberation, publicity and hearings are not likely to be had?

Some suspicious Democrats are complaining that the Republican bills would put the sensitive consumer protection programs in the hands of a "political" officer, because the secretary would be chosen by the governor. But Mr. LaFollette is a "political" officer also, and so we find little distinction there. Nevertheless, we would urge the legislature to go slowly here. If there is need for adjustment of the original Kellett blueprint, experience will show it and the next legislature will have ample opportunity to act on that experience in a careful and responsible way.

Appointive City Officers

The growing need for reorganizing governmental structure on the local level is becoming widespread in Wisconsin and has been resulting in strong emphasis on making historically-elective positions appointive.

Students of government and citizens with more than just a casual interest in the daily affairs of their communities have long recognized the desirability that positions mostly administrative in nature should be given appointive status.

Falling into this category are offices of the clerk, treasurer and assessor, which are not actually policy-making positions.

Two years ago the Appleton City Council felt the time had come to change the positions from elective to appointive but the voters expressed themselves in no uncertain terms by killing the proposal at a referendum.

Recently, the assessor's position at Wausau was made appointive and the salary set at $12,000 to attract and maintain a qualified person, along with assuring continuity of administration and assessment policies. Many other Wisconsin cities have made similiar moves, several including the clerk and treasurer offices in the change-over.

It's noteworthy that at Sheboygan a 20-member citizens committee is recommending — based on an extensive study of local government — that four posts, including controller, be made appointive.

Twice before in the past 15 years the Sheboygan City Council has voted to make the changes but their recommendations — either through a negative citizen reaction to change or pure ignorance of the facts — were defeated in referendums.

The longtime cry that the "rights of the people are being taken away" has had emotional appeal, but the day is not far off when the general public will come to the realization that the interests of the community and overall governmental operation can be best served by putting specialists in specialized positions and keeping them out of politics.

Spray Paint Vandalism

Almost from the time the handy, pressurized spray dispenser of paint was put on the market, police have been plagued by complaints of vandalism caused by irresponsible youngsters wielding the push-button cans. Home owners are among the favorite targets of the vandals. Many times obscenities are spray written onto buildings or on sidewalks.

Schools often are hit by young spray painters. Automobiles are high on the target list. So are street signs. Sometimes, particularly if a wood surface is sprayed, the damage can be repaired by paint and brush. If the paint is sprayed onto stone or brick surfaces, or onto autos, the cost of undoing the damage can be considerable.

A few of the young vandals have been caught by police, and in most cases, stern lectures were administered and the youngsters had to share the cost of removing the spray paint. But the vandals often can do their damage as they walk, undetected, past a building. Or they can work in the shadow of night, with the aid of a "sentry." They are difficult to catch.

The job of police in controlling the growing volume of damage by spray painters could be made much easier with the cooperation of store owners. Obviously, there are no laws forbidding the sale of spray cans of paint to youngsters. Police say that vandals frequently shop-lift the paint. Some of the cans are small and easy to conceal. Responsible store owners would do well to put the spray cans on a high shelf or in a place not easily accessible to youngsters ready to take advantage of an easy take. Also, there must be some way the store operator can regulate the sale of spray paint to youngsters. There are few reasons for a 10 or 11-year-old boy to purchase the spray cans. Defacing cars, homes, and signs is a prime reason.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Dec. 9, 1942.

Governor-Elect Orland S. Loomis was given a state funeral that day in the rotunda of the Capitol where he was to have been inaugurated Jan. 4. Hundreds of men and women filed past the funmetal casket to have a last look at the man who would have been their chief executive but for an untimely death. Loomis was elected governor on the Progressive ticket.

Republican Lt. Gov. Walter S. Goodland arrived in Madison after taking his oath of office at Racine shortly after the death Monday of the governor-elect. Goodland declared that he intended taking over the duties of the governorship Jan 4 and that there "is absolutely no question about his becoming governor." There was some question in legal circles about the unprecedented event resulting from the death of Loomis before his official inauguration Some believed that Gov. Julius P. Heil, Republican standard-bearer in the state defeated by Loomis, still figured in the situation.

Wednesday, Dec. 11, 1957.

The Fox River Valley chapter of the Society of Residential Appraisers was officially organized the previous night at the Valley Inn in Neenah Kenneth Searles, Racine, International president of the society, presented the charter. Joseph H. Doerfler, Appleton, was the new president of the chapter, Carlton F. Williams, Neenah city assessor and building inspector, was vice president, Herbert R Pagel, Neenah, was secretary-treasurer.

Alvin Prehpp, route 1, Seymour, was elected president of the Northeast Wisconsin Cooperative Farm Management Association at the 10th annual meeting at South Greenville Grange Hall Glenn Hocker, route 1, Brillion, was re-elected vice president and Melvin Buboltz, route 1, Brillion, was named secretary-treasurer

Violin soloists for the Appleton High School Christmas concert were Maryanne Ricker, Marybelle Schneider and Sharon Bauerlein.

Car Inspection Matter of a Little Inconvenience – or Traffic Deaths

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Thank you for your recent editorial expressing doubt that the state legislature fully appreciates the extent of public concern over our lack of progress in the field of highway safety.

Wisconsin citizens are as intelligent as you will find anywhere They do not need to be told again and again about our grisly highway statistics. The importance of highway safety is abundantly clear to anyone old enough to drive, let alone vote. Why, then, is there so much resistance to taking some of the obvious measures that could reasonably be expected to bring about some improvement in Wisconsin highway safety? A shining example is annual automobile inspection. Upon returning to Wisconsin after living for some years in another state that lags far behind Wisconsin in many other ways, I was startled by the unusually high number of visible unsafe vehicles, with lights inoperative, bad glass, etc. It is admittedly a nuisance to go to an inspection station every year, but even the minor corrections that would result (e.g. replacement and adjustment of lights and the adjustment and repair of brakes and windshield wipers) should save lives.

Nobody likes the thought of a policeman stopping him and insisting that he take a sobriety test on the way home from a pleasant evening (and a few cocktails) with friends. But when we balance the values involved, we must admit that we are talking about inconvenience on the one hand versus incapacitation or death on the other. In balking at the requirement of sobriety tests, we are implicitly insulting our police by saying, in effect, that they are likely to pick up motorists for inadequate reasons and force them to submit to such tests. I certainly cannot vouch for every police officer in Wisconsin, but would take strong exception to the suggestion that more than a few of them would ever abuse this power.

There are other ways in which we could profitably emulate other states. For example, Wisconsin could certainly use a beefed-up state police force that would be able to tackle both traffic and other problems, such as local disturbances. It may be good politics, but it is not good sense to leave this field entirely to local law enforcement.

Arguments over the minimum beer-drinking age have tended to bury the primary issue of safety under a heap of confusing side issues — local option, enforcability, relationships to bordering states, the beer lobby. Why not just pick an age that is uniform throughout Wisconsin and that minimizes disparities with our bordering states? None of the ages suggested — 18 to 21 — is unreasonable if it is uniform, and any uniform age would be an improvement over what we now have.

Our great state is justly famous for its enlightened approach to many problems, but we are acting like a backward state in the field of highway safety.

Study Group Concludes Appleton Is Fine City

Editor, Post-Crescent.

We are members of a Christian Family Movement which meet in one another's home every other week. The method CFM Groups use to carry out their plan is the inquiry. An inquiry combines a discussion about a situation and a judgment on it with a decision to act.

At our last meeting the subject of our inquiry was a close look at our community. This included play areas for young children, community facilities for teen-agers and adults, the conditions of streets and lighting, schools and libraries, cultural and recreational opportunities and housing.

In discussing the above topics it was extremely apparent that each and every area mentioned above warranted special praise for our own City of Appleton! Our group could find no critical aspects to these subjects. It was obvious that everyone in our group had a very neat and orderly public play area for their children very near to their home even though our group consists of families living in different areas of Appleton. Many interesting comments were made to show the very fine facilities available for teen-agers. Of those mentioned were the Cavern, the Shangrila, the Terror's Den, the new YMCA. It was agreed by everyone in our group that the condition of the streets and lighting is well above average and that the schools and libraries in our city were adequate indicating that we even have a specific library for religious books; namely, the St. Francis Library in addition to our very complete Appleton Public Library. Our attention was called to the many cultural and recreational opportunities in Appleton. Some examples are the concerts by the Lawrence Conservatory, the Attic Theater groups, Variety Theatre, the Annual Art Fair held in the city park, the Bergstrom Art Center in Neenah, Paine Art Center in Oshkosh, the parks, swimming pools, professional baseball, and ice skating rinks.

After our CFM group discussed the prescribed topics and made a judgment as to their merits or demerits, it was our decision to act. Our action at this time manifests itself in this letter to show that we as a group are happy to live here.

County Judge Keller Deserves a Tribute

Editor, Post-Crescent·

Every night I come home from work, sit down in my easy chair and read my paper. I read stories about hit-and-runs, break-ins, forgeries, high speed chases, ect., ect.! In all the stories there has to be a judgment handed down to the guilty, and one name keeps coming to the surface in many of these stories. He is a man who has served this area faithfully for years. He sits in judgment day in and day out, always having to decide what's best for everyone involved. A thankless job, where all he ever hears is complaints, complaints, complaints. In our society we have tried all sorts of ways of punishing the guilty who think of no-one but themselves. It takes knowledge, wisdom and experience to pass down the sentence the guilty so richly deserve

I've seen countless stories where people file writs of prejudice against this man, just so they don't have to stand before him in court. It seems they possibly feel they can get a "better deal" elsewhere. Our law enforcement agencies do an unbelieveable job. Seems like every day some smart guy leads police on a high speed chase, endangering everyone on the highway, or someone has to prove how tough he is so he steals someone's purse.

It takes a lot of experience to render decisions on these people day after day. I have known people who have had to stand before this man and he is fair and understanding. All the people of Appleton and Outagamie County owe Judge Gustave J. Keller a vote of thanks. Someday Judge Keller will decide to let someone else make the "difficult decisions" and I think he ought to be thanked publicly before that day comes

Joint Caucus Might Eliminate Conflict Between Chambers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The present generation of state legislative leadership likes to point to improvements in the legislative machinery in recent times. That there have been some mechanical improvements is reasonably evident. Some of the men now in leading positions in both houses can justifiably claim credit for originating them. That they are even now searching out other modifications of procedure and tradition to accommodate their enlarging duties to a mechanism that was established early in the preceding century is also evident.

Wyngaard

But in some respects the legislative process today is not as effective and does not function as smoothly and satisfactory as it did in the days of the predecessors of the present day commanders.

A good example offered by the current Legislature is the frequency with which the houses become deadlocked on major questions and appear unable to resolve their interchamber differences.

ILLUSTRATIONS OFFERED

There were two pertinent cases last week when the lawmakers returned to their seats with loud claims that they were determined to wind up the session's work before Christmas.

On the face of it, the fight between the Assembly and the Senate on the issue of a minimum beer age for the state and the issue of making it uniform and therefore truly meaningful, appeared difficult to resolve although it is supposed that a conference or compromise committee will be formed to make the attempt.

Similarly, there was an extremely stubborn stalemate on the question of increasing the strength of the state traffic patrol. The Senate wanted 100 more men. The Assembly wanted about half of that, which surely was a mere gesture in the direction of more effective patroling, and especially in view of the fact that many of the new men will be assigned to the random vehicle inspection program that is contained in the same bill.

NEED NOT AGREE

This reporter is not about to assert that the Constitution or the principles of democratic government require the houses to agree. Nor is the merit of the respective positions especially relevant here, although most press gallery observers tend to believe that the Senate has the better of the argument in both controversies. The idea of the bicameral legislature was a part of the checks and balances purpose of the constitutional fathers, and it was a wise arrangement.

What occasions concern among professional Legislature watchers is the inability or the unwillingness of the houses, with increasing frequency in recent years, to talk out their differences, or negotiate, at least between the leaders of the majority parties in both houses who are held accountable by the public.

In this respect, at least, the habits of the Legislature of 20 years ago and more were preferable and more effective than those of today. Today the joint party caucus of the two houses has been virtually abandoned. In earlier periods it was one of the best vehicles for interhouse cooperation, and more important in a partisan sense, for mutual understanding of the purposes and problems of the ruling party.

MANY CAUSUSES HELD

The caucus today occupies so much of the time of the typical legislator that the bystander sometimes wonders what is going on behind those locked doors Is much of the time spent in instructing the laggards or in elocution exercises? Surely it is not necessary for a reasonably literate representative to be led by the nose into the caucus each day to be told how to vote on behalf of his district, or even with a decent concern for his party's platform and principles?

The joint caucus could expedite legislative business, and moreover, improve the popular image of the Legislature which concerns its members so deeply and is in danger of deteriorating even more seriously.

Vietnam War Can't Be Won With Napalm

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is in reply to the December 10th article in your People's Forum by Stephen A. Bates who is asking for some "intellectual honesty from some of these anti-napalm protesters" and refers to Mary Alice Martines's fine letter of December 2nd.

Perhaps, Mr. Bates, you are the uninformed person, as you seem to contradict yourself throughout your article.

First, to become well-informed, one has only to know what napalm is and be aware of who is using it.

Napalm is a highly volatile, jelly-like substance that burns anything within its radius, and in our case, being dropped from our planes. We are the only country using it. Our pilots have a margin of safety thru distance from their target. Innocent victims, women and children, lay outside village hospitals (huts) awaiting amputation of limbs blackened and burned, the stench unbearable. Our doctors report that after working on these victims they cannot face roasted meat on their plates.

Read the January 1967 issue of Redbook, Stephen, and become more informed. It is not Communist propaganda, it is ugly truth.

I question your remarks — 1 "The most valuable of a nation's possessions is its people." Then, I ask, why destroy them?

2. "The most moral way to fight a war is to finish it in the quickest possible way, hence causing the least casualties." You evidently consider the use of napalm moral! Man's supreme goal is the moral improvement of the individual, the attainment of human dignity. If napalm is right, man has not evolved and the beast is still in him.

Your article referred to napalm protesters as wanting to help spread communism. On the contrary, your moral catechism is that of the communists.

Sir, we will never win the respect or love of these people by using as horrid a weapon as napalm, and in the end, the sad truth will be that we will have spent lives and money and will not have won this war.

Our country needs men capable of looking beyond the term of their existence, anxious to shape the future for coming generations, leading us not into violence, but respecting the dignity of man, bringing out the best that is within us. Then peace and warmth will radiate in men's hearts everywhere, and our youth can face a future rich in higher promise.

Greek Military Ouster Urged by Constantine

Kidnap Victim Mrs. Frances Howe and her husband, banker E. Frank Howe, talk to newsmen after her release Tuesday in Glendale, Calif.

Butcher, Cabinet Maker Do Half-Baked Kidnaping Job

GLENDALE,Calif. (AP) — Two amateurish kidnapers held a banker's wife hostage for $80,000 but then settled for $50,000. Then, police said, they got only 11 blocks with the payoff.

A butcher and a cabinet maker were taken into custody Tuesday with the ransom money and the unharmed hostage, Frances Howe, under a blanket on the floor of their car's back seat.

Car Halted

When a quickly mobilized police detail halted the car, the armed men surrendered without drawing their pistols, officers said.

Mrs. Howe, 60, told newsmen that one of the kidnapers earlier told her, "if everything goes well, no one will be hurt."

Booked on suspicion of kidnaping for ransom were Robert Sheader, 32, who said he is a cabinet maker, and Edson Lagrand Little, 26, who said he is a meatcutter. Police said both gave addresses in nearby North Hollywood.

As the two were being booked, Mrs. Howe and her husband, E. Frank Howe, related details of the two-hour ordeal:

Shortly after Mrs. Howe had gotten their 15-year-old son off to school, the doorbell rang at their $70,000 hilltop home in Glendale, a suburb northeast of Los Angeles.

"Two men with guns grabbed me and pushed me inside and told me they wanted money from my husband's bank," she said.

They commanded her to telephone the Union Bank's branch in nearby Van Nuys where her husband is vice president. On the phone, Howe was told to put $80,000 in a specified street trash can "if you want to see her alive."

When Howe said that much was ridiculous, the caller suggested $50,000. The banker said he didn't even have that much.

"Take it from the bank," he was told.

"That's also ridiculous," Howe said. "How can I take it from the bank? I'll have to tell someone."

'No Joke'

"Then tell somebody, in case you think I'm not serious, I'll put your wife on the phone."

Mrs. Howe told her husband shakily: "This is no joke. They mean it."

Howe called police, got the money from the bank, drove to the drop location and left the money in a paper bag. Some 50 police staked out the location.

Police caught the car about two miles from where they saw one of its occupants pull the ransom money from the trash can.

Successful Launch Aimed at Studying Radiation of Sun

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Beaming back strong signals to earth, a robot "interplanetary weatherman" named Pioneer 8 rocketed into orbit around the sun today to help weave a network that could warn astronauts of deadly solar radiation storms in space.

En route to the sun-circling path between that of Earth and Mars, Pioneer 8's fiery Delta booster rocket successfully kicked a radio-relay communications satellite into orbit around Earth to be used for testing America's man-to-the-moon tracking network.

"We now have the Pioneer 8 spacecraft in a solar orbit," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said 35 minutes after the double payload blasted off at 9:08 a.m., EST.

Radiation Storms

Scientists refer to the Pioneer family of spacecraft as "interplanetary weathermen" and said sensors aboard Pioneer 8 could provide the best information yet on how great a danger radiation storms emitted from the sun pose to astronauts.

Meanwhile, the eight-sided communications payload—called TTS for test and training satellite—was to act as an orbital relay station to exercise America's Apollo man-in-space global tracking network.

Member During World Wars

Woman, 87, Eyes Congress Seat

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The first woman ever elected to Congress is now 87 years old, but she says she may run again on the same issue that helped make her a national figure—peace.

Miss Jeannette Rankin of Montana said in a telephone interview she is seriously considering entering the Republican primary in Montana's western district.

If she entered the race, she said, it would be "to bring the issue of peace in Vietnam to the people."

She said some Montanans have asked her to consider entering the race for the seat now held by Democrat Arnold Olsen.

Miss Rankin said her decision will deperd on the status of the war and whether she feels people in her district want her to run.

Miss Rankin first went to Congress in 1917. During that term she was one of a few members who voted against America's entry in World War I.

Both times she stood on the floor of the House and sa

She left public office after one term, but returned in 1940—again as a Montana r e presentative—and history repeated. This time she stood alone against the entire Congress and President Franklin D. Roosevelt when she voted against the United States' entry in World War II.

Both times she stood on the floor of the House and said "I cannot vote for war."

Army Split Raises Fear Of Civil War

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — King Constantine, evidently backed by part of the army, called on his people today to oust the military dictatorship and restore democracy in this land where it was born.

His appeal raised the specter

King Constantine

of civil war in the wake of withdrawal of part of Greek forces from Cyprus in the face of Turkish demands.

The king repudiated the military coup of last April.

Shortly before he spoke troops and tanks took up positions around key buildings in Athens, and the state-run radio said the government was ready to defend itself.

'Spirit of Revenge'

The 27-year-old monarch declared leaders of last April's coup were only a segment of the army.

"A spirit of revenge will not prevail," he said, "but I will not accept any disobedience from now on and it will be crushed mercilessly. There will be no compromise."

He referred to the Communist-led civil war of 20 years ago and asked the people to assist him, follow him and support him.

The king spoke by radio from Salonika, the major city of northern Greece.

There were reports that the 3rd Armored Corps in Salonika had rebelled against the military dictatorship. The leader of the corps is a Gen. Peridis, known as a strong supporter of the king and an opponent of the April coup.

The Greek Embassy in London said the Ministry of Information in Athens reported that a coup had been attempted by a group of army officers.

Airlift Boosts Level of Troops Past Korea's

SAIGON (AP) — The biggest airlift of the Vietnam war pushed U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam to about 475,000 today, more than the peak of 472,800 American fighting men in the Korean war at its height 14 years ago.

The U.S. Command took the security wraps off the transfer from the United States of two more brigades of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division, World War II's Screaming Eagles of Bastogne. About 7,000 of the paratroopers have been flown across the Pacific since Nov. 17, and another 3,000 are due by Dec. 29.

Wearing combat fatigues with a .45 revolver and dagger tucked in his belt, the 101st commander, Maj. Gen. Olinto M. Barsanti, snapped a salute on his arrival today at Bien Hoa Airbase and reported to Gen. William C. Westmoreland: "The 101st Airborne Division is present for combat in Vietnam."

Former Commander

Westmoreland, now commander of all U.S. troops in Vietnam, was the Screaming Eagles' commander from 1958 to 1960. The division's 1st Brigade has been in Vietnam since July 1965.

When completed, the airlift will have involved 393 transpacific flights, which after discharging men and supplies generally took off within 1 5minutes on the 9,783-mile flight back to 101st Division Headquarters at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

U.S. spokesmen said the airlift is the longest and largest ever staged direct from the United States to Southeast Asia "and gave us an excellent opportunity to test our airlift capabilities."

The lift is delivering 10,356 troops, 5,118 tons of vehicles and cargo plus the division's full complement of 105mm cannon and 37 helicopters.

Barsanti and his command group arrived on a C141 Starlifter jet transport piloted by Gen. Howell M. Estes Jr. commander of the Air Force Military Airlift Command.

Could be Faster

"Hi, Westy," said Estes, beaming, as he stepped from the plane in gold nylon flight suit. He told newsmen the transfer of more than 10,000 men could probably have been accomplished within seven days in an emergency.

The airlift of the two brigades gave Westmoreland the additional manpower about six weeks ahead of schedule. President Johnson has promised 525,000 men by early next year.

The new paratroopers are not expected to go into combat immediately and will receive some training before heading into the field. Then they will join the 101st's 1st Brigade, which is now part of the Americal Division.

The U.S. Command also removed the security wraps today from a new American infantry operation 28 miles northeast of Saigon and said 52 Communist troops had been killed in six days. Total U.S. losses for the period were put at two dead and 25 wounded.

Deny Rice Harvest

The multi-battalion search and destroy operation by units of the 25th Infantry Division is aimed at supporting revolutionary development (pacification) programs in the area and denying the rice harvest to the Communists.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force B52 bombers hammered suspected North Vietnamese troop and supply areas Tuesday night 17 miles west-southwest of Dak To in the central highlands.

Over North Vietnam, bad weather continued to hamper strikes by American bombers Tuesday.

U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawk pilots attacked a transshipment point 25 miles east-southeast of Haiphong, but smoke and dust in the area prevented assessment of damage. Other Navy pilots reported damaging four trucks 20 miles east-northeast of Haiphong.

88 Missions

Despite cloudy ceilings of around 2,000 feet, U.S. pilots few 88 missions, generally against storage areas and supply lines.

MIG21s and MIG17s came up near Haiphong, and there was at least one dogfight, but neither pilot scored any hits. A spokesman said that an F105 Thunderchief and a Red MIG unloaded a flurry of missiles at one another, but all went wide.

An American spokesman also reported that 22 Communist soldiers defected Tuesday from a remote village in Quang Tin province below Da Nang.

According to preliminary reports, 20 of the men were Viet Cong and two were North Vietnamese regulars, including one officer.

Seek Power in Mideast

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some well-informed U.S. officials are convinced Soviet military pilots have been flying combat missions for Yemen's republican government against royalist forces attacking San'a, the capital city.

This reported involvement of Soviet fliers, using Soviet-made planes and supported by Soviet ground crews—is considered here to reflect Moscow's desire to establish power positions in the Middle East, once the exclusive domain of Western interests.

The possibility of Soviet fighter participation was raised a few days ago when a royalist information minister said the body of a Soviet pilot, carrying Russian-language papers, had been found. In official quarters in Washington, it is said there's no doubt the downed airman was a Soviet.

Strategic Importance

Yemen has considerable strategic importance because —along with the neighboring region until recently known as Aden—it dominates the 12-mile-wide southern gateway into the Red Sea.

It has a commanding position on the Suez Canal, linking the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean. The canal has been closed since the June war between Israel and the Arab states but is expected to be reopened eventually.

Washington authorities say privately they can't recall a conflict similar to that in Yemen in which Soviet pilots have played such an active role.

There have been reports of such involvement in the past in troubled lands, but in the present case responsible policy makers say they have no doubt the information is true. Whether this marks the beginning of a new phase in Soviet foreign operations is yet to be determined, they caution.

The war in Yemen is between the republican regime and Yemeni royalist forces which took to the hills in September 1962 when the monarchy was overthrown. The struggle has been going on, with periodic eruptions of violence, for five years.

But two recent developments changed the political framework in which it has been conducted.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt pulled out the last of his Soviet-armed troops, which once totaled around 70,000, as a result of a deal with King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. The deal was made necessary by Nasser's need for new financing following Egyptian defeats in the June war.

Nasser had backed the republican government and Faisal the royalist group. The result of Egyptian withdrawal was to create at least a partial power vacuum.

Also within the last month Britain removed its forces from Aden, giving way to a new native regime which proclaimed itself the "Peoples Republic of Yemen" on the ground Aden is really "South Yemen." Again the result has been to contribute to the area's political uncertainty.

These developments were long foreseen and both the Soviets and Chinese Communists have maneuvered to take advantage of them. Johnson administration officials regard the prospects for the future there with some anxiety.

Grenade Kills Neenah Soldier In S. Vietnam

NEENAH — A 1966 graduate of Neenah High School, who wrote from a hospital where he was recuperating from war injuries that he wanted to "get back to the lines with the fellows and do my part," was killed Monday by an enemy hand grenade.

Army Spec. 4 John P. Paulson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Paulson, 223 E. Peckham St., died of multiple fragment wounds sustained during combat somewhere in the Bong Son Valley, his parents were notified Monday afternoon.

Paulson, who was on a night defense perimeter mission with the 1st Air Cavalry Division, had been in Vietnam seven months. He would have been eligible for home leave in the spring.

50 Rescue Missions

During his months in Vietnam, Paulson made more than 50 rescue missions.

Until two weeks ago he had spent one month in a base hospital near Saigon for minor injuries and during this time his letters home continually expressed an eagerness to "do my part," his family said.

The eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Paulson is survived by two brothers and four sisters.

He entered the Army Dec. 5, 1966 and was sent to the Vietnam battlefront May 11.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Westgor Funeral Home.

He is the fourth Twin City soldier killed in Vietnam in the past two years and the first from Neenah.

Paulson had written his parents that he was with Army Pfc. Charles Krueger of Menasha on the day the latter was killed May 31 while on 1st Air Cavalry duty. Krueger was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynus Krueger, 1379 Bonnie Dr.

John P. Paulson Jr.

Mrs. Phillips Dissents

'Nothing' Housing Bill Passed in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Common Council voted 13-6 Tuesday to adopt an open housing ordinance, which was denounced immediately by civil rights advocates, who termed it "too little too late."

Mrs. Vel Phillips, the only Negro member of the council, voted against the measure, after four attempts to strengthen it with amendments failed.

The ordinance parallels existing state open housing laws, which cover an estimated 25 per cent of the housing in Wisconsin.

"Thanks for nothing," Mrs. Phillips said to the aldermen after the proposal was passed. "You are very much too late with very much too little."

4 Bills Defeated

The council has defeated four stronger open housing bills sponsored by Mrs. Phillips. Each time she was the only one to vote in favor of the measure.

The newly adopted ordinance falls far short of demands by open housing groups, who promised to continue nightly demonstrations until a more satisfactory measure is passed.

They termed the bill passed Tuesday " a nothing ordinance" and held a march on the city's predominantly Negro near North Side, marking the 107th consecutive night of demonstrations. There were no incidents.

Board Okays Expanding Airport for K-C Planes

Resolution Authorizing Funds for Hangar, Runway Criticized Before Passage

Outagamie County Airport improvements, to meet the conditions of the Kimberly-Clark Corp. to move their air operations from Winnebago County Airport, were approved Tuesday by the Outagamie County Board, but not without some opposition.

By a 40-3 vote, with one abstention, supervisors empowered the board's Executive Committee to provide financing of approximately $730,000, when a contract agreement is reached with Kimberly-Clark, to construct a hangar for the firm, build the necessary aprons, parking lot and access road, and a 500-foot overrun on the northeast-southwest runway.

In addition, the firm asked that the county extend the northwest-southeast runway 800 feet by 1971 and apply to have a control tower built and an instrument landing system installed.

Four Planes

The Neenah-based paper firm operates four airplanes, a four-engine jet, a twin-engine jet, a twin-engine prop-jet and a conventional twin engine plane. All four planes are currently based at the Winnebago County Airport.

The airplanes would be moved to Outagamie County on Jan. 1, 1969. Under terms of its present lease with Winnebago County, Kimberly-Clark must give termination notice by Dec. 31 to cancel the lease at the end of 1968.

Tuesday was the first official mention of the name of the company involved when Board Chairman Sylvester Esler made directoreference to Kimberly-Clark by name.

All previous references had been to an "industrial client" although there was little doubt as to who was involved in the negotiations.

About $550,000 of the total will be for construction of the hangar. This amount would be paid back to the county in the form of rent by Kimberly-Clark. Executive Secretary Alvin Woehler said the rent would have to be $2,700 a month to cover the principal and interest of the financing, and include three cents per square foot rental for the land occupied by the firm and the insurance the county

Paid Over 30 Years.

The money would be paid over a 30-year period, while the county's financing would be over 20 years. This would result in a tax levy of about $6,000 a year to support the financing. However, this also would be paid back before the end of the 30 years.

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, attacked the method in which the negotiating had been handled, although he voted for the resolution.

"We are expected to rubber stamp this because it is good for private industry," Kloes charged. He said supervisors should have the lease contract with the firm in front of them so they know what the terms will be.

"We've criticized the way the federal and state governments handle our tax money. We handle money worse on the local level than anyone else," he added. "We are told to either rub-

Calumet Appropriates Funds

Quaint Store May be Saved

CHILTON — A quaint store in Forest Junction might become a State Historical Society Museum.

Efforts to preserve the Haese Store, which has resisted change throughout its 88 years of operation, were greeted affirmatively Tuesday by the Calumet County Board when it appropriated $3,750 toward purchase of the property.

Whether the appropriation will ever be used depends on the State Legislature's passage of bills providing matching state funds for the purchase. Legislation has been introduced in the State Assembly by Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, and in the State Senate by Robert Warren, R-Green Bay.

The county board, during its October session, rejected a request to provide $5,000 in an effort to preserve the historic building and the Calumet County Historical Society's fund raising efforts have been directed toward another museum project. The county historical society is paying for a new building erected south of here to house the accumulation of antiques from the Klofanda collection.

Views Property

If the state provides the money, the State Historical Society will assume ownership of the property and be responsible for all maintenance and upkeep.

Raymond S. Sivesend, director of the State Historical Society, was at Forest Junction last week and viewed the property at Hephner's request.

In a letter to Ed Rusch, supervisor for the Town of Brillion where the Hease property is located, Sivesend said, "This is truly one of the most exceptional historic sites I have seen in this or any state where such a complete picture of the past remains intact. I was glad to see so much determination on the local scene to make sure this complex will be preserved."

He also said it would be a "terrible loss" to the area if it is lost.

Sivesend said he was enthused with what he saw, and agreed to work with Warren and Hephner in seeking passage of the bill.

If the bill is not passed at this session of the legislature, it will be held in abeyance until the new session begins.

Pioneer Village

The Haese property, often called "The Pioneer Village," is intact and operated until Dec. 2. It has six buildings which housed a variety of businesses and one dwelling.

The late F. G. Haese, owner, sold lumber, coal, roofing, feed, hardware and general merchandise before he died about 40 years ago.

Since then, the late Robert Haese, his son, and his two sisters, also deceased, operated the businesses. Haese was killed in an auto accident near Greenleaf more than two years ago.

There has been a peculiar charm awaiting anyone who visits the Haese general store. In well-kept buildings one may still see the original counters, display cases and shelves of years gone by. In the rear of the store, where the owner and his family resided, is a home housing many antiques.

Interest in preserving this historical landmark was expressed at the board meeting by Lester Keller, president of the Forest Junction Civic League. Mrs. Haese also appeared and spoke in favor of the proposal.

Value of the property is about $15,000. Three-fourths of this amount would be obtained by donations from interested parties. One-fourth would be paid by the State Historical Society. The Haese sisters have agreed to donate $7,500 toward the total purchase price so the cost to the county and state could be reduced to $3,750 each.

The resolution was introduced by Carl Peik, president of the Calumet Historical Society, along with Ed Rusch, Oscar Kossman and Mrs. Dan Butler.

New London Project Grows

Pick Site, Developer For Low-Rent Housing

NEW LONDON — A site and developer for the city's low rental housing program for elderly was selected Monday by the New London Housing Authority.

Both actions, however, are tentative and will not become final until the city's application for a development and a reservation (money grant) has been made by the federal department of Housing and Urban Development

Housing Authority members voted unanimously to name Wendt Cedarholm Tippens, architects, and The Hoffman Company, builder, both of Appleton, as developer.

Site Location

A site located west of Franklin Park on Division Street has been chosen. The site is east of the alley running north and south between Beacon Avenue and Cook Street and along Division Street between Both Beacon Avenue and Cook.

Four homes are included in the area, two of which are rental units, Mayor Harry S. Emans said. An adjoining plot included in the proposal as a garden area wasn't included in the favored site.

Details on building design and costs will be worked out between the housing authority and developer at a later date.

Five developers had submitted proposals to the housing authority on a project which will include a 60 or 120-unit, high-rise building with adequate recreation and work areas.

Housing authority members have been discussing the program in terms of a 60-unit that this is most likely to be development at this time, feeling approved by HUD.

Also Seeking Project

Also seeking the project were Hutter Construction Co., Fond du Lac; Zwack and Peeples Architects and Theodore Utschig, Inc., both of Appleton; James Dewey Nickels Associates, Madison, and Public Facilities, Inc., Madison.

A variety of sites had been offered, including one on the north side of the river. The north side location was ruled out because it is far removed from churches and may possibly be in a floodplain area.

The area west of Franklin Park was termed as adequate as any offered. It was also deemed more suitable because it would disturb fewer existing homes.

Two minor changes in the city's workable program must be made before receiving HUD approval and opening the way for further approval by the federal agency on the low rental program.

The changes include one-and two-family residences being included in the building code and adoption of a fire code. The fire code must be in force a prescribed length of time, six months, before any further action is possible.

Emans said a code is expected to be ready for presentation to the planning commission at a special meeting Monday and for council adoption Tuesday.

Law Agency Rules Back With Authors

Board Blocks Attempt to Push Code Through Without Changes

Efforts of the Courts and Justice Committee to override the Executive Committee's recommendation on proposed rule changes for the sheriff's department were defeated Tuesday morning when the Outagamie County Board refused to waive its five-day notification requirement to act on the ordinance.

The Executive Committee had sent the ordinance back to the Courts and Justice Committee for revision with the authoring committee deciding to submit the unchanged ordinance to the entire board. However, copies of the ordinance did not go out to supervisors five days before the board meeting as required by county board rules.

The vote against waiving the five day rule was 32-12. The ordinance now automatically goes back to the committee.

Object To Rules

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, chairman of the Courts and Justice Committee, said most of the rules outlined in the ordinance were already in existence an had only been slightly modified. There were only 13 new rules, he said.

Marvin Babbitt, Seymour supervisor and a member of the Executive Committee, asked which were the 13 new rules. He then pointed out eight rules which the Executive Committee specifically objected to.

Kloes said some of the rules mentioned by Babbitt have been in existence for many years. "You can send these rules back to 20 committees," Kloes said, "but we won't change a syllable."

Reach Compromise

One of the rules questioned pertained to suspending a member of the department if he is charged with a misdemeanor or felony. Kloes said this was an old rule and the wording was changed from "shall suspend" to "may suspend." This, he said, was necessary to protect the integrity of the department if an employe is under suspicion of a crime while the investigation is taking place.

A compromise was reached on a pay increase for deputy sheriffs when employed by the sheriff on county business. The personnel subcommittee of the Executive Committee had rec-

Damage Tops $800 as Car Hits Truck; Drivers Uninjured

CLINTONVILLE — Property damages were estimated at more than $800 from an auto accident about 10.15 a.m. Monday three miles north of here on U. S. 45. Neither driver was injured.

David L. Charles, 21, St. Francis, told Waupaca County police he was traveling south and was passing two vehicles when Lloyd M. Johnson, 50, 1107 Townsend, Waupaca, was making a left turn with his dump truck.

Charles was unable to return to his lane of traffic and struck the truck from the rear. Damage to the truck was estimated at $10 and $800 to the car.

Waupaca Man Unhurt When Car Hits Deer

WAUPACA — A Waupaca man escaped injury but an estimated $300 damage was caused to his car when it struck and killed a deer four miles east of Iola on State 161 about 11 a.m. Monday.

Robert R. Zilke, 24, 129 Pine St., told county police he was traveling east when the deer jumped out of the ditch and into the path of his car.

Claim Calumet Doesn't Need Investigator

Committee Advises Against Creating New Position

CHILTON — A full-time county investigator is not necessary, the Calumet County Board of Supervisors was told Tuesday afternoon.

The opinion came from Ray Rusch, chairman of the Committee on Protection of Persons and Property following a committee study.

The board then agreed to hire secretarial help in the sheriff's department two days each week in an effort to speed up paper work and give the sheriff more time for investigation activities.

Hire Clerk

Clerical help two half days a week also will be provided for the traffic department to prepare court cases and handle traffic records. It is believed this will allow more time for patrolling by traffic Captain Vic Juno and help eliminate an accumulation of overtime by some of the other patrolmen.

Juno's clerical help also will work two afternoons a week for Civil Defense Director Zeno Endres.

The board authorized a purchase of a Breathalizer to cost about $1,200.

Curtis May Sell New London Plant

Stockholders to Decide Fate Of Firm at Dec. 20 Meeting

NEW LONDON — Curtis Companies, Inc., Clinton, Iowa, has announced to customers and employes that the plant here may be sold in the near future, pending stockholder approval.

Employes were informed of the action Monday by executive vice president Ralph Cross.

Officials said the New London operation will function until it can be sold to a responsible party as a going business.

Officials said they will continue to serve their customers and that no drastic move will be made. Approval to sell will be decided in Clinton on Dec. 20 by the stockholders.

The plant here employs about 100 persons.

The move is part of a rearrangement of the company's corporate structure, which must be approved by the stockholders.

It is not expected to have any drastic effect on the customers or employes of the New London plant, officials said.

School District Purchases Land In Clintonville

$26,500 Total Price; Includes Five Lots, 195 Feet of Frontage

CLINTONVILLE — Purchase of three parcels of property on Waupaca Street for physical education, playground and school facilities was approved Tuesday night at a special meeting attended by 25 school district residents.

The resolution authorizes buying land owned by Mrs. Christine Sieber, 35 Waupaca St.; Mrs. Margaret Moriarity, 45 Waupaca St., and Mrs. Martha Bohman, 41 Waupaca Street. The purchase price totals $26,500 which includes $8,500 for the Sieber property; $11,000, Moriarity, and $7,000, Bohman. The real estate parcels include one lot each for Sieber and Bohman, and three lots for the Moriarity property, for a total of 195 feet frontage on Waupaca Street.

The properties are at the east end of Waupaca Street where it intersects with S. Clinton Avenue. The intention is to raze buildings on the land.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz said his own observation is that any acquisition of property at a reasonable price in any school area is generally recommended because school sites are not as large as they should be for the student population. He said that this was a step in the right direction.

Dead End Property

Harland Kirchner, director of the board of education, presided at the meeting. He asked Sinkewicz about the land now part of Waupaca Street which is a dead end past the properties purchased by the school district.

Mayor Sinkewicz said that in view of the fact that the school would own both sides of the street, the vacation portion of the street reverts back to the owner. The only reservation would be an easement to the city for some of its utilities installations.

Kirchner said the properties would be paid with the $11,000 left in the building fund, the balance to be taken from the cash balance on hand.

The board of education had previously secured options on the properties.

The budget is $172,874 higher than the current year's $322,586 expenditures. To help finance the budget a tax rate of $41.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation will be required. Applied against a total city assessed valuation of $9,500,950 the rate will produce a levy of $394,289.

The city is assessed on about 84 per cent of full value, according to Mrs. Orville Marnocha, city clerk.

A state credit will lower the tax bill about $2.97 per $1,000 of assessed value leaving the net rate of $48.53.

Murphy Hits 27 In 63-41 Victory Over Bay Port

SEYMOUR — Senior guard Dennis Murphy, who went into the game as the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference's leading scorer, poured in 27 points to pace the Seymour Indians to a 63-41 triumph over Bay Port in a league game Tuesday night.

The visiting Pirates jumped off to a 12-6 advantage after the first eight minutes of play, as the Indians started cold. However, Seymour enjoyed a 20-10 margin in the second period to take a 26-22 lead at the half, and ran away from Bay Port in the third period with 23 points to the visitors' seven.

Backing up Murphy's outburst was Steve Mory with 17 points. Dennis O'Donnel took honors for the Pirates with 12 markers.

Seymour is now 2-2 in NEW play and 3-2 for the season, while Bay Port has failed to win in four conference starts.

Alarm System Pays Off In Ogdensburg Fire

OGDENSBURG — A fire alarm system David Bonikowske, route 1, Ogdensburg, installed two years ago paid off Tuesday when a fire broke out in an upstairs bedroom of the Bonikowske farm home.

Extensive damage was caused to one bedroom and there was smoke and water damage to other upstairs bedrooms, but the fire was brought under control by Manawa firemen before it could spread through the house.

Bonikowske said he was alone in the house and sleeping downstairs when he was awakened about 1 a.m. by the fire alarm situated in the upstairs hallway. When he opened the door to the stairway he was met by a cloud of smoke, he said.

The Bonikowske farm is located five miles northeast of Ogdensburg on County Trunk K

When firemen arrived they found the bedroom engulfed in flames but extinguished the blaze before it spread to other rooms. All of the furnishings of the room and a closet were either destroyed or badly damaged.

Cause of the fire which is believed to have started near the closet, has not been determined.

Hilbert Citizens Join School Merger Study

Committee Named To Meet With Chilton, Stockbridge

HILBERT — An advisory committee composed of the Rev. Gene Becker, Leonard Suttner, Armin Hernke, Sylvester Henseler, Edmund Federwitz, Wilmer Schulz, Reuben Ott and Michael Kloeppel was appointed by the board of education at a special session here Monday night.

The committee and board will meet with the school boards of Chilton, Stockbridge and Hilbert and their advisory committees at 8 p.m. Thursday in Chilton High School.

The meeting, recommended by Dr. Burton Kreitlow, director of research of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, following the third in a series of public informational meetings on a three-district merger, will compile necessary information to present to electors before a referendum election.

Dr. Kreitlow recommended that information he assembled on finances, curriculum, available sites and other important data, and that committees be formed from members of the three groups.

Previous to the appointment of Hilbert's advisory committee, the board of education had acted in a liaison capacity with the other two schools, which were originally engaged in consolidation talks when several electors in the Stockbridge district filed petitions for attachment to Chilton.

Weyauwega's winners were John Dean (decision), Dave Austreng (pin), Wally Boelter (decision) and Greg Freer (decision). Manawa's Steve Bauer and Weyauwega's Bob Harzke fought to a draw.

Waupaca Firemen Cool Smoking Space Heater

Chilton Propane Bottler

Firm's Alarm to Link With Sheriff's Office

CHILTON — The Calumet County Board Tuesday authorized the installation of a telephone warning device between the Chilton Metal Products Company and sheriff's office at Tuesday's session.

The device will be connected to the large furnaces used to braze propane gas tanks. Furnaces must be kept at a precise temperature throughout this process and any sudden fluctuation would set off the alarm at the sheriff's office.

The radio operator on duty could call the necessary personnel to warn of the danger. Aside from the danger, any sudden change in temperatures also would be costly to the company, as far as this process is concerned. The equipment used for this brazing costs about $100,000

Presently the warning system from the firm is connected to the New Holstein Police Department. However, company officials felt it would be better if the connection could be made in Chilton.

Off Period

During the day, until about 12:30 a.m., the furnaces are checked by maintenance men. However, John Weiland, head of the company, told the board members that from 12:30 to 5:30 a.m. and on weekends no one was at the plant to check the furnaces. This period was their prime concern, he said.

The connection would be no expense to the county, only the service involved, that of the operator making a call when necessary.

The alarm system at New Holstein will be discontinued when the change is completed at Chilton.

Supervisors Delay Mosquito Hill Plan

Committee to Continue Seeking Land Options for Park Site

Mosquito Hill park project was laid to rest for another month by the Outagamie County Board Tuesday, but its park and recreation committee indicated it would continue efforts to acquire the property.

By a 29-15 vote, on a motion by Appleton Supv. Patrick Mares, the board postponed until January a resolution to appropriate funds for the land purchase. The motion was seconded by Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke, Kaukauna, a member of the parks committee and an opponent of the project.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, and chairman of the parks committee, reported the county now has 343 acres of the 465-acre hill site under option at a total price of $46,750. Two major parcels remain to be optioned.

Seek Agreement

DeBruin added the committee will not seek to obtain about 40 acres of land owned by Raymond Kamps. "There is no reason we have to have this part of the hill. The county does not want a $50,000 home." However, it was indicated the committee may seek an agreement with Kamps to obtain a small parcel of his land on the north side of the hill.

The original resolution for Mosquito Hill called for an appropriation of $75,000. DeBruin moved to have this reduced to $50,000 to cover the land under option. Supv. Clarence Miller, Appleton, sought to have it further reduced to $35,000 — the maximum amount the county can obtain in Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funds. Neither amendment reached a vote.

DeBruin said they needed the $50,000 to pay for the parcels and they would then be reimbursed from LAWCON funds "The main thing we've got to do now is have the land and nail down the project," DeBruin stressed.

Plot Needed

Supv. Walter Fredricks, New London, in whose district the hill is located, said he favored the park site but added, "we can't have skiing and other winter sports on the hill without the acquisition of plot one. We need this to make the project complete." Plot one is the 20 acre parcel not yet under option. It is to the west of the Kamps property.

"What we have now," Mares said, "is a lot of high-priced swamp," referring to the largest parcel of land which is in lowlands along the south side of the hill.

DeBruin defended acquisition of this land saying, "we were thinking of acquiring wild, natural land, which is what this site possesses."

Other Support

Other support for the acquisition of the park came from Supvs. Patrick Heenan and George Greisch, both of Appleton, and Stanley Gillespie, Town of Grand Chute.

Gillespie said he had never encountered a project that had generated more favorable enthusiasm throughout the county. "You can count on my vote," he added. Heenan felt that by acquiring the site now the county could develop it on a "pay-as-you-go" plan. Greisch added that "recreation is for the generations to come and this should be considered."

Commission Okays Bay UW Land

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Building Commission Monday approved the purchase of a four and one half acre tract on Green Bay's shore for an addition to the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

The tract, which contains a frame building with 3,000 square feet of usable floor space, will be purchased from St. Mary Hospital in the city for $28,175.

The building will be used to supply temporary office space to the administration of the campus which is scheduled to open in September, 1969, and will replace previously planned temporary quarters in the Riviera Club, a former nightspot on the campus site.

Also approved was a plan presented by the State Department of Health and Social Services for construction of a $772,000 addition to the school for boys at Wales.

Other actions in the $2.4 million list of approved items include:

— Refusal to start for one month condemnation proceedings for a single property needed for Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh expansion. At the urgings of Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, the agency staff will attempt to purchase the property from its owner. The land is needed for railroad track and turnout relocation.

— The return of $93,311 to the commission The funds had been previously allocated for the purchase of a combination restaurant-laundry in Oshkosh. but Martin pointed out that the land is not needed by the state university at this time, and that the purchase should not be made.

Santa Claus visited with all the children and gave them gifts at the party of the Clintonville Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary. Three-month-old Marty Allen Jacoby, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jacoby, Clintonville, had his turn to sit on Santa's lap and receive a gift like all the others. (Laib Photo) ommended increasing the pay to $2 per hour from the present $1.50. However, the Courts and Justice Committee had sought to have the pay increased to $2.50. A compromise at $2.25 per hour was passed by a 34-9 vote.

The vote brought an outburst from Supv. Clarence Miller, Appleton, who voted against the pay increase, against fellow Appleton Supv. Art Hoolihan, who voted for the increase.

Miller noted that Hoolihan had voted against increasing the per diem for supervisors last month and now favored the increase for deputies. "Are you looking for favors?" Miller asked.

Some supervisors expressed concern over possible county liability when deputies are working at dance halls or other private establishments. Sheriff Norbert Marx assured the board that the concern hiring the deputy is responsible for paying him and providing insurance coverage.

County to Finance Airport Expansion

ber stamp or we are against industry."

Look to Future

He claimed the board was failing to look to the future. "Who is to say that in the future we will not have a tri-county government. It will look kind of foolish having two multi-million dollar airports in the same county," he said.

Kloes charged that industry was playing the two counties against each other. He then demanded to know how the approach was made and how the negotiations were handled.

An angry Esler countered that Kloes had been wasting the county board's time. "You have never brought in anything constructive," Esler charged. The county board chairman said he had tried to explain the background to Kloes' committee but that Kloes would not let him.

Esler said the firm had approached him on the possible move and he and board vice chairman Marvin Babbitt, zseymour, later met with Kimberly-Clark's president and chairman of the board. He said he reported the meeting to the Airport Committee and "they took over."

Object to Financing

Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke, Kaukauna, objected to the county's financing the project. "Why pay for an industry in another county," he said. "Just lease them the land and let them build their hangar. Basler is doing this at Winnebago County." (Warren Basler is the fixed base operator at the Winnebago County Airport and is building a $100,000 hangar on airport land.)

Supv. Stanley Gillespie, Town of Grand Chute, a member of the Airport Committee—who directed his remarks to Kloes, said, "you can't make a mistake doing nothing. If you do enough of nothing you dry up and die."

He was supported by Supvs Kurt Koletzke, Appleton, and Sylvester Lenz, Kimberly. "You cannot progress without a good airport." Koletzke said. "We must either go ahead or backward. We can't stand still." Lenz also urged passage of the resolution. "They need us and we need them," he said.

Motion Withdrawn

Kloes again objected to the county's building the hangar for Kimberly-Clark. "Who will we build for next?" he asked. He said the county's airport consultants, Ralph Burke Associates, have recommended that building on the airport be done by private industry. "How much can we expect of the taxpayers?" Kloes asked.

Woehler, in breaking down the costs of each item, said they hoped the actual costs would be considerably less than the estimates. He said because of the short time available, the estimates had been based on Chicago market prices.

Van Dyke sought to have the resolution sent back to committee for another month but withdrew his motion when he was assured by Esler that the Executive Committee would come back before the board before any financing is undertaken. "We won't borrow the money if we don't get a signed contract," Esler promised.

ETV System Is Approved By Assembly

MADISON (AP)— An educational television network for Wisconsin has won preliminary approval by an overwhelming margin in the state Assembly.

The Lower House Tuesday endorsed a bill which calls for construction of educational television stations in the vicinities of Wausau, Colfax, La Crosse and Appleton.

Television translators would be erected in the areas of Platteville and Ashland to beam programs to those areas.

The measure was sent to the Joint Finance Committee after the Assembly rejected an amendment to eliminate reference to any of the areas in the running for the television facilities The bill was ordered engrossed on an 84-10 vote

McKay Objections

"I don't see why we should decide that we will have six separate television facilities," Majority Leader J. Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, said. The idea behind the bill, he added, "should be to provide educational television coverage for the entire state."

Opposition to McKay's amendment was voiced by his own leader, Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, who said he wanted the areas specified because, "I've seen bureaucracy work."

Under the bill, a 21-member commission would be appointed by the governor to decide the precise locations of the facilities.

The bill was amended to prohibit use of the television stations for partisan political purposes or to influence the outcome of legislation.

Amendment Rejected

The Lower House rejected an amendment by Assemblyman Jack Steinhibler, R-Oshkosh, calling for one of the stations to be located at Oshkosh.

Steinhilber offered the amendment as a compromise between the cities of Appleton and Green Bay.

Under the bill, the University of Wisconsin's station in Madison, WHY, and several stations in Milwaukee would be connected for certain programs.

Firemen Pick Club Officers

NEW LONDON — Members of the volunteer fire department recently elected firemen's club officers. The club officers have nothing to do with the working portion of the department.

Robert Flease was elected president; James Besaw, vice president; Melvin Borchardt, secretary, and Ruben Voss, treasurer.

Robert Besaw said two additional lieutenants will be named after the first of the year.

Nixon Courting Both Sides in New York

Speech at Javits Fund Raising Dinner Indicates Partial Acceptance by GOP

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — One factor explaining the excitement over the sell-out fund-raising dinner for Senator Jacob Javits Dec. 11 was the presence of Richard M. Nixon as one of Javits's honor guests.

The occasion was unprecedented, because not once since Nixon came to live in the politically hostile land of New York in 1963 has he been asked to attend a local Republican function.

Evans

Thus the mere fact that Nixon not only was in attendance but made one of four speeches (with Governor Nelson Rockefeller, Mayor John V. Lindsay, and old-timer Thomas E. Dewey) aroused considerable excitement. Up to now, Nixon has been treated by the liberal hierarchy that runs the Republican party here as a leper.

The ostensible purpose behind Javits's invitation to Nixon was to add a touch of glamor. Gov. George Romney of Michigan was also invited. With the two leading contenders for the Republican Presidential nomination present, an element of drama entered the fund-raising dinner for Javits's re-election bid to a third term in the senate. Most fund-raisers are drab, bleak affairs.

Romney Off On Trip

Romney, however, apparently could not delay his trip to Europe, thus leaving the field to Nixon alone.

But if the ostensible purpose of inviting Nixon and Romney was to heighten the drama of the Javits fund-raiser, the real purpose, both of the invitation and its acceptance, was based on hard political reality, particularly from Nixon's standpoint.

Nixon tentatively decided long ago that he would not repeat Barry Goldwater's performance here in 1964. Nixon decided not to put up pro-Nixon delegates against organization (Rockefeller-Javits) delegates in contests for New York's 92 seats at the national convention next year.

Goldwater spent an estimated $40,000 to finance less than a dozen delegate contests, and won five. Under Nixon's current strategy, there is a calculated decision not to interfere with the state Republican organization. For example, Nixon has specifically disavowed maverick conservative Republican Vincent Leibell, a 1964 Goldwater delegate who is running as a pro-Nixon delegate in the 22nd Assembly District.

Instead of beating his head against a stone wall, and further raising the already high level of hostility to him among liberal Republicans here, Nixon is playing it cool, quietly making contacts among the liberals whenever the occasion presents itself.

Thus key Nixon operative Charles McWhorter, a shrewd and youthful Nixon ally of long standing who knows New York intimately, has taken pains to keep the Rockefeller-Javits men tuned in on the Nixon campaign. Contacts with the liberals by McWhorter and public relations executive William Safire, a Republican moderate now doing numerous New York chores for Nixon, are low-key and effective, and their principal target is Javits, not Rockefeller.

Nixon knows that if he gets nominated he won't have a Chinaman's chance to carry New York without the closest link to Javits's own campaign. In fact, even if Javits agreed to such a link, which is highly doubtful, Nixon's prospect in New York would be far less than 50-50.

Might Split Party

Nevertheless, any move by Nixon now that would tend to split the Republican party and encourage anti-Javits conservatives would result in an anti-Nixon boycott by the Rockefeller Javits regulars and make a mockery of his presidential prospects here, if he is nominated.

Accordingly, the presence of Nixon at Javits's fund-raising dinner publicly removes Nixon from the anti-Javits campaign now being planned both by the Conservative party and by conservatives within the Republican party. The Conservative party is stronger and far better organized than ever before. An assault against Javits either in the primary or the general election, is certain. But Nixon (who is backed for the presidential nomination by the Conservative party) has now badly hurt the conservatives' cause by going to Javits's dinner.

For Nixon, there is an obvious element of risk in this. Conservatives not only here but around the country are watching closely for any sign of Nixon going soft on the liberals. If they decide he's playing games with them, they have an obvious alternative — California's impeccably right-wing Governor Ronald Reagan.

Watchdogs Mix Good With Bad

VIENNA (AP) — Two watchdogs guarding the premises of a trucking firm were unable to distinguish between good and bad guys. They let a thief sneak away with a bunch of stolen tires but attacked a policeman who came to investigate the theft.

Police figured the thief was someone well known to the dogs and soon arrested an ex-employe.

Indian Prime Minister Is Caught 'Shaking' His National Image

NEW DELHI (AP) — Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai told a group of students they should not imitate the West. Among other things, he said they should discard the handshake and do the Indian "namaskar" with hands folded in front of the body.

The next day, he was photographed shaking hands with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Newspapers were deluged with letters to the editor, criticizing Desai and pointing out that he not only was inconsistent, but also that in India it is bad manners to shake hands with a woman.

Court Sets Hearing For Youth Charged In Appleton Burglary

Gary Rowe, 18, 621½ Third St., will have a preliminary hearing Dec. 22 on a charge of burglarizing a construction building at Soldiers Square parking ramp last April 8.

Rowe, arrested following investigation by Appleton detectives, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday, but then filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Gustave J. Keller. The case was then assigned to Judge Raymond P. Dohr who found Rowe indigent and named Attorney Roger Clark at county expense.

Rowe's attorney requested the bond be reduced from $1,500, and Judge Dohr ordered a bail bond study. Rowe is in jail in the meantime, unable to post bond.

Property Owner Objects To Lack of City Services

Another owner of property on the south bank of the Fox River in Appleton at the county line has objected because city services are not available to the site.

Mr. and Mrs. Armin A. Schultz, according to a letter sent to the city council by a Neenah realtor, requested a permit to build on the lot but were refused.

Under the law, a permit can only be granted for a building where municipal services are in.

This is not the case in the isolated area straddling on the Outagamie - Winnebago County line.

Last week, Mr. and Mrs Peter F. Kools notified officials that they would like to get city services for their home located in the same area. The drawback is that the city would have to pass through the Town of Menasha to get to the property.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz asked to meet with a city council committee to discuss their problem. So have Mr. and Mrs. Kools.

SALUTE

A COLUMN FOR DRAFTEES, SERVICEMEN AND VETERANS

Before You Marry a G.I. in Hawaii

BY JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON — If you're engaged to a serviceman in Vietnam and planning a wedding while he is on Rest and Recreation in Hawaii, here are some guidelines to save you delay and disappointment.

There is a four-day waiting period after application for the license, but this may be waived by the Honolulu district court.

Applicants under 20 need the consent of both parents and if they are 21 or younger, a birth certificate is required. Divorced applicants need a signed and sealed divorce certificate. A physician's examination and blood test are required.

If you want more detailed information, write the Research Planning and Statistics Office, Marriage License Section, P.O. Box 3378, Honolulu, Hawaii, 96801.

Favorite Place

Hawaii is reported to be the favorite reunion spot for Vietnam soldiers and their wives. Australia is becoming a popular spot too, and will be even more so in the months ahead, but you may find the cost prohibitive.

Some American and Australian airlines have reduced fares from the West Coast to Australia to about $750 This is in contrast to the special round trip fare from the West Coast to Hawaii of about $165.

The Army Community Service recently surveyed more than 1,000 wives in Hawaii and a sample of wives on the mainland and most found the Hawaii R&R generally well-run. Some wives suggested that because of the expense involved their husbands get two weeks in the islands instead of one. And a big problem was communications between husbands and wives beforehand.

The Hawaii Visitors Bureau estimates more than 82,000 military men will take R&R in the islands this year and will be joined by about 61,500 dependents.

Changes in the Rules

The Army now is making it easier for enlisted men and officers to qualify under the rule that a man with less than 90 days service after service in Vietnam can get out immediately. Most of these will be junior officers and draftees who were sent to Vietnam six to nine months after entering the Army

Previously, if you had more than 90 days and less than six months to go, you could qualify for the early out by staying in Vietnam for at least one-half of your remaining tour of service. Now you can extend just long enough to qualify — even one day early.

Another new Army rule says a man can be assigned to overseas duty if he has only six months of his hitch left and his rank is sergeant or above This is a reduction from the nine month requirement for short tour areas other than Vietnam and 12 months for long tour areas.

The Air Force has shifted some of its policies to maintain its practice of not sending an officer to Southeast Asia for a second involuntary tour until persons of similar skill have served there.

In addition, the Air Force no longer requires that a man assigned to Southeast Asia return to the United States by the end of his 365th day. Previously, this meant this duty would end a month before rotation. Now men are being returned in the 12th month following departure from the United States, which enables it to use a man there 7 to 10 days longer and provides an overlap of key supervisory personnel.

The Air Force also has designated more than 100 additional airman skills as necessary for Southeast Asia This will prevent assignment to other areas of men with these skills who have not served in the war zone.

The Navy and Marine Corps have extended selective deferment of the voluntary retirement and resignations of officers needed in Vietnam. However, this will not affect their normal length of tours in Vietnam unless a man voluntarily extends.

Firemen, Police Deferments

Policemen and firemen would be deferred from the draft under a bill introduced by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, (R-Mich.). Griffin said a survey has revealed shortages of the public servants in many cities.

POW Savings

Congress has passed legislation to permit the Defense Department to set aside in savings accounts, with 10 per cent a year interest, the payments due U.S. servicemen missing or held prisoner.

Madame General

This country will soon have its first woman general and admiral. A new law permits the heads of the women's military services to get flag rank. This means the women's services of the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps can become generals and the commandant of the WAVES an admiral. Previously, the highest rank held by these women was colonel, or captain in the case of the WAVES.

Gripe Poll

The Pentagon is making a sample survey of about 50,000 enlisted men of all services to find out what they think of the promotion system — including what they know about it and how they get information on it.

G. I. Q. BOX

Dear Jerry:

My son completed high school but failed to graduate because of one subject. He enlisted in the navy and immediately took the course through it passing with a high grade. He tried to get a high school diploma only to be told he had to wait until he is 21 — which is four years. This was in Illinois. Is there any way a serviceman can obtain a diploma without waiting, or is this a rule only in some states.

Mrs. TMK

Dear Mrs. TMK:

The armed services education program offers no promise of a diploma. It gives courses and it is up to each state to decide whether to issue a diploma or a certificate or equivalency. The rules vary from state to state.

Dear Jerry:

Would membership in the John Birch Society preclude a cadet from receiving a commission? If not, would membership in the Society have any adverse effect upon his advancement? Is the security clearance form listing specific organizations a matter of public reord?

Mrs. DJD, Rock Tavern, N.Y.

Mrs DJD·

The John Birch society is not on the list of organizations on the form. Membership would have no overt effect on a man's career but it's impossible to say what covert or unintentional effect membership in any organization might have since rating officers view people through their own experiences, however standardized the system may be. The list of organiations on the form is not classified.

Dear Jerry:

I am a Korean veteran. Would I still be eligible for a GI loan?

CJ, Sherman, Tex

Dear CJ:

Eligibility is governed by the same formula as applies to World War II veterans, that is 10 years from discharge or release from active duty plus an additional period of one year for each three months of active duty in the Korean conflict. However, all entitlements are now scheduled to end Jan. 31, 1975.

Dear Jerry:

Our son has just received his orders that he is being sent to Vietnam. He has only eight months left of his two years in the Army. Will he have to stay only his eight months or will they keep him the full year that most men serve.

NT, Golden City, Mo.

Dear NT.

He'll serve only the eight months, probably leaving a week before the end of that time, to be released at the end of his two years.
